DEBATING TEAM OPENS NEW SEASON

Start Activities With Debate Against N. Y. U. at Yeshiva

Continuing the present series of inter-collegiate debates, the Yeshiva College debating teams will meet several Metropolitan colleges during March and April.

Following tryouts for positions on the teams which were held recently, two groups were selected, one to debate with New York University, and the other to appear against City College.

The N.Y.U. debate has already been set for Thursday night, March 28. The subject for discussion will be: "Resolved that the United States enter the World Court." Members of the Yeshiva team are Arthur Rosenbaum '37, Asher Block '37, Boris Rabinowitz '37 and Joseph Jaffe '37 (alternate). Judges for the debate have not as yet been announced.

Arms Symposium Near.

A second team has been invited to participate in a symposium to be held at City College on Thursday, April 4, on the question of nationalization of arms. Representatives of several colleges will participate. The debaters: Simon Kozick '36, Samuel H. Prero '37, Wolfe Korney '37 and Sidney Kleinman '35 (alternate).

Possibilities for a separate Freshman team are being considered since Freshmen were declared ineligible to participate in the regular teams by the president of the debating club, Asher Block. Instead of the usual methods of tryouts, the team will be selected from the public-speaking classes by Dr. Damon. Tentative plans have been formulated for a debate with the Freshmen class of New York University. The place of the debate is not definite as yet.

of the regular series of student assemblies was held in the synagogue Tuesday, March 12, with the Masmid situation as its keynote. Dr. Metegorsky, President of the Student Council, who addressed the student assembly, repeatedly stressed the importance of cooperation on the part of the student both with regard to literary work and business activity.

It is inconceivable that such lethargy could exist," he said, adding pointedly that students were not slow in responding to other college activities, such as the Loan Fund, the Cooperative Store and the Employment Bureau.

Dr. Metegorsky emphasized the fact that while the securing of an advertisement or compliment for the publication meant

No Future For Biro-Bidjan As A Jewish National Home, Says Sholom Asch, Noted Author

By WILLIAM KAUFMAN

Walking along Fifth Avenue with Sholom Asch, internationally renowned Jewish novelist was indeed a rare treat and experience. There beside me was wide attention because of his profound understanding of the Jewish soul as evidenced in the recent best sellers "Three Cities" and "Salvation." Critics almost unanimously attached the adjective "great" to his works which, they admitted, could truthfully be said of very few books today.

The informal conversation centered primarily on some problems besetting Jews and Judaism at the present time.

When asked whether Biro-Bidjan could possibly alleviate the plight of Jews, he replied that, in his opinion, it could hardly serve as a place of refuge or a haven of national pride for the Jew. Palestine, however, he was quick to assert, is the greatest hope of the world, especially for German Jewry. Asch is avowedly an ardent Zionist, and his various writings bear witness to the fact and stamp him as a national writer.

To Asch, a whole-hearted proponent of democracy, Fascism is merely a transient phase in world history which after the War appeared to offer solace to the masses disillusioned with democratic hopes. Though democracy seems to be desperately challenged on all sides, it will eventually outlive and surpass other forms of government, he contended.

That Sholom Asch is a peace-loving man can be readily surmised from his appearance and demeanor. He is modest and kind. His speech is slow and deliberate, having the warmth of compassion and understanding, rather than the

SCRIPTA MATHEMATICA PUBLISHES NEW VOLUME

Will Be Distributed With Next Quarterly Issue of Journal

"Scripta Mathematica," quarterly mathematical journal sponsored by the Yeshiva College, announces the early publication of the second of a series of volumes known as the Scripta Mathematica Library. This volume is to be entitled, "Question of Cosmic Mind in Mathematics" and will be distributed together with a forthcoming issue of the quarterly. It is the work of Professor Cassius Jackson Keyser, one of the editors of "Scripta Mathematica."

The first volume of this series, "The Poetry of Mathematics" by Professor David Eugene Smith has already been hailed as a distinct contribution to American Arts and Letters. It is the plan of the editors to publish as the third volume in this series a work by Professor Jukhtiel Ginsburg and Professor Smith, entitled "Studies of History of Hebrew Mathematics."

FRESHMEN OBJECT TO FRIDAY CLASSES

Claim Difficulty in Week-End Trips

With the changing of Freshmen Public Speaking from Thursday afternoon to Friday, the members of the Freshmen Class voiced their opposition to the change in a vigorous petition filed with the administration. According to the chairman of the petition committee, the change of schedule invokes considerable hardship for the Freshmen.

Many members of the class live out of town and it is claimed that the Friday period makes it almost impossible for them to spend their week-ends away from school.

It has been the policy of the administration in the past few years not to hold classes on Friday, since Teachers' Insti-

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU TO EXTEND ACTIVITIES

Aims to Secure Positions in Outside Institutions

The Yeshiva College Employment Bureau, under the direction of Aaron Waldman, is drafting plans for securing positions for capable students as lecturers in the various religious institutions in the city and also as group and spiritual leaders in camps and other resorts during the summer vacation.

The broadening of the Bureau's sphere of activity, hitherto restricted largely to securing employment in teaching and tutoring, has been encouraged by the unprecedented success with which it has met. Positions have already been secured for the great percentage of applicants, and the Bureau is now essay-

FORTY GRADUATE FROM YESHIVA IN COMMENCEMENT

National Organizations Urge Part- icipation of Communities in Festivities

Celebrations by Jewish Communities throughout the United States and Canada will mark Yeshiva's holiday when 30 rabbis and 10 teachers are graduated Tuesday, March 26.

Nationwide organizations such as the Union of Orthodox Rabbis, the National Mizrahi and the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations called upon their constituent bodies to participate in the commencement by sending delegates and stimulating interest in the Yeshiva as a Torah Center in America.

Speakers at the occasion will include some of the most distinguished rabbis in America. Dr. Bernard Revel, president of the Yeshiva, will deliver the charge to the graduates. Others to address the gathering are the Senior Rabbi of the Yeshiva, Rabbi Moshe Soloveitchik, Rabbi Kahano, who is president of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis, Honorary president of the Union, Rabbi B. L. Levinthal, and Rabbi Israel Rosenberg.

Graduates Lead Communities.

Among the Yeshiva graduates to be publicly ordained are alumni who already hold prominent positions as spiritual leaders of communities in ten states. The valedictorians for the Yeshiva group will be Rabbi Nahum Drazin M. A., of Baltimore, Maryland and Rabbi Mendel Levittas of Easton, Pennsylvania. Representing the graduates of the Teachers' Institute is Baruch Faivelson.

A banquet, or more correctly a seudat shel mitzva, will be held in the Yeshiva dining hall after the ceremonies, and will be attended by delegates from many cities, beside prominent members of metropolitan Jewry. Judge Otto A. Rosalsky and the Hon. Samuel Levy, president of the Borough of Manhattan, are to address the assemblage at the dinner.

Anniversary Chosen

The date chosen for the affair is of special significance to the Yeshiva, inasmuch as the 21st of March is the anniversary of the death of the great Issac Elchanan Spektor, in whose honor the institute is named. On the 21st, it was revealed that the anniversary will be held on the 21st.

Festivities will be held with a "Torah Sabbath" in which many communities in all parts of the country for sermons concerning the significance of its Yeshiva.

The Death of The Nunan Bill

The killing of the Nunan bill last week in a legislative committee at Albany is for us, as students, an event fraught with significance. The bill, which would have required all students in colleges supported wholly or partly by public funds to take an oath of allegiance to the State and Federal Constitutions, presented a menacing threat to academic liberty, freedom of thought, and expression in the universities of this State. In unmistakable tones, it heralded the approach of Fascism. That the organized protest of students throughout the State was instrumental in dealing the death blow is conclusive proof of the potent role that we, as students, can play in shaping the social and economic policies of our legislatures. Organized student opinion and action rather than the timorous resolutions of educational associations and faculty groups form today the staunchest bulwark against the onslaughts of the Hearsts, the Longs and the Coughlins. The student bodies of this country can become the most powerful creative social force in the land. This most recent student victory should serve as an example of what we can do if we would.

Is The Yeshiva Backwatering?

We are still awaiting an announcement from the Yeshiva administration concerning its participation in the Simonson festival and the series of lectures that would have been under way were it not for the Yeshiva's non-participation by the Orthodox circles?

"Awake, Ye Who Slumber"

An editorial in a recent issue of the Commentator denouncing the Rabbinical Assembly and the Central Conference of Reform Rabbis for their endorsement of the work of the Histadruth in Palestine has provoked considerable comment in Jewish circles. We feel it necessary to clarify our position in fuller detail.

Our opposition to the Histadruth does not spring from our failure to appreciate the valuable work of that organization in the material development of Eretz Israel. It is occasioned, rather, by their callous indifference to and disrespect for the spiritual values of traditional Judaism, an indifference that has recently festered into a general, militant opposition to the introduction of any semblance of traditional Jewish observance in the Holy Land. When their policy becomes one of discrimination against religious Jews, such as is being practised in the distribution of immigration certificates, it becomes a menace to the future of Judaism. Hundreds and thousands of poverty-stricken, religious Jews in Eastern Europe, fully qualified as Chalutzim, await eagerly an opportunity to emigrate to Palestine. Nevertheless, the Palestine Bureau under the dictatorship of Isaac Greenbaum, well-known for his anti-religious sentiment, turns a deaf ear to their heart-rending appeals, issuing certificates, instead, on the basis of narrow, party divisions. Among the many instances of open defiance of traditional Jewish principles and shameless breach of faith can be cited the recent Haifa affair. Tho the Histadruth through its spokesmen at the last meeting of the General Actions Committee in Jerusalem, yielding to organized protest from Orthodox Jewry, agreed to intro-

IN THE EDITOR'S MAIL BOX

To the Editor of the Commentator

Dear Sir:

May I make a suggestion which, I hope, will be of great importance to the student body.

Most colleges of standing, both in New York and out of town are conducting a boycott against the Hearst papers. We are all acquainted with the vicious and insidious type of propaganda conducted by him, and its damaging effects on its less intelligent readers.

Why, then, is Yeshiva backward in this respect? I would very much like to see the Council take an appropriate stand in this matter.

duce Kashruth into its public kitchens in all Palestinian cities, the Rabbinat of Haifa was forced to issue the following statement last month:

"Whereas rumors have recently been circulated to the effect that meat issuing from the slaughter-house operated by the Histadruth is kosher, we feel it our duty to warn the public that the meat prepared in the said slaughter-house is 'nevelah' and is prohibited by Jewish law."

The Histadruth affiliates in America, parading at their recent Annual Convention with the endorsement of hundreds of American Rabbis, found it convenient to open their convention on Friday night. Their "respect for traditional Judaism" was given its highest expression when, in a smoke-filled room, they ushered in the Sabbath to the clicking of typewriters. It is our firm conviction that a Palestine built in such a spirit will be totally meaningless to the Jewish people.

What ires us most, however, is the continued inactivity of Orthodox Jewry. The first in protest, the loudest in denunciation of anti-religious manifestations, our rabbis have always been the last in action. While they are either disregarding actual facts or dallying before taking decisive action, the anti-religious development in Palestine continues apace. The present outlook offers little hope for improvement after the Zionist Congress this summer. As long as the Agudath Horabonim, the Rabbinical Association of the Yeshiva and other Rabbinical groups maintain their present silence on this all-important problem in Jewish life, they are betraying their responsibility as the Orthodox leaders of American Jewry. Are we to interpret their inactivity as silent acquiescence with the action of the Reform and Conservative Rabbis?

WE SEEM TO SEE Sketches of Yeshiva Life By ASHER BLOCK

Our camera focused on Yeshiva life reveals a unique display of exceedingly remarkable scenes—at times amusing, at times appalling, but ever fascinating. It is a striking panorama, indeed, that unfolds itself behind the lenses of our penetrating, all-seeing mechanical eye. Only the other day a distractingly strange scene drifted into its ken of vision, and well nigh burst the glass. (If mayhap the sketch is unduly enlarged, the exaggeration may easily be ascribed to faulty lenses).

A Friendly Massacre

We saw a seemingly fine, innocent-looking Bachur swarmed about by numerous self-styled "friends" who showering praises, blessings, and of everlasting friendship upon him were amazed, and instantly proceeded to converge the lenses. And presto! had it. The poor fellow had just purchased a pack of cigarettes and two minutes under his very nose supply had been reduced fully of. Yes, alas, he had been "chiseled."

Playing Post-Office

You, too, will no doubt sense a feeling of deep sympathy if ever you receive a package from home. Unlike the "mail-hunt," there is no hunting on your part. Rather you are hunted for. To some students, informing you of the arrival of a package (presumably with delicacies) is a most desirable avocation, bordering on a profession. Like so many porters in a railroad station, they will pursue you about impressing you with the fact that they have rendered you an invaluable service, that they were always your "friends," and that really you ought to tell them your room number. This is but another of the many manifestations of a flourishing and enterprising "chiseling" technique.

Chiselers All

The scope of "chiseling" is almost limitless, embracing anything and everything from "odd pennies" to new lessons. (For some mysterious reason, however, "gemorahs" do not seem to be in this wide range). Yeshiva-ites seem to see—are particularly endowed with a keen aptitude in this lucrative game. In some, of course, the "art of chiseling" is not as yet thoroughly developed, but we feel confident that with the proper care and cultivation they, too, may soon reap the benefits of a mature and healthy "chiselistic" talent.

It is the unanimous opinion of this column that "chiseling" has noteworthy psychological, economic, and philosophical aspects, but space does not permit the discussion of these at present.

In conclusion may we suggest that in our dealing with fellow chiselerites let us do so with the utmost regard and consideration, for, come to think of it, aren't we all?

THE SIDELINES

By BILL KAUFMAN

'UNIVERSALIA POST REM'

... basketball team is ending its season with a triumphant blaze of glory, that brightening an otherwise clouded horizon. For the past few weeks, Yeshiva hoopers have swept down their opponents by scores hitherto unknown of. They have thrashed the well-known Weehawken Sports Club by the score of 53-44, and have humbled the powerful Schiff Center, who you will recall trampled upon our teams on several occasions in the past, by the overwhelming score of 62-27.

The sudden swerve to the winning direction indicates that the boys are just getting in mid-season form, and in a definite understanding of one another's playing. Such a change is a well known case in sport circles. It is called "post-season lustre," or to coin a philosophical expression "universalia post rem," that is, learning the game after it's over. There is no doubt in my mind that the success at the beginning of the season was due to a lack of practice, or I might say, no practice at all. Our first games, therefore, resulted in an exhibition of sloppy playing with the team running rampant all over the court, now passing, now dribbling, entirely bewildered of what to do next. These games serve as a fine contrast to the organized offensive playing of the past few weeks, where the boys anticipated each other's next move.

For the past few weeks rumors have been floating around that hint of a coach for the next season. And more specific rumors point out that the coach is none other than Meyer Pincus, the well known CUY star. With Pincus at our head nothing should stop us. We have the material and facilities for an outstanding team, and now that we have "one of the boys" as our basketball coach, the school can indeed look forward to a successful season next year, with the "post season lustre" sparkling from beginning to end.

YESHIVA HANDBALL TEAM ORGANIZED

The new spirit taken towards athletics at Yeshiva College permeated handball enthusiasts, and a newly organized handball team resulted. Letters were dispatched to various colleges, and a tentative schedule was arranged. A scheduled match with Brooklyn College was postponed because the date conflicted with final examinations. It is hoped that the match will take place in the near future.

The team consists of Joseph Greenstein '35, captain, Lou Muss '36, manager, Seymour Kornfeld '37, Aaron Kaplan '37, Saul Gorenstein '38, Max Levy '37, Arnold Drusin '37, Herbert Ribner '38, Myron Saal '38, and Norman Gold '35. The team has shown a great improvement in its practice sessions which are held regularly in the gymnasium. Those who are interested in joining the team, can do so by reporting to Joe Greenstein.

YESHIVA DEFEATS WEE HAWKEN SPORTS CLUB

Draws Into Lead in Uphill Fight; Wins 53-44

Showing a winning spirit rarely equalled in Yeshiva history, Yeshiva's five kept its winning streak intact by whipping Weehawken Sports Club at the Yeshiva gym, 53-44. After Goodman had scored the first two points of the game for Yeshiva, Weehawken went on a scoring spree and did not let up until it had scored 18 consecutive points to lead 18-2. There was no scoring for the rest of the period except for the goal Aronoff sank as the quarter ended.

What seemed to be a runaway for Weehawken when it led at the quarter 18-4, soon turned into a real ball-game. The Blue and White, fighting courageously, forged steadily ahead until they tied the count at half-time at 21 all.

When Weehawken tallied at the start of the third period, the game became a zigzag affair. Yeshiva held the lead for a while, but Weehawken soon came back to lead 31-28. It was not until Kasten gave Yeshiva the lead with two goals that the boys in blue were actually able to draw away from their opponents. The Yeshiva five tallied six consecutive points toward the close of the period to lead at the three-quarter's mark 42-34.

Weehawken came out strongly at the start of the last quarter, quickly netting two baskets. Both teams were playing fast and furiously, and with but two minutes of playing time having elapsed, time out had to be called both teams being exhausted. Weehawken returned doggedly to work, and with but three minutes of play remaining, it had cut the Yeshiva lead to a scant point. The Washington Heights five now showed their true colors. For two whole minutes they kept the embattled Jersey men at bay until at last their own opportunity came. With but one minute to play, Levy came through in magnificent style, scoring 8 successive points to tuck away the game for Yeshiva, 53-44.

Levy led the scorers for the evening with 18 points, while Marazano of Weehawken and Aronoff of Yeshiva were next with 14 and 13 points respectively.

ED PHILIPS, NOTED PLAYER, TO COACH TENNIS TEAM

With the basketball team ushering a successful season to a close, the students are now looking forward to an active tennis session. The gymnasium is to be opened three nights a week for practice, so that the team can get in shape before the tennis season is officially opened. Doctor Safir is vitally interested in the organization of a tennis team at Yeshiva College and has already secured Ed Philips as coach. Mr. Philips has an enviable record behind him, having won several tournaments during the past few seasons. His presence is a source of blessing to the many tennis fans around the Yeshiva, and it is believed that the renewed interest in tennis will result in making it one of the major sports of the spring term.

N. Y. U. PHYS. ED. TRIPS YESHIVA

Levy, Star Forward, Injured—Forced to Leave During Crucial Point of Game

Although Yeshiva College displayed its best form of the year, it lost out to the mighty Washington Square five by a heartbreaking score of 36-28.

The team was in fine mettle for the game, and the first quarter saw a hot struggle for the lead. The N. Y. U. quintet forged ahead late in the quarter and could not be stopped. Their trick plays were quite bewildering and for a while succeeded in befuddling the Yeshiva five, but the boys rallied and soon broke up the Violet barrage. Kasten and Goodman played outstanding ball during the first half, and it was through their combined efforts that the Yeshiva was constantly within its scoring zone. Time and time again, Max Levy dropped them in from all parts of the floor and succeeded in keeping the score right behind that of N.Y.U. Yeshiva College trailed at the end of the half by the score of 18-10.

The second half saw an inspired Yeshiva five; the team changed its earlier tactics and was taking long shots at the basket, the majority of which tallied. At the time when victory was smiling on Yeshiva College, misfortune overtook her in the third quarter, and Levy was forced to leave the game on account of injuries. Never had he played a finer game, and although forced out in the third quarter, he carried off high scoring honors with 11 points. In spite of the loss of its favorite son, the team surged forward and stemmed the Violet attack; it fought with renewed vigor as "Red Kasten" sank two beautiful long shots, thus bringing the score closer and closer. Mason, snappy N.Y.U. forward, was not caught napping, and led his teammates out of danger by a well timed goal. The game ended soon afterwards with the final score, 36-28.

CHESS NOTES

Our players have been invited to represent some of the club teams in tournament play and there are quite a few of them on the Borough Park team, winner of last year's Metropolitan championship. Incidentally, the Yeshiva College representative, Norman F. Revel, is vice-president of the New York City Collegiate Chess Association.

Sammy Reshevsky, international Master and winner of the international tournament at Syracuse, who was co-winner of the Chicago tournament, is a former student of our Yeshiva and has helped our players quite a few times. He has beaten the Dutch, Canadian, French, Italian and Mexican champions over the board.

There will soon be a tournament in the College to determine a college champion. The entrants will probably be Raymon, Simcowitz, Silver, Poupko, Rzapinsky, Katz and Schechter. We look for a close battle, but refuse to make any other prediction.

The Team needs new material very badly inasmuch as most of the old members have graduated. All students who have played, or who would like to learn please come to the next meeting of the Chess Club. Enter the tournaments, and some of the more experienced players will gladly coach you. This is being written particularly for the High School graduates who represented the Talmudical Academy. It is no exaggeration to say that Yeshiva College has a country-wide reputation in collegiate chess circles. Those who have upheld it so far are leaving, or have already graduated and it is up to you to do your part to maintain the standard they have set, and, perhaps, raise it. Come out for the team!

A new medium for artistic expression in Yeshiva College was inaugurated with the first meeting of the new Art Club last Thursday night, March 14.

The semester's project will be lettering, it was announced by the president of the newly organized group, Irving Mensch. Forms of decorative poster work will be taken up, including Hebrew lettering, English lettering and elementary cartooning.

In addition to the instructive aims of the Club, the organization intends to provide a useful institutional function by making signs for the Publicity Committee, school offices, and organizations holding conventions in the building.

As a resident of France for the past few years, he spoke optimistically of the French attitude toward the Jewish population and harbored no fear of anti-Semitism. He did admit, however, that, owing to the recent influx of Jews from Germany, a movement is on foot to curtail Jewish privileges, but these conditions do not present any grave problem over which to be unduly concerned.

ALUMNI NOTES

We at Yeshiva are busily working (?) putting out newspapers, and studying hard (?).

Let's take a look and see what's in store for us when we get out:

Yeshiva Alumni are planning a theatre party and a banquet dance. (That's not so bad, it pays to graduate.)

But don't think Yeshiva hasn't left its mark upon the boys;—they're still studious:

Last year they held a series of lectures on various topics of interest—all turned out en masse. (For the social meetings afterwards.)

Our alumni love the school so much that they're planning to donate a scholarship to the school. Scholarship examinations will be given in various parts of the country. Requirements are to be decided on by the administration with suggestions by the boys who give the money.

How does this strike you?:

Abe Gutterman has a scholarship at Harvard Law School.

Hyman Muss had Columbia Law School do the same for him.

Hyman Israel chose Brown University—he's in for psychology on a fellowship.

Jack Hartstein (Three cheers for the Beth Medrash) was the first one of the alumni to get an M.A.—He's about to receive his Ph.D. at Columbia.

So's Mr. Mats, by the way. (Boys, come forth with that dormitory rent.)

Morris Penkower is married, and is a rabbi at Glasgow. (He must have been in love.)

Julius Washer is a rabbi at Miami.

You know that fellow in the Chem Lab? Yup, that's the one, Eli Levine. You know where he spends his mornings?—Yea sir, right at Columbia—He wants an M.A. Louis Engelberg and Julius Eidenbaum are doing the same.

The Nissenbaum brothers and Carl Seigel are the Yeshiva's gift to the Jersey City schools—they teach there (without yarmulkes).

Dave Milians has become a Kentucky Colonel. He's spreading the use of a certain language there—I think it's Hebrew.

But do you know what most of the boys are doing? Wake up and look around. They are right here—the future rabbis of America.

Not a bad lot! But wait till WE get out!
