GORDON RESIGNS; HENKIN TO HEAD MASMID ANNUAL

Editor of Literary Issue Outlines Plans For New Year

Due to the resignation of David Gordon '36, editor of the Masmid yearbook, the Executive Council has selected Louis Henkin '36 to fill his place. This selection will be subject to the approval of Student Council at its next meeting, Thursday, Nov. 5th.

Louis Henkin is already the editor of the proposed literary supplement to the Masmid which will probably appear early in March. However, Henkin emphasized that the appearance of this supplement is contingent on the establishment of a firm financial status. "The money realized during the first few months will decide the future course of the Masmid," he revealed.

Plans Supplement

Henkin plans to produce a literary supplement of fifty pages to include all articles of sufficient literary merit. The articles to be submitted may cover a wide range, the only qualifications being that they must be not more than 5,000 words in length and that they deal preferably with topics of Jewish interest.

In contrast to the Masmid publications of former years, this new supplement will contain no ads, nor will it include pictures or articles about the faculty. There will be no extra charge for either the literary supplement or the yearbook.

ELECT MORRIS WERB PRESIDENT OF S. O. Y.

Students Of Yeshiva Also Pick Pruzansky, Fox

By a unanimous vote, Morris Werb '36, former Secretary of the Yeshiva College Student Organization, was elected President of the S.O.Y. The Yeshiva students also chose David Pruzansky '36 as their vice-president, Herschel Schacter '38, secretary, Benjamin Bernfeld '37, dining-room manager, Gershon Romanoff as editor of the Hedenu, and Samuel Fox '40 to officiate as "gabal".

Election Uncontested

This year's elections were not contested as bitterly as those of previous years. Werb, Bernfeld, Romanoff, and Fox were unopposed in their respective offices. The only real fight took place in the election for the office of secretary. Of the three candidates, Schacter received 70 votes, Rose 32, and Edward Tannenbaum 16. The dark horse of the election was Rahmin Sion, who was listed seven times for dining-room manager.

Tabulations show that most of the votes cast were from upper-classmen while a very negligible number was from the lower classes.

Saal Asks For Student Aid And Cooperation

An appeal to students for cooperation with reference to Commentator support was issued by Myron Saal '38, business manager.

Emphasizing that by virtue of its advertising only is the publication enabled to render its service to the students and to the school, Saal requested that they patronize Commentator advertisers and also bring the paper to the attention of non-advertisers. "If the Commentator is to function as the student organ it is up to us to render it our utmost support," he declared.

Hollis Speaks Well Of Yeshiva Students

Is Agreeably Surprised By Welcome Given Him

Impressed with the scholarship of Yeshiva College students, Mr. Ernest V. Hollis, new education instructor, expressed his appreciation of the fine way in which he had been received by the students and spoke highly of the prevalence of academic freedom here.

The new education teacher was born in Mississippi in 1895, and received his public school education in the schools of that state. To obtain his higher education he worked his way through the University of Mississippi, from which he received his B.S. in biological sciences. He earned his M.S. in vocational education from the same university in 1917, and when the war broke out in 1918, Mr. Hollis found service as a psychologist in the medical corps.

In 1920 he attended Columbia University at which time he was honored with a fellowship from the Rockefeller Foundation. He received his A.M. in educational administration from Columbia in 1921. Mr. Hollis was appointed president of Georgia State Teachers College, a position he held until 1927. Following this, he became the head of the educational department of the Kentucky Teachers College. At present, besides teaching at Yeshiva, he is on the faculty of Columbia and does part time teaching at C.C.N.Y.

Not only has Mr. Hollis contributed articles on education to all the leading professional magazines in the country, but he is also the author of two books, entitled, "Motion Pictures in Education" and "Influence of Philanthropic Foundations in Education".

PROGRAM PLEAS HEARD

A request was issued by the curriculum committee that all students who desire a change in program or new courses for next semester get in touch with the committee before December 10.

COUNCIL MEETS

A Student Council meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 9 p.m. in the Dormitory Social Hall, it was announced by Irving Ribner '37, president.

FRESHMEN TENDERED ROUSING WELCOME AT TORAH V'AVODAH FETE

Smokes, Speakers, Singers Sprinkle Well-prepared Gala Program

The Freshman Class was honored at a smoker tendered by the Poel Hamisrachi last Sunday night. Members of all classes attended the affair to broaden their knowledge of Poel Hamisrachi ideology as well as to enjoy the smokes and refreshments.

Harold Schacter '38, acting as chairman of the evening, introduced the speakers. The first speaker, Simon Shoop '38, president of the organization, outlined the plans for the coming season. Bernard Lander '36, former president of the organization, emphasized the importance of Torah V'Avodah and appealed for its support. Eleazer Goldman '37, managing editor of the Commentator, greeted the freshmen in the name of the publication.

Epstein Speaks

The guest speaker, Mr. Isidore Epstein, National president of the Poel Hamisrachi, declared that Torah V'Avodah "represents the philosophy of taking the Torah out of the Ark and putting it in the very streams of life." He also stated that of the important branches of Zionism, "the Poel Hamisrachi is the only one that can restore sovereignty to the Torah of Israel as well as to the land of Israel." In closing, he mentioned several things that students of Yeshiva College could offer the organization; namely, intelligent and aggressive leadership and the creation of a literary organ, expressing the ideas of Torah V'Avodah.

The program also included vocal selections rendered by Eugene Michaly '40, Sam Adelman '38, Milton Cooper '39, and Max Crandell '37.

Monthly Nir Elicits Favorable Criticism

Hope to Create Bi-Weekly; New Features Appear

The first issue this year of the Nir, official undergraduate publication of the Teachers Institute, appeared yesterday under the editorship of Meyer Beckerman, who succeeded Jacob Kabakoff '38 as head of the Nir Governing Board.

Published for the first time last year, the Nir is at present a monthly with plans for transforming it to a bi-weekly dependent on financial arrangements. The first issue contained a number of new features, including news, photographs, a cartoon, and a crossword puzzle. Faculty and student comment was decidedly favorable, with the hope for an even better future, predominating.

In addition to Beckerman, the Governing Board includes A. Leo Levin '39, managing editor; Milton Shapiro '39, news editor; Heral Freed '39, art editor; and Israel Knobbe '39, business manager.

Election Returns Posted By Commentator Office

According to the undeniable demands of the few thousands who stormed its editorial offices for latest last night election results, the Commentator issued a series of flashes on latest election returns last night. From approximately 10 p.m., when composite returns began to indicate the trend of the election, until past 2 a.m., when the radio stations signed off for the night, there appeared regularly at short intervals news flashes, which were posted on the Commentator Bulletin Board on the fifth floor.

'Bright, Disputive' Says Sells of Class

New Psychology Instructor Reveals Impressions

A singular satisfaction at being associated with Yeshiva College was expressed Sunday by Dr. Samuel B. Sells, recently appointed instructor in Psychology. Dr. Sells also stated that he had found the Yeshiva student to be brighter than the average, but inclined to be overly argumentative.

In addition to teaching at Yeshiva, he is assistant to Prof. Gardner Murphy at Columbia. He has also collaborated with Prof. Woodworth in several psychological studies, and is now associated with Prof. Wertheimer of Gestalt psychology fame, in the N. Y. School of Exile.

Athletic Build

His sturdy appearance attests to the bearing of a natural athlete, and he finally revealed that he had once captained the Brooklyn College football team, and had also been a member of the boxing team.

He is affiliated with the American Psychological Association, the Psychometric Society, and the Association for the Advancement of American Science. At the present time he is engaged in a research on "The Influence of Prejudice in Reasoning."

Tough Legs

Born in Peekskill, N. Y., and later moving to Brooklyn, Dr. Sells attended Boys' High and obtained his A.B. at Brooklyn College followed by a Ph.D. at Columbia. He began his teaching career at Brooklyn College where he lectured on epistemology and logic, but, later considering psychology as the most important science of today, he has since devoted all his time to it.

DR. BELKIN AT DAF YOMI

The Daf Hayomi will be conducted tonight by Dr. Samuel Belkin, instructor in Greek at Yeshiva College. Dr. Belkin, who has written several works on Josephus and Philo, is also recognized as a consummate Talmudic scholar.

In addition to the continuance of the Daf Yomi, the S.O.Y. administration announced that it hopes to revive the Thursday night mishar.

DEBATERS MEET N. Y. U. HERE ON WAGES QUESTION

Yeshiva Team Will Uphold Affirmative Side Of Resolution

A decision debate between Yeshiva College and New York University of University Heights will take place at Yeshiva Monday night, November 16, inaugurating a series of intercollegiate debates to be held here this term.

The Yeshiva team will uphold the affirmative against New York University on the topic: "Resolved, that Congress be empowered to fix minimum wages and maximum hours."

Try-outs for the debating team will be held in the Dormitory Social Hall on Thursday, November 5 between 7:30 and 9 p.m. Members of the team will be chosen by Dr. Kenneth F. Deane, faculty advisor of the debating society.

Plans are in progress for student participation in inter class debates, forums and symposia to be sponsoring society this term, it was revealed by the chairman, Samuel H. Prero '37.

An application for a charter has been filed by the debating society with Student Council, as formerly only the debating team was recognized, and a Constitution has already been drawn up.

The officers of the society are: Samuel H. Prero '37, chairman; Edward M. Tenenbaum '37, vice chairman, and Benjamin Kretzman '39, secretary.

RELATIONS SOCIETY TO HOLD INITIAL MEETING

Dr. Margalith To Act As Advisor Again

The International Relations Society will commence its activities for the incoming season by holding its first meeting on November 9 under the leadership of Aaron Kaplan '37.

After the first two meetings which will be held on November 9 and 17, the group will meet every second Wednesday.

Among the speakers that the International Relations group expects to present to the student body are Ludwig Lore, Professor Nathan Reich, Jacob Fishman, Jacob de Haas and also members of the Yeshiva College faculty.

Dr. A. Margalith, who has been affiliated with the organization since its formation, will continue to act in the capacity of faculty advisor.

Under the personal guidance of Dr. Margalith and through his influence, the International Relations group has been able to obtain some of the foremost figures during the past season.

Due to its efforts in sponsoring the various events in connection with the Yeshiva College, the organization has been one of the most prominent in the field of intercollegiate activities at the college.

Wanted—Equity

We have already indicated the necessity for a dormitory committee which shall be representative of the several student organizations within the walls of the Yeshiva. We have pointed out that this is the only manner in which to secure the coordinated efforts of all student interests towards the improvement of the dormitory life.

It should have been clear, moreover, that we did not consider it sufficient that the committee represent every class of student. The committee, as we stated explicitly, must be composed of members representing each of the active student organizations. If a concentrated effort is to be made to attain a dormitory life permeated with the spirit of Yeshiva and to encourage activities expressive of this spirit, it is necessary that all organizations directing student activities should attack the matter in a unified manner.

Our suggestions should have elicited a candid response from the S.O.Y. If they found the specific recommendations objectionable they should at least have been willing to consider other means of cooperation between the various student councils in attacking the dormitory problem.

Instead, the S.O.Y. officers, while expressing their willingness to cooperate with one of the other student organizations, have refused to consider the general principle of cooperation of all student organs which we have advanced.

We consider this issue a serious one. Too long has the dormitory committee been inadequate. Too long has it lacked the confidence of the students.

The problems to be considered by the dormitory committee must once for all be adequately treated.

We shall insist upon a more suitable manner of dealing with dormitory affairs even if we must ignore the S.O.Y. dormitory committee entirely.

Democracy Vindicated

The overwhelming majority with which President Roosevelt was returned to office may well be regarded as a vindication of progressive democracy in its hour of crisis. The voters of America demonstrated that at a critical time, intelligence and the spirit of liberalism can overcome force, intimidation, and the power of wealth.

Seldom in the history of national elections has a president been opposed by so strong a combination of the forces of concentrated wealth. Never before were the masters of industrial and financial capital so unanimous in their antipathy towards a candidate.

Whatever resources the economic lords of the country could command were engaged in the attempt to defeat the Roosevelt administration. Every pressure which could be brought to bear upon the voters of the nation that they might repudiate the New Deal, was used.

Enormous campaign contributions were expended. Employees were intimidated. Legislative acts were viciously misrepresented. The aid and the formidable influence of eighty-five percent of the country's press were secured. A campaign was waged in which the demagogic arguments which were so successful in deceiving the people of many European states were employed.

If, in spite of this powerful opposition, the people of the United States endorsed Roosevelt with a vote greater than what even the most optimistic expected, we cannot help but feel that democracy is still a vital factor, that liberty and the good life are still regarded as the purpose of political action, and that organized intelligence is still a guide to social progress.

We are, to an extent, justified in renewing our faith that, if all who desire progress and fear reaction, can unite and consolidate their activities, industrial and social democracy can be attained through the medium of a democratic government.

The Institute Wakes Up

We wish to congratulate the new administration of the Teachers Institute Students' Organization on the renaissance which has sprung up in that department, as clearly evidence by this year's first issue of the Nir, and by the formation of a Student-Court to meet the general discipline problem.

Student activity in the college has adequately demonstrated to what extent an alive and interested student body can benefit an institution, especially with the aid of a competent organ to assist in the crystallization and in the definite expression of popular opinion. And while the various activities and campaigns of the college have had their influence on the other departments of the institution, their response is but beginning to make itself felt.

It has always been our opinion that there existed an urgent need for a student newspaper in the Teachers Institute which would serve as a constructive influence both curricularly and extra-curricularly. From the general appearance of the Nir, as well as from its editorial comment, it is apparent that the days of its infancy are over, and for that reason we can now feel that the need for a Beth Medrash organ may soon be adequately filled.

The Teachers Institute unquestionably has a very definite and very important place to fill in the general structure of Yeshiva. With this in mind, we look forward to the regular appearance of a student paper which will stimulate and continue the present renaissance, in order to assure the progress and development of the Beth Madrash so that it may occupy its position in relation to the whole with a maximum of benefit to Yeshiva.

Obituary

REVIEWS

By HAROLD POLIKOFF

This column is in search of a sufficient number of superlatives in order to describe "La Kermesse Heroique" (Carnival in Flanders) which is being shown at the Filmmarte Theatre on 58th street. It isn't gigantic, neither is it colossal (in the Hollywood sense), but it is as clever and satirical a bit of filmfare that it has been our privilege to witness some time. We can easily understand why the critics wrote so enthusiastically of the film and why it was awarded the Grand Prix du Cinema Francais and the gold medal at the Venice International Exposition.

The story takes place in a little Flemish town in the year 1616. The villagers are preparing for their annual carnival when a battalion of Spanish soldiers approaches. The men of the town are paralyzed with fear, but the women "heroically" save the community by the hospitable reception which they tender the invaders.

Jacques Feyder, the director, has imbued this simple tale with the type of sparkling humor that has brought distinction to another great French director, Rene Clair. "La Kermesse Heroique" establishes him as a master of film satire.

The cast is uniformly excellent. Our American players who are considered "funny" can learn a great deal from such performers as Francoise Rosay, Jean Murat, and that fine character actor, Alerne.

Take a tip—go out of your way to see "La Kermesse Heroique".

The British army should open a branch recruiting office in Hollywood. The American cinema capital has glorified His Majesty's troops in very much the same manner in which Ziegfeld glorified the American girl. What with "Clive of India", "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" and now "The Charge of the Light Brigade" (Strand), the movie-going public should be thoroughly convinced that British imperialism was motivated by a highly admirable feeling of compassion for the poor uncivilized natives, and that those treacherous rascals who resist the domination of the immaculate British troops should be exterminated for the good of civilization.

Particularly irritating is the fact that such pictures are excellently

MAYBE I'M WRONG

By ELIAZER GOLDMAN

In the year 65 B.C.E. Hyrcanus and Aristobulus submitted their rival claims to the throne of Judaea to Pompey. Three years later, Pompey, whose crafty decision favored Hyrcanus, invaded Jerusalem which was then held by Aristobulus and reduced Judaea to the state of a conquered province.

In the year 1233 C.E. Rabbi Solomon of Montpellier, fanatical critic of Maimonides' works, induced the Dominican fathers to confiscate the works of Maimonides and burn them. Six years later at Paris, the church, of its own volition, burnt all extant copies of the Talmud.

Last week the city council of Tel Aviv, by a vote of 8 to 7, elected A. Shalosh to succeed the late Meir Dizingoff as Mayor of the city. The minority immediately protested and threatened to appeal the matter to the high commission. The latest news dispatches announce that the High Commissioner has appointed Dr. I. Rokach as mayor, thus voiding the choice of the city council.

It is unnecessary to delve into the issues involved in this election and to discuss the relative merits of Mr. Shalosh and Dr. Rokach. Whatever one's views about the different policies which each of these men represent, one cannot help being dismayed at the shortsightedness of those who threatened to appeal the matter to the Palestinian government. At a moment when the fate of the Yishuv is hanging in the balance of capricious imperialistic interests no one may dare to lay our internal conflict before the mandatory power.

Those responsible for this action might recall that it was they who in the past howled loudest about the necessity of subordinating all interests to that pure Zionism and denounced their opponents as advocates of partisan and class interests.

Produced, acted, and directed. "The Charge of the Light Brigade" is no exception; unfortunately it is technically perfect.

Incidentally, it's a Warner Brother production, and there are evil rumors that Mr. Hearst is associated with that company.

VICTORY?

Ho hum! Got to write a column and sleepy as anything. Gabe just told me it has to be on sports, otherwise... But I don't know, how in the world can a guy concentrate with the radio going full blast bringing in election returns and schick static; reporters rushing past you in their haste to post results on the bulletin board; and me sitting here falling asleep ever five minutes. Oh well, it looks like the editor wins, here goes for a sports column, but that radio, OH!

Ankled down to the college gymnasium and saw Roosevelt leading Landon by the score of 2 to 1. What I noticed nearly bowled me over with surprise. Boys, we actually have a landslide for Roosevelt on returns from most of the team. They can pass, handle the ball with the greatest of ease, and all in all show that the Times has conceded the election to Lehman at 11:15, at which time the quarter ended.

(Hey Levin, if you're not going to shut up, I'll throw you out of the window with the radio, sleepy as I am. O.K., Gabe, I won't make noise. It's election night and they won't be sleeping anyways. Oh, sorry, I didn't know he roomed next door.)

Trupin gave the boys a pep talk at the end of the half when reports coming in from California showed that Levy was leading in scoring honors for the evening.

(Say, Appel, shut the radio off, will you. Do me a favor, can't you see I'm trying to write? How dya expect me to fill up a page with you listening to Hamilton bellowing away for old glory. Why don't you so some dummies for a change, instead of letting Gabe do all the work.)

Now, to continue with this column, I'm telling you boys, that Trupin has definitely awakened the country to the Hearst menace, who conceded the defeat of a new team that is slowly arising under his brilliant coaching.

(Boy, I'm getting hungry. Without food, simply can't write. Say Eleazer, mind going down getting me a couple of sandwiches? What, you say the kosher places are all closed? All right, never mind, so I won't eat. But listen, Gabe, next time no food, no column.)

Say, will all you guys not on the staff clear out o' here! It's hot enough without you fellows cloistering up the place. What! Roosevelt won, you don't say, and I missed all the election returns because of this— It's all right, Mr. Editor, I won't put the word in.

Now, to continue, once again. This is getting to be a habit, it seems. The college basketball team—Oh boy. Thanks, Mrs. Simon, we sure appreciate your

CHESS MEN LOSE FIRST MATCH, 3-2

Only 3 of 6 Boards Play As Rest Default

The Yeshiva College chess team began the new season by losing to Seth Low, in an intercollegiate chess match, by the score of 3-2. The match was supposed to have consisted of six boards, but only three games were played. Three players on the Seth Low team failed to show up, while M. Shapiro '39 was the absentee for Yeshiva. All games played resulted in victories for Seth Low, thus enabling them to defeat Yeshiva for the first time since tournament play began between the two colleges.

George Silver '37 playing black on the first board, held his own until the 21st move, but his opponent gained the upper hand at that point and managed to defeat him in an end game.

Lawrence Charney '38 playing black on the third board had an easy win, being three pawns ahead at the 18th move but made a false move, allowing his opponent to gain the upper hand, and the game.

Sussman '38 played black on the 5th board against Traktman of Seth Low. The latter proved to be the stronger player and had a winning game throughout. Samuel H. Prere '37 fourth board and Ben Sincoff '39 sixth board won their games by default, constituting the only victories for Yeshiva.

PLAY ROOM TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

New Ping Pong Equipment Already Installed

The recreation room will officially open next Monday night and will continue to be in use each night thereafter from 8:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m., Aaron Kaplan '37, athletic manager announced.

Many new attractions have been installed in the room to furnish the students sufficient recreation whenever they so desire. Among them are ping pong tables, chess and checkers, lounge, victrola and piano.

The athletic manager expressed the hope that students will do their utmost to keep the room's facilities in good condition.

Contributions such as banners, pictures, decorations for the purpose of embellishing the play room would be greatly appreciated by the athletic council, he said.

AMBITION?

If anyone familiar with the varied success of the college varsity of last season, would glance over the schedule of the coming season he would find something rather interesting. It seems that Aaron Kaplan '37 in drawing up the schedule elected to choose only those teams that managed to defeat Yeshiva in past seasons or those that the varsity had rather a tough time beating. With the team immensely improved as it is, thanks to Coach Trupin, it will be of interest to note how well the varsity fares with these teams in the coming season. Opinion definitely places Yeshiva in the victory column in the majority of the games.

HI ARONOFF, ERSTWHILE CAPTAIN, DEFEATED BY FORMER TEAM-MATES

His Club Swamped, 33-16, In First Pre-Season Game

Conquering the Aronoff A. C. to the melody of 33-16, the Yeshiva fivesters opened up the current season with a practice game victory. The varsity, however, found it difficult to outclass thoroughly the proteges of an alumnus, without any consideration for a former captain's feelings. Yet, it was even more difficult for the courteous men of the court to pay their proper respects to the man of yesterday without being called to order by the admonishments of the latest addition to the rank of big brothers and advisors, Milt Trupin. The coach wanted form, alumni or no alumni, and didn't mind halting the proceedings to say so.

Der Maxie, Levy to you, took a beyooteful fancy shot, made it, and gave a humble apology to the coach for not obeying instructions. "Progress in Yeshiva," was the general comment.

Pitch and Catch The argument, as the demon would call it, started out with the usual ceremony of the tap, soon after which Goldklang began to play pitch and catch with Koslowsky, who ran away with the ball (down the field) and sank two points worth after a pass from Sklarin. Undaunted by Yeshiva's ability to handle the bloated ophide (or is it?), Aronoff decided it was his turn and consequently turned the tables, but he did it twice; once with a tidy (clean) goal from the sideline and then again from somewhere's else.

This lack of sportsmanship in taking his turn twice, got our men mad, and resulted in one, two, three, four consecutive scorings and a half-time balance sheet of 10 to 6.

TEAM IMPROVED, PRACTICE SHOWS

Scrimmage Session Reveals Coaching Benefits

The Trupin Club, for the second time within two weeks, decisively trounced Yeshiva in a practice scrimmage session, which lasted about two hours, last night. Arriving unexpectedly early in the evening, the proteges of the Yeshiva coach gave our varsity an unexpectedly stiff workout, which left the veterans gasping for breath.

However, the team appeared to be clicking a greater number of times than previously, and shows excellent improvement together with promise for the future. At the beginning of the session Trupin emptied his lungs into the opening of a German made whistle. The Jewish breath, unable to remain within the confines of a Nazi product, promptly broke away on all sides, carrying various portions of the whistle with it.

broke the guests' defense and threw the ball from about the fifty yard line right through the hoop. Four points by Aronoff, four more by Rubin, and the boys quieted down to give the guards a break for a while. In the last quarter Eisenberg hove into the press box's ken as he pushed the bean bag through the net for two more in the asset column. Levy was ever-present, tossing in some two more to make it thirteen points for the evening's work, just one foul heave ahead of Koslowsky. Aronoff was high scorer for the A. C. crowd with 4 field goals against his name on the box score.

It seems, however, that the results of the game, did not stop at victory, as the "kind words of appraisal" which Trupin dished out so generously, had one fellow working on the court all election day. What a pity. It seems he really wants to make the team.

Table with 4 columns: Player Name, G, F, T. Rows include Yeshiva College (33) and Aronoff A. C. (16) with player statistics.

Notes From the States IN WHICH

By A. LEO LEVIN The real forgotten man, it seems, can be none other than Claude A. Watson, candidate for the vice-presidency on the Prohibition ticket... we waited all night for his concession of defeat, and it seemed even that wasn't rated news... unless it's stale already.

But believe you me, the biggest upset in polls was not the Digest's bad guess, but the Associated Collegiate Press balloting in the University of Southern California where Watson's running mate, the dry Colvin, beat Roosevelt by a substantial majority... malicious intent is suspected.

Attention magnetic fingers: "No Parking, P.D." means everything BUT the sign, at least in Martinsville, Va. where the whole Wofford College eleven was shown the inside of the local refrigerating plant, after being caught trying to move the sign... a souvenir is all they wanted.

Commentator work would be a lot easier, if Gabe would accept the standards of Mr. Harrison from Bernstein's home state (how'd it vote... he takes nouns, just plain ones like hill, cliff, and hokus pokus (Abe H. watch closely), they're at present verbs and adverbs. Huh, you don't believe me, listen "love cliffily... hill yourself." Boys, its poetic expression, gone modern according to its invention and sole known user. Who said Gertie Stein had no equal!

WEEKLY ONEG SHABAT TO HEAR INWOOD RABBI

Rabbi Joseph Marcus, of the Inwood Jewish Center, will speak this Friday evening at the Weekly Oneg Shabat held by the Poel Hamizrachi of Yeshiva College. Rabbi Marcus will concern himself with a brier survey of figures in Zionism, including Leo Pinsker, Moses Hess, Jacob Reines, founder of the Mizrachi, and finally a short treatment of Rabbi Meyer ney '37 have been elected as judges with President Aaron Kaplan '37 and Vice President Hyman Gribitz members by virtue of their respective offices.

In order to remove administrative problems, minor courts, responsible to the higher body, have been formed in the several classes. All details will be handled through these groups, who will, whenever necessary, pass on more important cases to the superior tribunal.

Berlin, leading contemporary Mizrachim. An open forum will follow the short address, while the musical interludes will be present as usual.

It was also announced by Samuel Prero '37, secretary of the Poel Hamizrachi, that a meeting of the local chapter would be held tonight at 8:30 promptly in the Dormitory Social Hall. Future plans will be discussed and a number of standing committees are to be appointed.

Y. C. REPRESENTED AT COLLEGE FORUM

Yeshiva College will be officially represented at an intercollegiate conference of registrars and admissions officers for the first time tomorrow, when Registrar Jacob I. Hartstein will attend a conference of New York colleges on various problems to be held in conjunction with state education officials in Albany.

The conference will include open forums on problems of admissions and graduations, and will also discuss the vital question of finances, scholarships, and loans.

Conspicuous in the list of New York colleges and universities which will be represented, was the name of Yeshiva, which somehow manages to be last on all alphabetical lists.

PURE... and of finer texture than most anything that touches your lips...

We all agree on this . . . cigarette paper is important. For Chesterfield we use the best paper that we can buy. It is called Champagne Cigarette Paper. It is made from the soft, silky fibre of the flax plant. It is washed over and over in clear, sparkling water.

A lot of the pleasure you get in smoking Chesterfields is due to our using the right kind of cigarette paper. Chesterfield paper is pure, and it burns without taste or odor.

Remember this . . . two things make the smoking quality of a cigarette—the tobacco and the paper. The Champagne cigarette paper on Chesterfields is tested over and over for purity, for the right burning quality. Another reason why Chesterfield wins.
