NEW SYSTEM USED

Classes Elect Delegates To Represent Them In Council

Louis Werfel '37, was reelected to the presidency of the S. O. Y. in the first elections held under the new system of representation recently adopted by the S. O. Y. Council.

Sholom Novoseller '40 was chosen as vice-president and Morris Schnall '40 as secretary. Rahmin Zion '39 and Samuel Fox '40 were reelected dining room manager and Gabai respectively.

According to the new plan of voting, all students in the Yeshiva were divided into Juniors, Intermediates, and Senior divisions, each one of which chose four delegates as its representative in the Council. The students elected in the Senior division were: Leonard Rosenfeld '37, Harry Zwick '38, Frank Schoenfeld '39, and Hyman Friedman '36.

In the Intermediate division the following candidates were successful: Sirney Merrin '40, Chaim Denburg '42, Samuel Rubenstein '42, and Samuel Zeitchik.

The closest vote in the election was held in the Junior division in which Seymour Krevsky '40 and Meyer Shapiro '40 were tied for second and third places. The other students elected in this group were: Mayer Abromowitz '40 and Seigel.

HARTSTEIN NAMED SEC'Y OF FACULTY

Jacob I. Hartstein, registrar, was appointed secretary of the faculty of Yeshiva College last Sunday, Professor Moses L. Isaacs, assistant to the president, announced. The following faculty committee appointments for the year 1938-39 were also made known:

The Faculty-Student Relations Committee, composed of three faculty members and three student representatives, consists of Profs. Isaacs, Damon and Churgin. The student members are A. Leo Levin '39, Arnold J. Miller '39, and Morris A. Landes '39. The Committee on Course and Standings is composed of Profs. Flink, Damon and Registrar Hartstein. The Committee on Admission and Scholarships has as its members Profs. Belkin, Ginsburg, and Mr. Hartstein.

The Curriculum Committee, which this year will endeavor to expand the curriculum of the college, includes the following faculty members: Drs. Churgin, Liptzin, Litman, Lowan, and Margolish. Mr. Linn and Mr. Hartstein are also members of the committee.

Telegrams Dispatched To Executive Mansion

Numerous telegrams petitioning President Roosevelt to protest against the persecution of Jews in Nazi Germany and to liberalize the immigration laws involving political and religious refugees were dispatched Monday by classes of Yeshiva College in accordance with a suggestion made by Dr. Sol Liptzin, head of the German Department.

The messages beseeched the President to reveal the disapproval of the United States against Nazi oppression by a strongly worded dispatch to Hitler and also to request England to allow as many Jewish refugees as possible to enter Palestine.

Classes Grouped In Masmid's Drive

Dinner Awarded Victors;
Prizes For Ads

The three lower classes have been divided into eleven competitive groups as part of the Masmid tenth annual campaign to secure advertisements and literary material, Morris A. Landes '39, editorial-in-chief, announced. The winning group will be invited to attend the Masmid's annual banquet at the end of the school year.

A prize of ten percentum of the collected advertisements of the individual will be awarded any man, including the seniors, who procures twenty dollars or more in advertising copy.

The members of groups are urged to hand in the topics of their literary articles before December 11.

The groups and leaders are listed on the Student Council bulletin board on the third floor of the College building.

Frosh Sentiment Gauged By Query

The annual Commentator questionnaire revealed that as usual the majority of the Frosh got their initiation into Yeshiva life via the T. A., while their initiation into life itself was experienced in all parts of the globe, with America, Poland, Rumania, and Austria as the most productive, Yeshivally speaking, countries.

The average Frosh saw the light for the first time about seventeen years and four months ago—and, one upper classman remarks, have not seen it since.

Chaim Weitzman is acclaimed by all as the greatest Jewish leader. For leader of American Jewry, there is some controversy, with Stephen S. Wise running the lead over Leon Gellman. (Ezra Gellman is a member of the freshman class. Editor's note.)

On national and international events the opinions are varied. Some would like more government regulation; some, less. Some prefer isolationism as the United States' foreign policy; some do not.

A surprising majority would fight in case of war on foreign

Y. C. Anniversary
To Be Celebrated
At Astor Dec. 13

Plans For Affair Made
At Luncheon Given
By J. D. Sturn

A dinner to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Yeshiva College will be held Sunday night December 11, at 7 p.m., in the Hotel Astor on 44th Street and Broadway. A subscription of $50 per couple will be charged for the dinner, the proceeds of which will go towards the scholarship fund of the college.

Plans for the dinner were drawn up at a luncheon given last Thursday by J. David Stern, publisher of the N. Y. Post and the Philadelphia Record and chairman of the celebration committee. The luncheon was attended by approximately sixty committee members, officials, and friends of the college.

The speakers who were introduced by Mr. Stern, included Commissioner of Investigation William B. Herlands, Representative Sol Bloom and Rabbi Leo Jung, a member of the faculty.

Honorary chairmen of the committee are Samuel Levy, former president of the Borough of Manhattan; Dr. Bernard Revel, president of Yeshiva College, and Maurice Levin, chairman of the Yeshiva College, sponsors' committee, and executive head of Hearn's Department Store.

Announcements

All seniors are requested to arrange appointments with Mr. Hartstein as soon as possible in order to go over their official records. Such actions will avoid complications at the end of the year, the registrar stated.

Dr. Arnold Lowan will deliver an elementary lecture on the Theory of Relativity before the American Institute tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Lincoln building, 60 East 42nd Street.

The second meeting of the International Relations Club will take place on Tuesday, November 22, in the Dormitory Reception Hall.

Rochester U. Services

Dr. Leo Jung, Professor of Jewish Ethics at Yeshiva College, conducted services in the Chapel of the University of Rochester last Sunday afternoon. The topic of his sermon was "Sinai and Washington."

Dr. Jung's appearance is the second in a series of six services to be conducted by leaders of various religious denominations at the Rochester campus.

Class Nite Social Altered This Year

Three Events To Replace
Single Affair of Past

Three competitive social affairs featuring a half hour of entertainment by each class of the college will take the place of the single Class Nite introduced last year as an annual social of the student body. The first of these events will take place Monday evening, November 28, in the Dormitory Reception Hall.

Points on a 5, 3, 2, 1 basis will be awarded by the judges to the classes at each affair and the class having the most points at the end of the year will be awarded the Class Night Banner for 1939.

The admission fee will be based on the weight of each person admitted. One cent will be charged for each fifteen pounds, with a minimum charge of ten cents.

Assembly Hears Peace Talk Today

Dr. Solomon Flink, Assistant Professor of Economics at Yeshiva College, and Gerson Appel '38, president of last year's Student Council, will address the student body in a peace assembly today at 3:15 p.m. in the Dormitory Reception Hall.

The gathering, which is a semi-annual event at Yeshiva, is being held as part of the commemoration of the 20th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice. It is in line with the general movement in many colleges of the United States to present before their students the pressing problems of war and peace.

In the past, peace assemblies at Yeshiva have been featured by addresses by prominent columnists and men of letters as well as by several members of the faculty.

Dr. Flink, who has been connected with the institution for several years, has been lecturing in recent months at various gatherings throughout the country. He is also a member of the faculty of the University of Newark and has held several government posts concerning economic problems.

DR. REVEL SEEN

Permanent Committee To Supervise Affairs Of Cafeteria

After almost two months of bitter strife and recriminations, the dining room situation saw its culmination when the student bodies of both the Yeshiva and the Beth Medrash decided last Monday to discontinue the official boycott which they had voted unanimously on Thursday, November 4.

The decision was reached following an impressive mass meeting held on Sunday at 4:15 p.m. in the synagogue before one of the largest turn-outs of the students ever witnessed in the annals of Yeshiva. Heated speeches by A. Leo Levin, president of the college student body, who favored the lifting of the boycott, and by Jacob Bronstein '40, who opposed the return of the concessionaire, Mr. Tennenbaum, under any circumstances, were heard by the crowded assembly. The meeting was then adjourned by Levin, who presided, and a vote by classes was called for the next day.

During the evening a committee of students visited the home of President Bernard Revel and obtained from him a written statement agreeing to the establishment of a "permanent" committee of three to maintain control of the dining room and to be composed of a representative (Please turn to Page Four.)

RESULTS CLOSE IN POPULARITY POLL

For the second consecutive year, A. Leo Levin '39, president of the student body, and Arnold J. Miller, editor of the Commentator, were victorious in the "Who's Who on the Campus" poll conducted by the Commentator last week.

Jerome Kestenbaum '39, managing editor of the Commentator, and Morris A. Landes '39, editor of the Masmid, followed in that order, with Gilbert Klaperman '40, president of the Junior class, and Philip Kaplan '39, news-editor of the Commentator, in fifth and sixth place respectively.

A short biography of each of these six students will be included in the 1939 edition of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," published at Alabama University annually.

Only three votes separated the first and second places in a vote in which a large percentage of the student body took part. The contest between fifth and sixth place was settled by a single vote.

Jacob Goldman '40 and Frank Schoenfeld '39 were the runners-up in the selection, although they were far behind the victorious candidates.

The selections this year were to be made by Mr. Hartstein, according to a ruling by the directors of the "Who's Who." However, he allowed that privilege to the student body and then approved the students chosen.

grounds for his discharge, the bond would provide security against any possibility of sabotage of utensils during the 30 days of grace allotted the caterer following notice to leave and at the same time cover the cost of any Yeshiva property which he might take with him on leaving.

In this connection it is of great importance that the committee establish now the true ownership of all disputed items attached to the dining room. A complete inventory of all property should be taken.

Now it is realized that the cessation of the boycott on such favorable terms as to have saved the united and determined fight of the student body not to say will at the same time be accompanied by a cessation of the undesirable and harmful interference by outside factors, then the wisdom underlying the decision of the students to make the boycott will be more readily seen. The desire to see the return of Yeshiva's caterer against his would-be assailants and the return of the dining room to the student body is a responsibility which the student body must assume.

While technical matters pertaining to the dining room may have been settled, nevertheless several important considerations continue to persist. The prolonged silence on the part of Max Jung has been the cause for much uneasiness. We realize it is believed that her silence indicates an antipathy to the wishes of the students for Max Jung has labored earnestly and devotedly in the past to preclude any abandonment of the interests of the students now. We need her continued support without it we will have suffered a serious setback indeed in our prolonged fight.

PREVUES AND VIEWS

By MAX KLEJMAN

Now that Orson Welles has stopped scaring multitudes on the air, he returns to the Mercury Theatre in an unsuccessful attempt to create drama. The Mercury Theatre's first setback is "Danton's Death," written in 1945 by Georg Buchner, a young revolutionary student who died at the early age of 22.

Danton's Death deals with the latter stages of the French Revolution when the leaders were turning on each other. Specifically it is the story of Danton's betrayal by the fanatical Robespierre played by Vladimir Sokoloff, who played the same role eleven years ago under Max Reinhardt. As presented by the Mercury company "Danton's Death" is a startling framework for a play but not a play. No illumination upon the bloody ferment of the French Revolution is given in the stage lighting and direction. Mr. Welles has produced some startling effects. The action takes place in spots of light in front of a cyclorama which is made up of hundreds of skulls.

While the production is brilliant and at rare intervals appearing it has apparently not been thought out sufficiently. What appears on the stage bears the stamp of Welles' love affair with the requirements of the requirements of theater which demands a good narrative in addition to scheming plots using platforms and tallied monologues entrance upon the matter of the stage.

Orson Welles brings the interrupted play of eighty minutes to a close with an effective theatrical speed in scenes of speeches. Even so by the methods of the natural course of events from stage, audience and speeches and it is less natural that they should be in huge numbers from political upheavals.

In The Editors Mail Box

To the Editor of the Commentator:
Dear Sir: After discussing the health problem which exists in the institution with Dr. David M. Epstein, Supervisor of Yeshiva College, I was enlightened on many aspects of the problem which I think should be of great importance to the students.
Concerning the immediate situation, it should be pointed out that in the past the medical staff has never been given the opportunity of taking certain measures to safeguard the health of the student body. There ought to be in conjunction with the committee which is to be appointed to handle the catering a health supervision under the guidance of Dr. Epstein.
Another important point to be noted is that the medical staff has not been given the opportunity of taking certain measures to safeguard the health of the student body. There ought to be in conjunction with the committee which is to be appointed to handle the catering a health supervision under the guidance of Dr. Epstein.

MAYBE I'M WRONG

By MAXIMILIAN A. LANDES

... and the Nazis took posters in Jewish stores bearing the legend: "Germans, protect yourselves!"
Sava Ben...

In a bitter plea between Poland and Germany, hundreds of wretched figures huddle close to hide out the cold. United by a common bond of misery, the pitiful wretches lose their individual identity and become but parts of a swirling mass of calamity. Out of the mass, one grey-beard—the only one who still prays—rises. He raises a pair of trembling, suppliant hands heavenward. His lips fashion the Hebrew notes, but no sound do they utter. He sees his hands fall hopelessly to his sides. An involuntary shiver shakes the man.
"Germans, protect yourselves!"

Sweet, lilting harmonies in rhythm with the spheres issue from between yellow-stained hairs that cover a wrinkled face exposed in triumph here—a crest of a window. A burst of a bomb—in the ruin of a synagogue he illumined the contradiction between the Rabin and the Barvis.
"Germans, protect yourselves!"

First Rabin, cradling in their great beyond the monuments of the world's immortal. The culture of centuries is led to fire, but the "anti-semitism" is demonstrated with even one spot of humanity.
"Germans, protect yourselves!"

A babe is snatched from a mother's breast, a infant stolen from a wife's embrace, a grandfathers torn from his heart from his hugs—endure a living hell. One must be part of the world and all. Only a Jew is a Barvis, can survive.
And German protect themselves.

A Jew must pay for the things he has breathing, a Jew must pay for his crimes and pay for his virtues. A Jew must pay for having damages inflicted on him.
For noble German, must protect themselves.

God Almighty, what will the German say protecting themselves?

Book Re-Marks

Thanks to the Editor of Commentator, we are able to tell you from time to time, news of the library, recent acquisitions, and notes of general interest . . . Among some very fine and "meaty" books recently purchased are Starling's "Human Physiology" and the latest edition of Howell's "Textbook of Physiology" . . . Dr. Liptzin's stooges may be interested to know, now that "exams" are approaching, that we have some good review books, Moulton's "World Literature" and Burton Rascoe's "Titans of Literature"; crammers, take notice . . . The results of last week's election may cause certain of our students to compare the Roosevelt administration with the late Hoover administration; of special interest in this connection is "The Hoover Policies" by Ray Lyman Wilbur and Arthur M. Hyde, both former members of Hoover's cabinet. Incidentally, the former is president of Stanford University, which this week was given a new $500,000 Education building by Professor Cubberley. The "pin money" was the fruit of the many books on Education which he wrote and edited. Education students, we have many of Cubberley's books—they are worth more than a cursory glance . . . Dr. Litman, good things come to those who wait—you always wanted Gierke's "Political of the middle age"; well, we have it . . . It seems that students of the Sociology class and the Philosophy class are a bit befuddled by the clashing views expressed by their instructors with regard to what Rousseau says about the individual and society; we would suggest that they go back to primary sources and read the "Social Contract"—we have it . . . We always knew that "amor vincit omnia" (is that correct, Prof. Litman?), but never dreamt that a student would join the library staff for love (not of the library). A few days ago a shy student walked over to Mr. Goldberg, and made application for the staff, saying that a certain young lady had expressed an interest in his joining the library personnel. Love is grand!

Yeshiva Quintet Scores 37-21 Triumph Over Bnai Israel

Sporting a revamped team, Yeshiva's quintet started the basketball season by turning back B'nai Israel in an exhibition game with a 33 to 27 victory at the former's court last Monday night. The game was fast from the outset and foreshadowed an exciting evening for the Yeshivaites who were constantly pressed by the visitors' speedy attack. Only in the last minute, when Captain Koslovsky sank two baskets, was Yeshiva assured of a victory. In the first half Yeshiva held its own as a result of the outstanding versatility of "Sharp" Jaret who garnered seven points. As Esterson sank a basket near the end of the second quarter the visitors unleashed a fiery attack netting two baskets. The ball kept under our hoop as the resting whistle blew with Yeshiva leading 19-11. As the teams returned B'nai Israel settled down and outshined

Yeshiva with a brilliant passing and shooting to score nine points. Midway through the quarter "Cap" Koslovsky's beautiful shot from mid-court drew the applause of the onlookers. As the teams were heading down the home-stretch the visitors again kept crowding Yeshiva in its own court with Moskowitz, high scorer of the visitors, tallying twice. The whistle saw Yeshiva tramping off with a 33-27 victory.

The box score:

Frosh, Seniors Victors Of First Intramurals

Led by Captain Perlmutter, who was high scorer with six points, the Sophs trounced the Yearlings by the score of 19-16 to open the intramural schedule of the current term. In the second half of the twin bill the Seniors decisively overran the puny Juniors with a 17-7 victory. The Seniors were led by Abowitz and Sklarin who scored seven and six points respectively, and were abetted by the usual Elephant stampede.

(Continued from Page Two.) To expect the student to pay the regular fee for these calls is too much. But we could have a dormitory sick-fund, to which every student would pay a certain minimum annual fee, which would pay for medical expense incurred throughout the year. If such a fund would be established, it would assure dormitory residents a perfect medical care in times of necessity. Sincerely, MAYER ABRAMOWITZ.

Caterer Expected To Post Bond with Comm.

Armed with this and with the final capitulation by Mr. Tenenbaum earlier in the day to the demand by the student leaders that the representative of the Yeshiva faculty be Dr. Samuel Belkin and that the clause requiring the lessee's consent to the choice of the faculty member be stricken from the contract, the leaders of the opposition to the lifting of the boycott changed their determined stand. With the circumstances thus altered and when each class in turn was informed of the new developments by a committee including some of the former leaders of the opposition, which likewise pointed out the harmful ramifications of a continued boycott, the students voted to repeal the official boycott.

It was learned yesterday that a most important concession was obtained from Mr. Tenenbaum by Dr. Belkin when the former agreed to post a bond of $500 as a guarantee of his good faith. It is understood that if the committee sees fit it can penalize the concessionaire for any ill-advised actions and deduct the penalty from the bond.

The decision revoking the boycott thus brings to an end a situation which had become almost unbearable. Since the opening of the school term students had been forced to eat in their rooms or in various luncheonettes in the immediate neighborhood.
