Represent College at Public Affairs Convention For First Time

Three student leaders, Morris Dembowitz '36, president of Student Council, Moses I. Feuerstein '36, editor of The Commentator, and Simon Noveck '36, editor of The Masmid, will represent Yeshiva College at the annual convention of the American Institute for Public Affairs, to be held in Washington during the week of March 29 to April 4, it was revealed by Dembowitz today.

In announcing the fact that Yeshiva will be represented, Dembowitz stated that this will mark the first time that Yeshiva has actively participated in the program of this group.

The American Institute for Public Affairs is comprised of students of the leading colleges and universities in the United States, and has as its purpose the furtherance of collegiate interest in governmental affairs and problems.

Dembowitz added that the dele-

DR. REVEL WELCOMES NEW FROSH AT SMOKER

Incoming Class is Feted At Social Affair

Indicative of the new spirit of intimacy and friendliness existing between students and faculty in Yeshiva College was the faculty-freshman smoker held last Sunday night in the Dormitory Social Hall.

Professors and students alike set aside their scholarly bearing and engaged in a few hours of hilariously informal fun. The constant exchange of good-natured gibes among erstwhile dignified professors added to the amusement of the large crowd that attended the smoker in honor of this semester's incoming freshmen.

Dr. Shelley R. Safir, dean of Yeshiva College, acted as chairman of the evening and introduced the speakers.

The first speaker was Dr. Bernard Revel, president of Yeshiva, who expounded upon the nature and aims of the institution. He declared it to be "consecrated to the interpretation and dissemination of true knowledge in the spirit of Eretz Israel." Emphasizing the uniqueness as compared to other institutions of higher learning, he stated that "the future of Yeshiva is fashioned by none other than the students themselves," and appealed for the development of moral integrity and spirit, which is indispensable to the fulfillment of such a responsibility.

Welcoming greetings were extended to the incoming freshmen by Morris Dembowitz '36, president of Student Council, and Simon Noveck '36, editor of The Masmid.

Shipley Writes School Song; Music Lacking

The following are the words to the proposed Yeshiva school song composed by Dr. Joseph T. Shipley. Musically inclined students are requested to try their hand at providing the music.

Yeshiva! Sing the treasured name,
Our earnest spirit builds its fame,
Our love is an undying flame,
Yeshiva!

Yeshiva! Faith and learning blend,
As in your halls our years we spend
And friendships form that never end.

ART CLUB TO SPONSOR MAY EXHIBITION HERE

An art exhibition, in conjunction with the College Art Association, will be held here at the end of May, Mr. Israel Renov, club director, announced at the last meeting of the Art Club, Tuesday night.

Towards this end, he called upon all members of the organization to submit two works of art, from which Yeshiva's part of the exhibition will be selected.

Mr. Renov also stated that he expects the club to co-operate with The D.N.A. Committee and draw up posters for the campaign. These poster-cartoons will be displayed in prominent places about the building.

At the meetings which are held every Tuesday night at nine, lectures and individual instruction in art are offered to the members.

Faculty "For a Ride" As Purim Season Arrives With Chagigas (Kashruth Trial et al) In Its Wake

To the Yeshiva Purim Chagigas, a grand, colossal, or any other Hollywood adjective which would perhaps be considered to be of bad taste by a modernist, yet so we so it was. Its "colossal" due in part to the short novel parodies on the novel, the unique songs, and finally the satire on the Kashruth trial which aroused an untold interest in Yeshiva circles.

The affair started off rather beautifully, as the diners began to gird themselves for the meal some time after 7 P. M. Aside from this inconvenience an unfortunate arrangement between a host of other wits and amateur wags somewhat dampened our enthusiasm.

Dr. Bernard Lander '36, chairman of the banquet committee officially opened the Chagiga, the cross-table barrage of witticisms somewhat subsided and we could just barely hear Dr. Lander beam at us with his usual wit.

COUNCIL VOTES $317 TO MANY STUDENT GROUPS

Dembowitz Appoints New Awards Committee

Student Council appropriated $317.50 for various student activities at its last session, Morris Werb, secretary of Student Council announced.

An itemized list of the appropriations follows:

The Masmid$100.00
The Library 100.00
Commentator	.. 90.00
Athletics 17.50

The appropriation to the Dramatic Society is in the form of a loan. The amount was requested to cover various expenses that will be incurred preparing for the society's play, "Journey's End", to be presented after Passover.

Morris Dembowitz '36, president of Student Council, reported that Student Council received at the beginning of the term a total of $401.18. The Medical Department received $263 from student registration fees collected for that purpose.

A new committee was appointed to resume the work of the award committee for the term. The object is to set up a suitable award to those students who excel in extra-curricular activities, and also to decide which activities shall be eligible.

REFUSES TO DEMAND RESIGNATION

Council Insists On Corroboration Of All Charges Despite Strong Appeal For Immediate Action For Dismissal

Formal charges against Dr. Shelley R. Safir, culminating in the declaration that he has proved himself unfit for the office of Dean at Yeshiva College, were brought at Student Council during its last session held on Monday, March 16.

In an indictment which took well over half an hour and to which all members gave their closest attention, Student Council was strongly urged to act immediately by adopting a resolution to the president of the faculty demanding the resignation of Dr. Safir from the Deanship.

Text of Council Resolution

WHEREAS, Dr. Shelley R. Safir, dean of Yeshiva College, has been charged with a total disregard for the religious ideals of the institution, and

WHEREAS, he has been charged with incompetence in fulfilling the office of dean, and

WHEREAS, he has been charged with a complete alienation of the confidence of the student body, and

WHEREAS, he has been charged with arrogant, unsympathetic, and moral actions entirely unbecoming the dean of Yeshiva College, and

WHEREAS, these charges, if substantiated, would prove that Dr. Safir is unfit for the office of dean,

After a heated discussion, however, Student Council decided to withhold its judgment until the facts could be corroborated. A unanimous resolution was immediately passed to appoint a committee to investigate the charges, and to report to Student Council at its next meeting with recommendations as to what action the committee believes should be taken.

Charges Listed

The charges against Dr. Safir were listed under four separate heads. He was accused of a total disregard for the religious ideals of the institution, incompetence in fulfilling the office of dean, a complete alienation of the confidence of the student body, and arrogant, unsympathetic, and moral actions entirely unbecoming the dean of Yeshiva College.

Charging that no one had done more towards the abolition of the harmonious blending of secular and Jewish culture, it was claimed that on this score alone Dean Safir had already shown his unfitness for his office.

Claim Subjugation

In scathing words, the accusation was made that "the student body has no greater enemy to its independence and self-government than Dr. Safir." Repeatedly Council heard emphasized the claim that if faculty-student relations were disrupted because of a danger of censorship, it would be only through the untiring efforts of Dr. Safir to subjugate the student body. "The reputation of Yeshiva naturally bears the brunt of all wrangles," it was pointed out.

Closing with the statement that a man who enjoys neither the respect nor the confidence of the student body or faculty has no claim to any Deanship, the motion passed Student Council to shirk its duty towards the welfare of the student body and to demand that Dr. Safir resign from the office of dean.

By A. LEO LEVIN

Musical selections were the main feature of the evening as the students of the Teachers Institute celebrated Purim at their annual Chagiga Monday evening, March 9. The most appreciated rendition of the evening was given by Jack Hartstein, popular efficiency expert of the T. I. Maintaining his reputation for modesty, Mr. Hartstein vainly protested the pleas of the students for just one verse, until Dr. Alexander Litman, of the college philosophy department, came to the rescue with convincing logic and deafening demands.

Finally, as an emergency measure to allow the program of the evening to continue, Mr. Hartstein acceded to the demands of the by-now insistent student body and offered what appeared to be a choral number, but what sounded like a solo. So well was the presentation received that it won him a nomination for the position of "one of the boys."

Almost equally successful were Dienstock's solos, Irving Newman's cello presentation and the solo

DR. RICHARDSON TO PRESIDE AT DEBATE

The Debating Society in conjunction with the Maimonides Health Club is sponsoring a debate on the socialization of medicine to be held Tuesday evening, March 31, in the Dormitory Social Hall, Simon Novick, president of the society announced yesterday.

Norman Goldklang '38 and Leo Levin '39 will uphold the affirmative of the proposition: "Resolved, that the several states should enact legislation providing for a system of complete medical care available to all citizens at public expense." Lester Feuerstein '39 and Milton Elefant '39 will defend the negative viewpoint.

Dr. Park Richardson, head of the City College Health staff, will act as chairman of the debate, with Dr. David Swick, head of the Yeshiva medical department, and Jacob I. Hartstein, acting registrar, as judges.

The Safir Investigation— A Plea For Fair Play

An official investigation by Student Council to thoroughly report on the fitness of Dr. Safir for the office of deanship has been voted. To many outsiders, the suddenness of the charges and their scope may seem a bit bewildering. But to the majority of the student body and faculty the initiative Student Council has shown will be viewed with utmost favor.

Relations with the dean at Yeshiva have been fraught with misunderstandings and animosities ever since the first few years of the college's life. On countless occasions bitter stories have run their rounds concerning alleged unfairness by the Dean and his unfitness for office.

Already last year an organized opposition to Dr. Safir in the student body began to crystallize. Although the movement rarely manifested itself openly, it was only a matter of time before an aroused student opinion would reveal itself.

Since the beginning of this academic year misunderstandings and bitterness between students and the dean's office have grown so rapidly that many feared student outbreaks of the nature that take place at City College might be visited on Yeshiva.

Realizing the devastating consequences such events would have on the academic standing of the college, responsible student leaders felt it was high time that the validity or non-validity of charges against Dr. Safir was finally established. No future course for the welfare of Yeshiva by the student body could be justified unless this element of doubt were definitely removed and the true situation revealed.

It is for this reason that Student Council acted most wisely in refusing to demand the resignation of Dr. Safir until an objective and thorough investigation into the validity of all charges could be made. By declining to be stampeded into action, Student Council has gained the confidence of moderate elements of the student body, and an added prestige for mature and deliberate action.

Concerning the charges themselves, The Commentator wishes to refrain from expressing any opinion. Now that an investigation has been voted to determine the true state of affairs, it would be violating every sense of fairness to attempt to influence investigating committee one way or another.

Particularly do we hope to impress on the student body this point of fair play. The charges against Dr. Safir are of such a serious nature that, if substantiated, they would definitely disqualify a man from the deanship of any college, much less Yeshiva. Realizing the grave implications of the investigation, we urge students to exercise the control over their attitude and emotions that a true sense of impartiality demands during such a crucial period.

We await with the utmost interest and suspense the report of the investigating committee and its recommendations.

A College Unique

Of the ten suggestions submitted to the administration last year by the Commentator in the issue of May 20, the ninth one read as follows:

"That a committee consisting of three members of the faculty, three representatives designated by Student Council, and the chairman chosen by mutual agreement be formed to consider student and institutional problems as they directly affect the student body." Suggestion number nine has never emerged from the realm of suggestion unto this day.

Though it was planned last term to appoint three students to this committee as representatives of Student Council, the preoccupation of both the faculty and Student Council with other matters resulted in further postponement of the formation of this group.

However, the necessity for the presence of such a committee now can no more be overlooked. New problems affecting the student body are constantly cropping up with no method of solution. Increasingly, pressing matters of student concern are being brought to the administration for discussion—matters which really should be under the sole jurisdiction of the faculty-student committee.

Probably the greatest advantage of this committee to the faculty and to the undergraduate body will be the removal of personal motives from the solution of common problems. That principle has been the sore spot from the student point of view. And we are firmly convinced that the removal of this sore spot will only be achieved when the discussion of student problems will be relegated to their proper sphere, namely the faculty-student committee.

A limited amount of editorial space does not permit a detailed outline of the cases we believe should come under the jurisdiction of this committee. To cover all student problems, it will necessarily have a wide scope. But its exact nature, purpose, and the problems it shall concern itself with can very easily be worked out by the committee and submitted for ratification to the faculty and Student Council, respectively.

One extremely important point, however, remains to be made. It concerns the choice of faculty representatives to serve on the committee. Every member of the faculty from the rank of instructor to professor, barring only a few, are all equally aware of the problems that confront the faculty. This will readily be admitted.

Each one of these men is thus a potential representative of the interests of the faculty to the faculty-student committee. It is, therefore, our fundamental conviction that Student Council should have the right to ask for those members of the faculty in whom they have confidence to serve on the faculty student committee.

We feel that Student Council has every right to ask for those men only who have a Jewish background, an appreciation of the ideals of the institution, and a sympathetic understanding of the peculiar problems that confront the students of Yeshiva College.

These men, as mentioned above, are fully capable of representing the interests of the faculty. But most important of all, they alone are capable of working harmoniously with the student body by virtue of the confidence of the undergraduates they enjoy and the similarity of the ideals of both.

That such a system exists in no other college should be no means serve to invalidate our contention. As Dr. Revel has emphasized on innumerable occasions, Yeshiva College is a unique institution whose ideals set it apart from all other colleges.

We heartily agree with this opinion. That Student Council should have the right to choose those faculty men whose ideals conform to those of the institution and who have an understanding of student problems is merely the consistent application of Dr. Safir's most justifiable contention.

Support Is Due

All students should attend the Theatre Party on Friday night at the Sch... for the benefit of Scripta Mathematica.

Scripta Mathematica by its circulation in over three hundred copies has earned for itself the title of the nations' scholars and has greatly enhanced Yeshiva's reputation for scientific scholarship.

Students having the interest of the institution at heart should co-operate with Scripta Mathematica and its editor Professor Ginsburg, by procuring tickets for themselves and their friends. It is through the efforts of the student body and other friends of Yeshiva, that Scripta Mathematica will be able, by virtue of the proceeds of this affair, to widen its scope and reach an even greater number of readers whose interest in Yeshiva will thus be heightened through the high scholastic standards of this publication.

As a pragmatic inducement, we wish to remind the student body that many outstanding stars of the radio, stage and screen will entertain the audience. Included in the program are such celebrities as Jimmy Durante, Gertrude Niessen, Ed Wynn, and Lou Holtz. Tickets may be obtained from the Commentator or Scripta Mathematica offices.

MEET THE SENIORS

No greater glory can be achieved by an individual than to be present while history is in the making. As the years roll by and the name of "the boys" will have carved for itself a niche in the panels of history, 1936 will be remembered as the year that they graduated—and as such will not perish from the earth.

AARON GREENBAUM—Sage of the Seniors and scholar of the first order. Aaron attended T. A. for three years, but transferred in his final term to Eastern District High, where he graduated with honors. Atoned for his misdemeanor and entered Yeshiva College, where he has been specializing in philosophy and social sciences. As an unofficial custodian of the library, and chairman of the board of trustees of the Daf Yomi society (the legitimate one), Greenbaum has been kept pretty well occupied these past few years. He is unsurpassed in his knowledge of Hebrew subjects, and has written many excellent papers on the works of Hebrew thinkers.

AV GREENBERG—Since time immemorial Av has been at the scholastic head of the class... Graduated T.A. where he was both president of the school and co-editor of the Elchanite... Hasn't been given much of a chance to peddle his wares in the college. We'll let it go as—too much studying... Av looks towards the west for his inspiration. His inspiration resides in New Brunswick and attends Jersey Normal School for Women. After graduation he will migrate to Harvard and study law.

HERBERT HENDEL—Joined the ranks in '32. Left us for a while last term—but rejoined the conclave this semester. Herb used to have a moustache a couple of years ago, but one day it fell off and has never been heard of again... Is the strong silent man of the class. Once when he opened up his mouth to speak two moths flew out... Hendel is majoring in economics and psychology, but this doesn't interfere with his interest in the Giants. He will shoot a Dodger fan at sight—so beware!

MARVIN HUREWITZ—The old poets used to say—

"Give me women, wine and snuff
Till I cry hold enough!"

Well, wine and snuff are all right after a fashion—but the women is what gets Mike. His current heart throb is a gal called Jenny—and she sure is. When he's not in the lab, you can be sure that he is out sparking the dame. Of curricular interests we should perhaps note that Mayer is a physicist of the first order, a chemist of the second, and a philosopher of the third. Extra-curricularly, he prefers old hats, suede shoes, and silk shirts.

LILHU KASTEN—"Red" was born in Montreal, Canada and has never quite returned from the nostalgic longing for the palestralian soil. As athletic manager for three years he has contributed much to Yeshiva's athletic success. He's crazy about girls, but they don't reciprocate his affection. The lad simply offends—not in the usual sense (Boy, there's a word for you) but it's simply an open and shut case of "cherchez la femme" and flop work in the college library and mural contribution makes him a candidate for the Service medals.

WILLIAM KAUFMAN—

"Come, body and unbosom, now,
That I may see most within me—"
was uttered by the poet in a similar situation. So, by saying—gentlemen, the rest... The only obvious class of '36 made was elected for two years—but let's expect to see saying that it was done to avert political manoeuvres. He wrote a sonnet in blank verse which he failed to arouse... Read "Arrow" decided to become a doctor. He hasn't succeeded.

ON THE SIDELINES

By BILL KAUFMAN

A Young Man's Fancies

In two days Spring will be officially ushered in and a tiresome winter's tale of cold and snow will have finally taken its place in the files of time.

One hears of Spring time in the Rockies, on the Riviera, or the more romantic setting of Paris in the spring, but to that creed of the world of Yeshiviana, the season takes on characteristically quaint, yet not unpleasant guise. It seems as if the very heart of the institution is pierced by a feeling of sparkle and vigor—and the benighted listlessness of a wintry clime vanishes as mysteriously as it had formerly appeared.

On all sides we are greeted by the new order. In the dorms, the pitiful strains of "Pagliacci", or "Madame Butterfly" are replaced by better occasioned Victor Herbert operettas. Or again, one can witness the more ambitious occupants busying themselves cleaning windows, oiling baseball mitts, reading poetry—or here and there a few "scabs" can be observed just plain studying.

The dark unglamorous corridors become glorified as they re-echo with the annual baseball squabbles—once renewed. The jingoistic Giant fans and the daffy Dodger rotarians again parley on the season's prospects. Or the romantic element whisper their more tender escapades of some secluded Central Park trysting spot.

Outside the Yeshiva walls the panorama is marred, yet artistically so, by a continual flurry of balls of a wide variance. Here, a foursome engaged in a box-ball fest; there, a softball game between two high school teams,—and everywhere a frank, boyish urge to toss the old sphere around, pervades the halo of Yeshiva.

And on the ball field the spirit is even more marked, as one perceives Frosh in faded sweat jerseys grooving them over the plate to more rigorous Seniors, who bat and goes to an outfield of great players. The crack of the bat arouses the onlookers to shout encouraging remarks to the participants.

At night the dormitories become a rendezvous and a day for the Yeshiva students. Here anything and everything is discussed—from the recent joke to the age-old stories of the sages. Now then a song breaks out and

Goldklang Stars as Blue and White Wins 24-14

The Tru-form Athletic Club blew a 24-14 decision to Yeshiva College at the college gym Thursday night in the presence of a near-capacity crowd.

Both teams messed around for the first five minutes of the quarter without either side scoring. Towards the end of the quarter Yeshiva got off to a flying start when Goldklang completed a goal on a pass from Aronoff. Tru-formers then notched two goals and added three free throws. The local sextet then staged the neatest maneuver of the evening, when Levy scored on a long, high shot from the center of the court and was followed by a completed basket by Aronoff and a supersensational backhand toss registered by Goldklang. Both teams began searching for openings with plenty of rough stuff, exchanging points proportionally and in this search ended the first half in an 11-11 tie.

Second Half Rally
In the second half the "Bronx Boys" were no opposition for Yeshiva. The majority of the fireworks was in the third period when the "Blue and White" gained a 16-12 lead over their opponents. The Tru-formers tried to overcome this lead but were successful in registering only one more goal which finished their scoring for the evening. The real scoring for Yeshiva however, was confined to the final period when Goldklang, high scorer of the evening with 8 points and Aronoff, the runner-up with 7 points, scored up a four goal margin, ending the game in a 24-14 lead for Yeshiva.

Last Minute Goal Wins For Yearlings

In the scrappiest game of the intra-murals, the Sophs, demonstrating in impregnable defense and a new brand of basketball, succeeded in topping the Seniors in the final minute of play by the score of 13-12. This victory will definitely give the Sophs a berth in the play-offs for school championship.

First Quarter Deadlocked
The first quarter was scoreless for both teams, due to the fact that the Seniors shot wide of the hoop, and the tight defense of both teams diminished scoring chances.

In the second quarter the hard play continued. Adams was the first to score in a scramble for the ball under the basket, putting the Seniors momentarily in the lead. On the next play Kravchick tied the score for the Sophs by scoring on a lay-up shot. After Dlugatz scored for the Seniors on a foul, Newman put in a shot under the basket to give the Sophs the lead at the half 4-3.

The Seniors returned in the second half to roll up 5 points and lead the Sophs. Feuerstein scored first on a foul for the Seniors, and Horowitz returned to chalk up a point on a free throw, maintaining the Soph lead. But the Seniors regained their scoring punch, and Marine and Greenberg marked up 4 points to put the Seniors ahead at the end of the third quarter, 8-5.

Sophs Take Lead
The last quarter saw a mad scramble. The Sophs, displaying tremendous defensive power and scoring on successive fouls by Hurewitz and Newman, and on a shot from under the basket by Miller, were set ahead by 9-3. On the next play Feuerstein, rolled the ball down to the basket, found no one near, and immediately scored. But the Sophs scored again on a pass that went from center, to Newman, and put in by Krischevsky. At this stage Soph rooters went wild with excitement as they sprung into the lead once again. A few seconds later Feuerstein scored for the Seniors to take away the lead, and this time, it was the Seniors' turn to howl. The Sophs, however, cut it short when Newman put in their last 2 points to make the score 13-12.

Newman and Hurewitz starred on the defense for the Sophs, while Feuerstein and Greenberg starred for the Seniors.

N.Y.U. PHYS. ED. DRUBS BLUE AND WHITE BY 39-23

Early Lead Unbreakable; Yeshiva Ends Season

Gaining an early first quarter lead, the N. Y. U. Physical Education five humbled the Yeshiva hoopsters by virtue of a 39-23 defeat at the former's court last evening. This game marked the final encounter for Yeshiva during the current season.

As the whistle opened the game, both teams fought hard for possession of the ball and it changed hands rapidly without a tally. After a fast pass from Aronoff, "Red" Kasten tossed one in from mid-court and scored a clean goal. Aronoff followed suit with an over-the-shoulder sweep which landed squarely into the strings. N. Y. U. now began its scoring drive with two goals and a free shot, and the quarter ended immediately after both teams sank a goal apiece.

During the next stanza both quintets began to score alternately with the Violets gaining the edge. With two minutes remaining in the first half, the home courtsters snared as many goals, leaving the score 19-10 in favor of N. Y. U.

The second half saw the same brand of ball played by both teams. The Washington Square five tallied first on an uncovered toss from underneath the basket. Goldklang and Krieger followed with a free throw and long goal respectively. N. Y. U., however, immediately recovered from the momentary setback and atoned with a couple of goals from odd corners of the field. With seconds left to play in the third quarter, "Sonny" Eisenberg tossed a sweeping overhand shot into the basket.

The final period was a runaway for Physical Ed. Although fighting hard to stem the Violet attack, Yeshiva proved to be poor opposition against their bewildering passing barrage. Short quick passes out of nowhere found their mark with the inevitable tallies. Aronoff and Goldklang saved the day from complete disaster by dropping goals from midfield. The game ended with the final count, 39-23 in favor of N. Y. U.
