

Juniors Cop Class Nite Banner

Florence Gribetz Receives Trophy

By ALLEN MANDELBAUM

The Juniors did it again. For the second time in three years, the '43 men copped the Class Nite award, this time with a clever take-off on the trial of Socrates. Dr. Hitman, ably portrayed by "Hemlock" Hack, pinch-hitted for the deceased Athenian philosopher. Accused of poisoning the minds of Yeshiva youth, Dr. Hitman appealed to Bernard P. Reiss, the jurist of note, and vindicated himself by making excellent use of the scathing rhymes of Myron Reis, Potentate of the Punny Pun. From their luxurious suite in "Hotel Yeshiva," Sam "Esta Milchig" Jaffe, "Alka-Seltzer" Salkowitz and Jerry Robbins, director, also did their part in making the Junior show the success it was.

The evening's fun actually started when two burly, burlesquing barkers, Charles Rothblatt '44 and Sid Reiss '42, ushered the students and guests into the requisitioned Brenner Emporium.

Guest Star Performs

After the Junior show "Moish" Epstein, chairman of the Social Committee, supported by the four flimsy legs of a chair, introduced the guest star, Mr. A. Jonathan Margolis, former member of the Yiddish Art Theatre and dramatic director of the J. E. C. Mr. Margolis then regaled the audience with monologues and anecdotes.

No sooner had he left the stage than "Menachem Mendel" Fischer and Irv Jaret stumbled onto the platform with the Senior class presentation, "Chazel Chan". Looking like a cross between Chiang Kai-Shek and Chief Little Wolf, Fischer, along with Jaret, helped make the Senior show the success it wasn't. The show was slightly loose at the ends and disintegrated about the middle.

The seniors were opportunely interrupted by George Cohen, president of the student body, who presented our beloved Florence Gribetz, blushing yet radiant, with a loving cup, accepting her as an "Honorary Student of Yeshiva College."

The sophomores then took over the stage, presenting the "Rebel Electron." It got out of control and so did they.

It remained for the rookie freshmen to vie with the Junior presentation. Striking silhouettes, a minuscule monkey, and "Hal" Miller featured the show of the '45 men, which was written and directed by Nathan Rosenbaum and Allen Mandelbaum.

Relations Club Represented At Convention

Representing Yeshiva at the International Relations Clubs' conference sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for World Peace held at Lehigh University on November 28 and 29, were David Miller '42, president of the International Relations Society; Joseph Sokolow '42, vice-president, and Abe Karp '42, winner of a recently conducted IRS essay contest.

The discussions at the conference, in which over sixty colleges participated, concerned themselves mainly with the present war events and the role of the major powers at the future international peace conference. The program of activities was divided into a series of round table conferences. Each Yeshiva representative took part in one of the various conferences on topics of immediate importance. Due to the active participation of Yeshiva's delegates, the assemblage became familiarized with the college and its numerous activities.

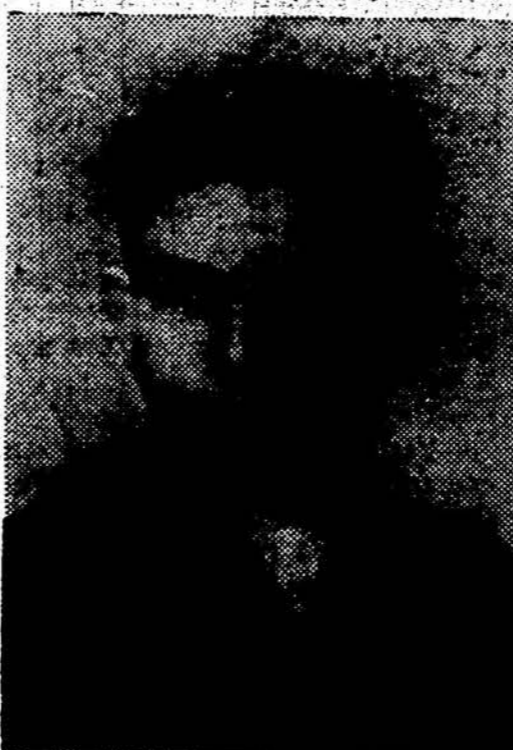

Dr. Wilson Godshall, head of the Political Science Department of Lehigh University, accepted with gratitude an invitation to address the International Relations Society upon his coming visit to New York.

The main function of the society at Yeshiva this term will be to conduct a series of bi-weekly discussions on current affairs under the guidance of Dr. Aaron Margalith.

SCRIPTA MATHEMATICA

Number five in the series of the Scripta Mathematica Library, the Galois Lectures, named in honor of the French inventor of the theory of equations, was recently published. This work is now in use in various high schools and colleges. Undergoing preparation as another activity of Scripta Mathematica is a portfolio of portraits of famous physicists with biographies of Professor Henry Crew of the University of Michigan as well as "The Spider as an Architect and Mathematician" by Professors David Eugene Smith of Columbia University and Jekuthiel Ginsburg.

Dr. Revel Extolled At Memorial Service

"The leadership of Dr. Revel, of sainted memory, is likened unto that of the great Saadye Goan, whose thousand year memorial falls on this date." Thus spoke Rabbi S. K. Mirsky, representing the Yeshiva College and Teachers' Institute at the first memorial service for our late president, held Sunday, November 23, 1941, in the Lampport Auditorium.

Leading the procession of speakers was Hon. Samuel Levy, former president of the Borough of Manhattan and Chairman of the Board of Directors of Yeshiva College, who read a message from Rabbi Goldstein, honorary president of the Rabbinical Council, revealing the fact the graduate school at Yeshiva had been named after Dr. Revel.

Representing the various faculties of Yeshiva and Yeshiva College were Rabbis A. D. Burack and S. K. Mirsky.

A biographical sketch of the late Dr. Revel was given by his son, Mr. Hershel Revel. Dr. Revel was president of Yeshiva College from 1915 until his death December 1, 1940.

The early experiences upon Dr. Revel's arrival to this Country and his appointment as head of Yeshiva were related by Rabbi B. L. Leventhal, chairman of the Praesidium of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Canada.

Y. C. Players Pick Three One-Act Plays

"Submerged," "Private Jones," and "Twelve Before Three," are the three one-act plays to be presented by the Yeshiva College players this winter on their projected "One-Act Play Night," Phillip Horowitz '42, announced.

Tentative casting for "Submerged" and "Twelve Before Three" was completed last Thursday evening by Professor Kenneth F. Damon, director of the plays. Final casts for all three dramas will be announced in the next issue of the Commentator.

"Submerged" is a tense drama treating of the lives of six men in a sunken submarine who are awaiting a navy rescue ship. When they discover that all hope for succor from that source is cut off the inner character of each man is revealed, creating thrilling, punch-packed action.

The other melodrama, "Twelve Before Three" is a psychological portrait of a man whose abject fear of death produces weird results when he is threatened with destruction by an imprisoned killer. "Private Jones," the third selection uses the World War as its background, and is a comic portrayal of the capture of two Americans by a German unit and their subsequent exploits in their captors' dugout.

The next meeting of the Players will take place for "Private Jones" 8:30 P.M., at which time casting will take place for "Private Jones"

All those interested in acting or in working on set construction, lighting, and publicity are asked to report at that time.

and the entire Jewish Community had a spiritual leader and a steffing friend," observed Moses I. Feuerstien, president of the Alumni Association.

The service was closed with the chanting of the memorial prayer by Cantor Pinco Jassinowsky of the Jewish Centre.

Dr. A. Litman Resigns From Co-Directorship

The co-direction of library affairs by Dr. Aaron Margalith, assistant professor in political science, and Dr. Alexander Litman, asst. prof. in philosophy, was brought to an end with the resignation of the latter, and the consequent election, at the last faculty meeting, of Dr. Margalith to the post of Acting Librarian.

Having gained full power of administration, Dr. Margalith began an immediate re-organization of library affairs. Under his direction many important books and documents have been recovered and order has been restored in the Librarian's office.

Extensive work is being continued on the cataloguing of books, which was started by the former librarian, Mr. Isaac Goldberg '38. A special staff will be formed which will concern itself exclusively with this project. All those having previous experience in this field or who wish to take an active interest in this work are requested to contact any of the librarians.

Pursuant with his desire to build up the library on a more efficient basis, Dr. Margalith is attending special classes in library technique at Columbia University.

"The new policy of the library," said Dr. Margalith, "is to place the emphasis on coordinated work which will make the present stock of books available in full." "This," he added, "can be achieved only by full student cooperation and a sincere interest in the rededication of the library."

Positions are still open on staffs headed by the following students: Martin Keller '44, assistant librarian, Alfred Weisel '42, head of library decoration, and Morris Chernofsky '42, in charge of the cataloguing system. Students who feel capable of working efficiently on any of these staffs are urged to contact staff heads.

S. O. Y. To Run Annual Chagiga

The annual Chanukah Chagiga of the S. O. Y., comprised of a dinner and entertainment, will be held Tuesday, December 16, at 8:00 p.m. Rabbi David Hollander will act as master of ceremonies of the affair, which will be directed by Sidney Steinman '44, Emanuel Fischer '42, and David Mirsky '42, chairman of the Social Affairs Committee. Paul Orentlicher '43 has been appointed director of publicity, finance and arrangements.

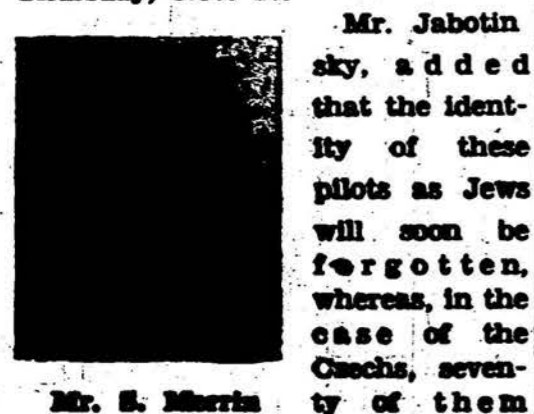

Payments of registration dues will be a prerequisite for admittance. Tickets, which will be ready for distribution next Sunday, can be obtained from the presidents of the respective classes of Yeshiva.

Among other indications of a progressive S. O. Y. is the planned publication of the monthly "Kaddak" in magazine form. The first issue will appear soon under the editorship of Norman Rosen '42.

Auspicious Starts Made By Jewish Organizations

Betar Group Hears Eri Jabotinsky

"There are 1500 Jewish pilots in the R.A.F." stated Eri Jabotinsky at a rally for Jewish Air Corps volunteers in the Yeshiva synagogue, Thursday, Nov. 27.

Mr. E. Jabotinsky

nized with the utmost of fanfare and publicity. In appealing for recruits to join the Jewish army now and to enlist in the Jabotinsky Aviation School he stressed that the outcome would be a recognition of Jewish participation in this war.

"Wheels of progress may stop, but national unity must be established," were the opening words of Mr. Propes, organizer of the Betar in America and the Aviation Training Corps. "Our people who are talking much about a Jewish army but are doing far less about it symbolize disunity. Contrarily, in Russia, thousands of skilled Polish Jews are clamoring for a Jewish Army—and England will be forced to accept their demands. England's acquiescence will be effected through great American pressure, by the great need for pilots, and by our ability to train 250 pilots every six months. Already our Jewish youth stands in the battle lines. Why not on the battlefield of the air?"

Rabbi Zapinsky '35, president of Yeshiva Betar announced that regular meetings will be held in the near future. He stated that in addition to volunteers for the Air Corps, the Betar requests speakers to enlist their services in publicizing the call for recruits and the necessity of a Jewish Army. This appeal is made directly to Yeshiva students.

Sidney Merrin '41, one of the organizers of the Betar group at Yeshiva, appealed to the students to help the society by active participation in its activities.

Dr. Jung To Advise Jewish Affairs Club

The recently organized Jewish Affairs Society has obtained the services of Rabbi Dr. Leo Jung, professor of Jewish philosophy, as faculty advisor.

Under his leadership the society plans to issue a journal to be published at the beginning of the next semester. This publication will contain articles of merit on Jewish affairs discussed from various viewpoints by the student body, faculty, and prominent personalities in American Judaism.

All students are invited to attend future meetings and contribute articles for publication to Murray D. Rothman '44, president.

The Jewish Post-War Problem

Once again Jewish blood flows in Europe. Cablegrams from Rabbis Herzog and Ben Amiel of the Holy Land inform us of new atrocities in Rumania, involving the lives and fortunes of thousands of unfortunates in that land.

The constant stream of such reports, some from such authoritative sources and others from unofficial horror stories emphasize the fact that most of Europe will, under the best conditions, be unfit for Jewish habitation for a great many years to come. The very ground, in most of Europe, is so drenched with concentrated hatred, that it is poisonous for the Jew to enter upon it.

The problem of transferring European Jewry to another part of the world will be one of the prime post-war concerns. Serious thought on the subject, as exhibited at the Pan-American Jewish Conference in Baltimore two weeks ago is, therefore, very valuable at the present time.

Strikers and the War

It may come as a shock to some people, but we maintain that strikers, even in defense industries, are human beings. We believe that they are honest, decent citizens of the United States, for the most part. Yet, they do not feel that Fascism is such a grave danger to them, as citizens, that any hindrance of defense efforts is unthinkable.

We believe that those workers are mistaken in this notion. At the same time, however, the fact that the present social system is not complete enough to embrace them, so that they should feel that any threat to its existence is a direct threat to them, is a significant commentary on the weaknesses of that system.

That commentary should remind us of the oft-repeated idea that we are fighting this war not only for the preservation of some of the old values, but also, for the opportunity to create new ones. We are fighting for liberty, equality, fraternity, yes, but liberty and bread, equality and security, fraternity and the opportunity to earn a living.

Class Nite Fiasco

The entertainment at the recent Class Nite was rank. That fact would not be too disturbing, were it not for the large number of guests who witnessed a number of unprepared performers combine to give an inept and sloppy presentation.

Class Nite is not supposed to be a serious affair. But it is supposed to be an intelligently humorous presentation; one which will attract the guests present, leave a pleasant impression on their minds, and encourage them to find out just what this Yeshiva College is.

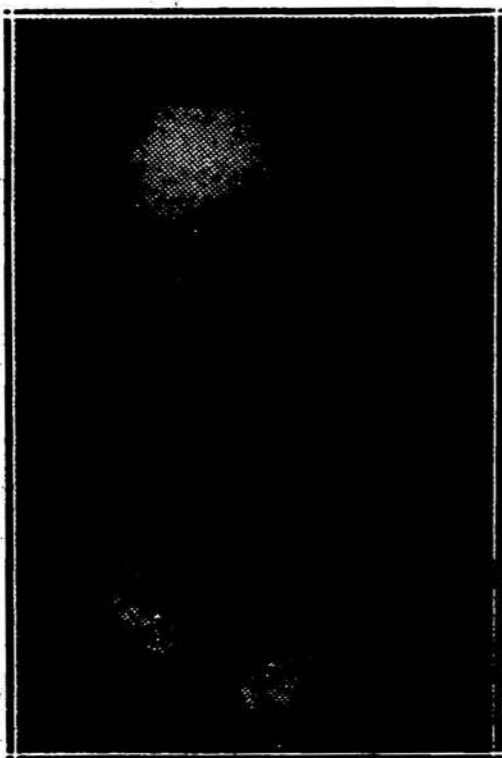

If it does not fill that description it only lowers the school's prestige. The Social Committee should decide once and for all whether to insist upon a higher caliber in Class Nite shows, or, if that is impossible, to restrict the attendance so that the audience be an intimate group of student body and faculty members.

Dr. Belkin Discloses Policy Of New Yeshiva Administration

By JOE KARASICK '43

An often asked question by students and alumni of the Yeshiva alike is "What has been taking place under the new administration, and how will the individual student be affected by any changes that have been instituted?" There is a general feeling that "things are happening" in Yeshiva, but although all are conscious of innovations, many are not fully aware of their implications. An interview with Dr. Samuel Belkin, dean of the Yeshiva, was affected so that the new policy of the Yeshiva be expanded to all the students, and to generally answer the question "wither Yeshiva?"

"The policy of the Yeshiva is to be along the same lines as it has been formulated by our late and beloved Rosh Hayeshiva Dr. Bernard Revel, of blessed memory; namely, that the Yeshiva is primarily a place of Torah, and its main purpose is to develop young men into real Talmidei Chochim. Of course, more intensive rabbinic study is to be expected of those who contemplate entering the active rabbinate in the course of time; for a rabbi is not merely a minister or preacher, he is one who is an authority on Talmudic law in its traditional sense." This premise was laid down by Dr. Belkin at the very beginning of our discussion.

The Yeshiva is now divided into two divisions, and each class has a definite status in its particular division. The division in which the classes meet upstairs is graded into the following classes: Rabbis Arnest or Steinberg, Rabbi Wolk, Rabbis Burack or Shufenthal, and Rabbi Poleyeff. Rabbi Gerstenfeld is also giving a "shlur" for a group of students who are receiving his utmost attention and are making great progress in their studies.

The division which assembles in the central study hall contains the classes of Rabbis Belkin, Schatzkes, and Soloveitchick. In addition, Rabbis Oloshkevsky and Aaronovitch deliver lectures in "Chulin" and "Yoreh Deah," respectively.

Arrangements have also been made for every class to hear learned discourses on the "Orach Chaim" to be delivered by Rabbis Rubenstein and Zalmanovitch to the "Beth Hamidrash" group, and in the upstairs division by the respective rabbis.

In order that the spirit of learning be developed to the highest extent in all phases of rabbinics, the Homiletics Department has also been augmented by a course on Midrash, with Rabbi A. D. Burack as lecturer.

Dr. Belkin also stressed the fact that the student preparing himself for the rabbinate must realize that the final year is not the all important one, but "he is to be judged on the basis of his complete comprehensive background." Consequently a form of periodical examination is to be given to the students to judge their fitness for the rabbinate with respect to their Talmudic background. Furthermore, those students who are studying Chulin are also required to attend a "shlur" on another tractate, so that even in the preparation of codes for practical purposes, the importance of "Torah Lishmah" will not be minimized.

"I would also like it to be understood that the Dean of Men will be very important in handling all phases of student affairs," added Dr. Belkin. "I'm sure that Mr. Sar will be instrumental in bringing about a more harmonious relationship between the students and the faculty, and between other groups who affect the students."

In order that the rabbinical stu-

In the Editor's Mail Box

Dear Editor,

The faculty of Yeshiva College should be subjected to scrutinizing animadversion in reference to their religious influences over the student. The faculty does not need our commendation for their sky-high scholarship, but we ought to realize that there is dead-work to be done with those instructors of the sciences who hold sacrilegious views and who will consciously or subconsciously affect the students and certainly will not seek to conglutinate their studies with our traditional basical beliefs. Why not trade in these instructors for others who possess this conglutinative ability? Why not have courses in genetics, theory of evolution and geology conducted by G-d fearing men of reputable scholastic standards who will prepare us to face the waves of neoteric atheism? Yes, why not?

Rabbi Belkin closed our interview by expressing great satisfaction at the "spirit of learning" which prevails in the student body at the present time, pointing out, however, that "there is always room for improvement"

ON THE SIDELINES

By HENRY MARGOLIS

Two down, season to go: The season is well underway and already the record is black with two defeats. This might be sufficient reason for some of us to be walking around with long faces and glum dispositions. However, a close observer should be able to discern a decided improvement in the team's play. Plays are beginning to work more smoothly, the boys are playing smarter ball, and they are working together better than ever. It is no disgrace to lose to a better team and the teams we have lost to were superior to ours. We, in this department, feel that from now on there'll be smooth sailing with Yeshiva winning more than its share of ball games.

Court scenes: The Commerce game was held up fifteen minutes because timekeeper Morris Epstein had to get a bite to eat. No wonder he's gained back twenty pounds since September. . . . Our cheering squad appeared in an all out effort to pep the boys up and from comments the varsity let pass we understand that the squad was successful plus. Some new cheers are being devised and will be taught to the students in the near future. So let's give three cheers for the cheering squad. . . . Elgart got into the game and covered himself with glory. Glad to see you make good, Joe. . . . While our zone defense was broken up in the first quarter, the third period saw it tighten up so that Commerce scored only two points.

Schedule notes: For future reference it might be well to mention the stupidity of making up a schedule in which the first game pits us against one of our strongest foes. We don't want to say that we lost because the team was not prepared. That would be so much bosh. But we will say that a team needs a certain amount of building up before a season of tough ball games. Our not being prepared for B.C.P. was definitely a contributing factor to our defeat.

No recriminations: A number of students, who are still wet behind the ears as far as basketball is concerned, has suggested that this column be used to publicly chastise certain members of the varsity for their inept actions on the court. That is not the task we are undertaking in writing this stuff. If such action is necessary the coach is sufficiently capable of handling the

Hotly Contested Intramurals Get Under Way

Led by Al Salkowitz, who garnered 11 points, the junior five upset the favored frosh team last Wednesday night, November 26, in the gym, by the score of 20-19. It was the second victory in as many starts for the juniors, having defeated the seniors the week before. High scorer for the freshmen was M. Seigal who sank four baskets.

The seniors, avenging their loss in basketball, defeated the juniors in a hotly-contested ping pong match on Thursday night, November 13, in the game room, by the score of 3-2. Henry Margolis led the seniors with a victory in his singles match and then teamed with Kramer to win their doubles match. Irv Jarret provided the other victory.

Bouncing back from their defeat at the hands of the freshmen, the sophs upset the favored senior ping pong team on Thursday night, November 27, in the game room, by the score of 3-2. Aaron Abelow and Leo Auerbach won their singles matches and the sophs' third victory was in the second doubles match. Henry Margolis continued his streak by defeating Carl Einhorn in the number one singles match.

Determined to atone for their loss to the seniors and seeking to even the standings, the juniors easily downed the freshmen on Monday night in the game room. The winners took four consecutive matches before dropping the second doubles match.

Al Salkowitz started the victory march by defeating Bernie Auerbach by the scores of 21-19 and 21-16. Peyser and Leitner continued the parade with victories over Levy and Elefant respectively. The two juniors then combined to win the first doubles match from Auerbach and Seltzer to conclude the success of the juniors.

Bernie Auerbach again produced an amazing upset when he defeated Henry Margolis in two games to lead the Frosh in routing the Seniors on Tuesday night in the game room. The score was 4-1.

The Frosh won all the single matches as Elefant and Levy defeated Jarret and Kramer respectively. The seniors lone victory was in the last doubles match.

Y. C. Quints Lose Two Sizzling Encounters

Blue And White Suffer Second Loss

In a free scoring, rough and tumble thriller, a classy N. Y. U. Commerce team defeated Yeshiva at the Heights gym last Tuesday evening, November 25, by a 52-43 score.

The Quints were hopelessly outplayed in the first quarter as the visitors kept breaking through a wide open zone and ran up a 13-1 advantage. Then Irv Jarret threw in a pretty backhand field goal and Yeshiva began to roll. Before the half came to a close the home team had fought its way back to a 30-21 deficit.

There followed then what was one of the wildest quarters in the history of Yeshiva basketball. Trailing a well poised, veteran outfit by a nine point margin, the Mighty Mites, paced by that rubber legged dynamo, Hesh Esterson, tallied fourteen points while holding the opposition to a scanty two. In this spurge Hesh hit the hoop for no less than nine markers. But N. Y. U. soon recovered and, led by its towering captain, Sol Aboff, drove back into the lead and thereafter was never headed.

Esterson, who threw in fifteen points worth during the evening, was high scorer. Stan Doppelt, the freshman with that nifty left hand, was next highest for Yeshiva with ten counters.

Halachic Journal To Appear Soon

The first issue of the Halachic Quarterly, a journal sponsored by the Inter-Faculty Council, is going to press this week. The appearance of this publication in January will mark the establishment of a printed medium of expression for authoritative Talmudic scholars.

The twofold purpose of the Halachic Quarterly, as described in a statement by Professor Samuel K. Mirsky, is to reduce into print the lectures and additions to Jewish Law by teachers connected with this institution and to serve as a clearing house of writing, wherein scholars will be able to exchange their opinions on urgent vital problems of Jewish law.

With the donation of one hundred dollars by Mr. Frank Shavetz, the Editorial Board has been enabled to edit the forthcoming Quarterly. The bulk of the subscribers are graduates who are either entering the rabbinate or practicing in that profession.

In addition to the articles submitted by senior Talmudic instructors to the scheduled issue, Rabbi Menachem Kasher, author of the encyclopedia "Torah Schlema," has contributed a legal dissertation on the institution of levirate marriages in modern Palestine as practiced by the immigrants from the Near East. "Rabbi Kasher will be a regular contributor," Professor Mirsky added.

Yeshiva Drops Thrilling Opener

In a keenly waged, hotly contested battle, which was far more interesting than the final score seems to indicate, the Yeshiva College basketballers dropped the season's opener to a strong Brooklyn College of Pharmacy five, on the winners' floor, Wednesday night, November 19. The count was 45-32.

Co-captain Harold Esterson sent the Blue and White into an early lead when he wrapped two field goals around a Pharmacy foul. A few more rapid fire shots and Yeshiva was comfortably ahead as the quarter ended, 10-3.

Brooklyn came to life in the second period and the Quints were forced to go at top speed to keep up the pace, but timely scoring by Jarret, Rosenbloom, and Friedman gave Yeshiva a 22-18 edge at the half.

A furious third quarter saw the bigger Brooklynites outscore the Mites by virtue of fine set shooting and by the end of the frame Pharmacy led 31-30. Then the roof fell in. Capitalizing on their advantage in height, Brooklyn rolled up 14 consecutive points to clinch the victory.

Rabbi Lander Appointed To State Post

Rabbi Bernard Lander, member of the graduating class of '36, was appointed consultant to the Maryland State Legislature's Commission on Juvenile Delinquency by Governor Herbert R. O'Connor of that state.

Preparing for his doctorate at Columbia University, Rabbi Lander has devoted his post-graduate work to social philosophy, specializing particularly in juvenile delinquency and dependent children. He acted as assistant to Prof. Theodore Abel, now a member of the Yeshiva College Sociology Department. Rabbi Lander attributes much of his achievements to the help of Prof. Abel.

While attending this institution, Rabbi Lander majored in political sciences under the guidance of Dr. Aaron A. Margalith. As president of the S.O.Y., he devoted his efforts to revitalizing that organization.

At present, he is rabbi of the Beth Jacob Congregation in Baltimore.

Library Installs New Fluorescents

The Yeshiva Library has taken a great step in its improvement, with the installation of fluorescent lighting. This is only one of the many technical improvements that have been made to better the illumination of the library. "A greater number of students are using the library as a place for study, since this renovation has been brought about," said Jacob Dienstag, librarian.

The Soncino Translation of the Talmud, composed of twenty-four volumes, has been purchased for the library.

Both the installation of the new lighting and the purchase of the set of books have been made possible by the fund established by Mr. Mendel Gottesman, principal benefactor of the library.

"Classification of books is progressing rapidly," says Mr. Dienstag, "and upon completion of this project, a thorough recataloging of all the reading material in the library on a distinctive, scientific basis will start."

Yeshiva Represented By Registrar

Professor Jacob I. Hatstein, registrar, represented Yeshiva College at the conference of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the accrediting agency for this region and the Canal Zone. Meeting at Atlantic City November 20 to 22, the members of the convention held numerous seminars based on the theme, "Education and General Welfare." Professor Hatstein participated in two major discussions: a review of college administration and registration procedure, and a survey of the range of student extra-curricular activities.

Debaters Plan Intramurals

Plans for intra-mural debating are being formulated by the executive committee of the Yeshiva College Debating Society. Irwin Gordon '43, manager of the team, announced that such a forum, the first of its kind to be held in the college, will be conducted the second week of December before one of Professor Damon's speech classes.

In a recent non-decision debate with Brooklyn College held in the dormitory social lounge, the current national labor problem was discussed with Abe Karp '42 and Melvin Rossman '42 representing Yeshiva. After the debate, members of the audience participated in an open forum.

Commencing its season's activities, the Freshman debating squad engaged N. Y. U. of Washington Square Freshmen, the topic being: "Resolved, that United States form an independent air force." Allen Mandelbaum and Harold Shulweis upheld the affirmative for Yeshiva.
