"Eidenu" Appears In Tribute To Memory Of Dr. Revel

Hebrew, English Sections Comprise Erudite Work Edited by Rabbi Poupko

The "Eidenu," a magnificent tribute to the memory of Dr. Bernard Revel, appeared this week in the form of a 230 page bound volume. The book, which has already been acclaimed as the most impressive expression of the students of any theological seminary in this country, was edited by Rabbi Bernard A. Poupko '39. Assisting him was an Editorial Board composed of Rabbi Isaac Bertram Rose '33, Michael Bernstein '36, Aaron B. Shurin '45 and Norman B. Bronznick '45.

RABBI BERNARD POUPKO

In order to convey the synthesis which was the motivating theme of Dr. Revel's life and work, the volume is divided into two sections: Talmudic and Biblical scholarly articles in the Hebrew language, and discussions of secular topics in English.

Outstanding among the articles is the discussion of an intricate Talmudic topic which Dr. Revel completed shortly before his untimely demise.

Talmudic Contributions

The Talmudic essays are particularly relevant, since most of them were inspired by conversations with the deceased sage. They were contributed by the "Roche HaYeshiva" and by other distinguished rabbis in this country, such as Rabbi Mordecai Savitsky, the "L'ide" Illui, Rabbi's Notolewitz, Levinson and Chaim Kaplan. Dr. Abraham Wise, along with Dr. Nathan Klotz and Rabbi Samuel K. Mirsky are the authors of the articles of biblical scholarship. Evaluations of Dr. Revel's character and accomplishments by one of his closest associates, Dr. Pinkhos Churgin, and one of his devoted students, Rabbi William Drazin of Savannah, Georgia, complete the Hebrew articles.

"He was a great teacher," declared Governor Herbert H. Lehman, in his statement of appreciation, "but his influence went far beyond the halls of Yeshiva. He was an example of saintly life. He served as an inspiration not only to his own students but to the far wider school of men and women who came into contact with him."

Medical Aptitude Tests Scheduled For April 24

Medical aptitude tests, administered by the Committee of the Association of American Medical Colleges, will be given on April 24, 1942, at 3 p.m. The test is one of the normal requirements for admission to a medical school and all students who intend to enter medical school in 1943 are urged to see the Registrar for applications. There will be a one-dollar fee for the test. It is not necessary that all pre-medical requirements be completed at the time the test is taken, if the prerequisites will be completed in time for entrance to medical school in 1943.

Practice sheets for the examination will be given to applicants. For further information, consult the bulletin board.

Dr. Malinowsky Talk In Dorm Social Hall

Discusses Polish Jews And Anti-Semitism

Continuing its policy of inviting distinguished speakers to its forum, the International Relations Society will present Dr. L. Malinowsky tonight at 8:15 in the Dormitory Social Hall.

The speaker is one of the outstanding European economists and statisticians. Dr. Malinowsky, a graduate of the University of Krakow, served as one of the editors on the Polish statistical yearbook and published a number of books on economics and statistics. Since 1928 he has been head of the Polish labor movement and is now continuing his labor activities in the United States.

The topic he will treat will concern itself with the relationship of the Jewish problem in Poland to the organization of Eastern and Central Europe. Dr. Malinowsky will discuss the source of anti-Semitism in Poland and will describe the situation of the Jew in the past and present. In connection with present conditions, a large portion of his speech will be devoted to the Polish underground movement.

Masmid Editor Sets Deadline

April 20 has been set as the deadline for final drafts of all student articles for the literary supplement of the Masmid, Joseph Sokolow '42, editor-in-chief, revealed. The approximate length of articles and all other relevant information must be furnished to the editor on or before April 12.

All students possessing snapshots of any of the school activities are asked to submit them to the Masmid office.

Sokolow cautioned all seniors to utilize every opportunity for securing advertisements during the coming Passover holidays. Every senior is required to bring in a minimum of ten dollars in ads.

Dr. Jung Addresses Yeshiva Chapter On Agudah Significance

Calls Organization 'Expression of Israel'

"Agudism is no party or movement, but the expression of Israel. Its purpose is to advance the cause of Israel and to solve every problem which may arise in accordance with the Torah."

This was the theme of Rabbi Leo Jung's address on the topic "Agudism: Theory and Practice," at the second open meeting of the Yeshiva chapter of Zetrei Agudat Israel in the Dormitory Social Hall Monday, March 16.

In a brief historical sketch of the Agudah organization, Rabbi Jung described its development from its founding in 1912 through the world convention in 1923 to the present day.

"Agudat Israel was established in 1912 after a split in the Zionist Movement," explained the speaker. "It set itself in opposition to the secular spirit of Zionism in Palestine, a Zionism that omitted all reference to Torah-true Judaism."

To formulate an active policy, the first world convention convened at Vienna in 1923, with an attendance of three hundred distinguished European rabbis on the platform before an assemblage of three thousand.

"Problems pertaining to 'Agunos', jobless sabbath observers, and the education of the youth in Beth Jacob schools were duly considered by these spiritual leaders, among them the Chofetz Chaim."

Rabbi Jung continued to describe the unsuccessful negotiations between the Agudah and the World Zionist Organization which were undertaken by his father. The Agudah proceeded independently of (Please turn to Page 4.)

The Yeshiva College Library is sponsoring a theatre party, which will take place on April 18, at the Ascot Theatre, 183rd Street and Grand Concourse.

An outstanding movie will be featured, with refreshments and entertainment following the show. All proceeds will go to the library fund.

Tickets, priced at 50 cents, may be purchased from Al Wiesel '42 and Abe Karp '42, chairman of the affair.

Gala All-Varsity Show Set For Sunday Night

Assemblage Mourns "Struma" Victims

Jewish Disaster Stirs Strong Protest

An overflow crowd of more than 1,500 people jammed the huge auditorium of the Beth Hamedrash Hagadol in New York to mourn the death of the 750 Jewish refugees who lost their lives with the sinking of the ill-fated Struma. This rally, which was sponsored by Hapoel Hamizrachi of America, heard the many prominent speakers denounce Britain's Palestine policy and demand the immediate establishment of a Jewish state in our homeland.

Dr. Simon Federbusch, president of Hapoel Hamizrachi and chairman for the evening, set the tone for the rally when he bitterly attacked the British government for its breach of faith in closing Palestine to Jewish immigration and for its refusal to live up to its promises and obligations to establish a Jewish state in Palestine. He charged them with the full responsibility for the death of these fugitives from Nazi terror. The Emergency Committee for Zionist Affairs was also severely criticized for its failure to take a decisive stand in the face of this and many other atrocities against our people.

The meeting also heard Mr. D. L. Mekler, editor of the Morning Journal, and Mr. Jacob Greenberg, director of the League for Religious Labor in Palestine. The evening was brought to a close with a passionate address by Rabbi Samuel Brodt, former Chief Rabbi of Antwerp, and by Cantor Samuel Pastolow, who chanted a prayer for the deceased.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the assembly:

Hapoel Hamizrachi of America joins every civilized man and woman in mourning the death of the 750 (Please turn to Page 4.)

Advance Sales Promise To Break All Records

Final dress rehearsals for the first all-Varsity show will be held tonight. David Mirsky '42, author of the script and director, will be absent as he is undergoing an appendectomy at the Israel Zion Hospital.

"This original show, titled 'Buck Fever,' should prove the most entertaining and successful play staged by the Social Committee," said Mirsky as he left for the hospital last Tuesday. "An elaborate set which is being constructed under the supervision of Phillip Horowitz '42 will be another 'first' in this Varsity Show. Rehearsals, now far ahead of schedule, confirm my expectations for a grand show."

Mirsky urged all students to procure tickets with student booklets by today as booklets will definitely not be honored at the door.

Over 1,200 guests are expected to be present this Sunday, 8:30 P.M., in the Lamport Theatre as the curtain parts on the musical comedy. The musical scores and lyrics were composed by Emanuel Seidman '45, while Abe Karp '42 wrote the special novelty songs.

The show's plot revolves about a group of students who find trouble in the form of unpaid dormitory and grocery bills at imaginary Heshiva University. The scene of action is a dormitory room or, rather, a partitioned dormitory corridor. The plot is complicated by the arrival of a student's father to check up on his son's activities.

Irwin Metchik '44, house manager, will be aided by a volunteer staff of ushers. In addition, a cloakroom, under the supervision of Sidney Reiss, will be provided in the lobby for the convenience of the guests.

In Mirsky's absence, Associate Director Epstein will assume the directorial duties. Horowitz, in charge of set construction and (Please turn to Page 3.)

'We Don't Want To Set World On Fire' Theme Song Of Quant. Chem. Students

The old adage that lightning never strikes twice in the same place was definitely disproven as fire struck the Quantitative Chemical laboratory twice in quick succession.

The first blaze, caused by an overheated incubator, was hastily and efficiently extinguished by Jacob Walker '43.

The second fire, however, did not surrender so easily. As if to avenge the ignoble death of its predecessor, it burned with a fierce red fury and threatened to cause severe damage.

Upon entering the lab on Wednesday, March 17, to do some late work, three embryonic analysts, Arthur Cohen, N. Gellman and Harold Surchin, together with Irv Koslowe, lab assistant, were hurled back by a billow of dense black smoke.

Unflustered, the obfuscated sophs rallied all their chemical knowledge and set themselves to combatting the blaze.

Only when the door to Dean Isaacs' research laboratory was opened, was the source of the fire finally discovered. The fire was at that moment glowing in its glory but it was soon humbled by a steady stream of carbon dioxide and water directed at it by Charlie Thompson. When the blaze was finally subdued, a fair portion of Dr. Isaacs' waxed lab floor was completely burned and a section of its wall charred.

In commenting upon the origin of the fire, Dean Isaacs remarked that it probably resulted from the overheated refrigerator motor or a defect in the pump which caused the motor to rub against the belt thereby generating sufficient heat energy to set off the blaze.

Thus were the potential Pasteurs prevented from indulging in the endless toil of test tube drudgeries. Instead, they had ample opportunity to put their fire-fighting abilities to the test. The Auxiliary Fire Corps may justly be proud.

A Magnificent Tribute

"Eidenu" is the most distinguished expression of student sentiment ever to issue forth from this institution. But it is very much more than that. It is visual proof that, only the physical aspect of Dr. Bernard Revel has passed away; that the most significant part of the man—his spirit and his teaching—are alive and vital today.

Rabbi Poupko and his associates deserve the heartfelt gratitude of every student for this accomplishment. No words of thanks can adequately encompass the days and nights and months of unremitting effort expended on the volume. It required a great deal of courage to overcome all of the disappointments which arose, a great deal of industry to assemble the wealth of material, and above all, faith in the capacity of the student body to fulfill such an ambitious project.

The "Eidenu" is a worthy product of that faith. From its title—"Our Sorrow"—through the bifaceted arrangement of the material, the volume is a meticulously appropriate representation of its subject.

It is no secret that there are forces in Orthodox Judaism which would be quite content to let the influence of the entire movement initiated by Dr. Revel be eradicated by time. But if any evidence was necessary that such a consummation is utterly impossible, this "Eidenu" provides it.

The good of most men is oft interred with their bones. Some seek to perpetuate it by stones. Chosen are those who, like Bernard Revel, can transcend bone and stone to live on in the highways of life, in the hearts and actions of living men.

Something to Consider

One of the advantages of Yeshiva College is the fact that student comments on the merits of faculty members can often be openly expressed instead of being buried in the graveyard of "bull-sessions".

For this reason we take the liberty of publicizing the favorable comments of many mathematics students on the quality of Mr. Joshua Matz's pedagogy and the profundity of his knowledge. It has often been remarked that it is unfortunate that a man of Mr. Matz's ability is only a part-time instructor. The irregularity of his hours dissipates his talents, to some extent.

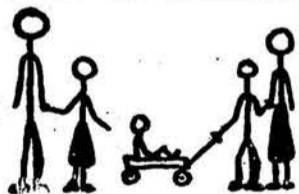

We therefore respectfully suggest that Mr. Matz be accorded serious consideration for a full-time position as soon as the opportunity for such a post arises in the Mathematics Department, especially in the field of Philosophy of Mathematics, in which he has done much scholarly work.

Only Hot Air, After All

The last issue of the "Commentator" appealed for Red Cross blood donors. The appeal concluded by expressing the opinion that if the students were in a position to supply blood, and refused to do so, their much-bruited patriotism would be nothing more than hot air.

To date, one Yeshiva College student has answered the "Commentator's" call to donate blood.

MEET THE SENIORS

Kanovsky, Elyahu — Elyahu's sovereign is the "Defensor Pacl" so it was only natural that he become an ardent Shomer Hadati. He devotes his spare time studying in the Teachers' Institute where he is an assiduous student. It's no wonder to us that he goes around blowing Gabriel's horn and it wouldn't be a wonder to you if you knew Gabriel's sister. He slides over the ice with the greatest of ease and when he gets scraped it's not on the knees. Elyahu seems destined to be a great Jewish leader and successful in all his undertakings.

Karp, Abraham: Possessed of an inordinate proclivity for minor details and an insatiable thirst for A's, Abe has gone through four years of college impressing his teachers, achieving an excellent scholastic record and making sure that he never gets into trouble. He is a T.I. graduate and erstwhile Sports Editor of Commy, as well as a debater. He is a Political Science major and will probably wind up as a lawyer but that doesn't prevent him from going down to the underworld for his women, like Orpheus.

Koolyk, Abraham: Abe seems to have escaped the liquidation of the Koolyks in Russia. Or maybe the Bolsheviks let him come here so that he could trade Slavic words with Dr. Zeitlin. Talmudizing is his forte, but betimes he indulges in mathematics, being one of the best calculators hereabouts. Smicha is in immediate prospect, after which he promises to return to Newark if he can raise the fare.

Kramer, Milton: "Mike"—you-made-the-pants-too-long alias the extra-curricular-kid has dipped his old school tie into everything from sports to soup. He was the original "school is interfering with my activities" boy. One of the last few white survivors of the "300 Club", this stalwart found that even exercise on the basketball team could not enable him to resist the march of the elephants. # Looking Forward

By PAUL ORENTLICHER and BERNARD REISS

"We, not they shall win the final battles; we, not they, shall make the final peace."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT,
Feb. 23, 1942.

Two aims. To win the war and the peace after it. To these ends the American people is marshaling its powers and directing its energies in ever-increasing volume. The whole nation is being trained to march to the tempo of war. Win the war and the peace too.

We've set out to do both and we're accomplishing neither. Surely, the war thus far does not offer a reassuring picture. Step by step, inch by inch, the United Nations are retreating before the forces of oppression. Step by step, inch by inch, the battlers for human liberty are being driven from strategic points.

We stand open-mouthed as another bastion of democracy falls and yet another is threatened. We were indignant about Pearl Harbor, disturbed about the Philippines, crest-fallen about Singapore, fighting mad about Java.

And we are still retreating. Ominous are the reports of a great Nazi offensive in the spring. Ominous because we are still woefully unprepared for it.

And what about our peace aims? Do we really know what we are fighting for? Sure, we say. Democracy, civilization, a better world. But have we any constructive, practicable plan in mind when we say we are fighting for a better world? True, the destruction of axism already means a better world. But, how are we to be sure that another Hitler will not arise after we win the war? If we win the war.

Something Must Be Done

That something must be done to "win the final battle and make the final peace" is undeniable. That something must be a clear, well-planned and well-executed idea, an idea which will imbue us with inspiration and fortitude, hold up before our eyes a Mosaic serpent through which we shall find the symbol of salvation. This plan must unite the free nations, give courage to the oppressed of the fallen peoples and—most important—offer a feasible, democratic program for post-war reconstruction.

Well, let's see what plans we have now.

Perhaps we should adopt the Atlantic Charter? By all means. But we defy anyone to point out an organized, practicable scheme contained or alluded to in those eight points. Here we have but another hazy outline of our post-war ideals, couched in admirable phraseology, full of sound and fury, but unfortunately, signifying nothing.

An alliance of the democracies? But what is an alliance? It is not a union of peoples but a loose confederation of nations, an imperium in imperio, an association of states retaining their sovereignty and fighting for its enhancement. At a moment of crisis, we can expect such an alliance to be shattered by the bombs of the aggressor. And so it was.

Example of France

We refer to the strong, "unbreakable" alliance between Britain and France before the latter country crumbled. At that time, the air, land, and sea forces of Britain and France were united to a much greater extent than those of the United Nations today. The fighting arms of the two countries were directed by one head, by a common command and a common strategy. Yet—France fell.

In an eleventh-hour attempt to prevent the axe of the axis from falling, Britain appealed to France for the formation of a "more perfect union," a union of peoples, a union of governments. This union would maintain one standard of currency, one communications system, one citizenship. This union would mean that both nations must be overrun before capitulation to the enemy would be decided.

But France refused—by a vote of 13 to 10. And, consequently, France collapsed like a house of cards, its aces put to shame, its far-sighted dealers buried beneath the pack.

Alliance Not Enough

So we see that merely an alliance among the democratic nations is not enough. What is needed is a stronger, more perfectly united federation, a union which will be a dynamic force in the prosecution of the war and in the construction of our peace aims.

Such is the plan of Clarence Streit. We've often heard reference to his Federal Union plan, but we've failed to give it serious consideration.

In essence, Union Now proposes, at first, a provisional union of America and the British Commonwealth of Nations, based on the broad outlines of the American federal system. This union will form the nucleus of an ultimate world federation, the other nations to be admitted peaceably when they will have indicated a desire for a democratic form of government and individual liberty for its peoples.

Accept the Plan NOW

If this plan is accepted now, Streit argues, Britain and America will fight the foe as one nation, as one people. A strong, concerted effort on the part of this union, acting as one body, will assuredly bless our arms with victory—victory after a shorter war.

But even more important than this, is the fact that we now have a definite plan to discuss at the peace table. If we fight for this plan, those high-sounding, inflated phrases we've been throwing around will no longer be meaningless. If we fight for this plan, our war effort will receive the impetus that a knowledge of what one is fighting for lends. If we fight for this plan, our hazy post-war ideals will become tough bone and muscle.

The second article in this series will appear in the next issue of "Commentator."

Dorm Provides Room For Soldiers

The Yeshiva College dormitory, in coordination with the United Service Organizations, has made available a fully-furnished room to be used as a night stop-over for soldiers. This courtesy is tendered to service men of all denominations.

Mr. S. Maurice Plotnick, supervisor, emphasized the fact that this invitation marks the active participation of the dormitory in national defense.

In the Editor's Mail Box

Dear Editor:

With the extensive program carried by every student at our school the time allotted for physical education is extremely important. It is given, primarily, to provide the student with that little amount of exercise needed to keep physically fit. (Yet, the amount of cutting is great.) What sort of incentive can the student have to attend an unventilated gymnasium that reeks with a 101 various odors? What sort of health measure do you call the doing of calisthenics on a floor that is absolutely filthy with dirt and sand, consequently filling the person's nose and throat with dust.

When visiting teams come to play, we make excuses for the low ceiling, but there is no excuse for not being able to provide a clean and airy place to play.

I've been told that various members of our class and our gym instructor have secured promises to correct these faults, but isn't it time some action were taken?

JAMES I. GORDON '44.

"Eidenu" Published

evaluation, the English section contains eulogies by Mr. Samuel Levy, Deans Samuel Belkin, Moses L. Isaacs and Samuel Sar, and Dr. Shelley R. Safir; as well as from the Agudath Horabonim, Vaad HoRabonim, Dr. Frank Pierrepont Graves, and Professors Nelson P. Mead and Solomon Liptzin.

The editors endeavored to maintain the memorial nature of the work by publishing a few of his last public pronouncements, such as his last published article, and his last graduation address.

Two articles which appeared in the special issue of the "Commentator" at the time of Dr. Revel's death, were considered worthy of perpetuation in the volume.

A discussion of the "Psychoanalytical Prefiguration in Hasidic Literature," by Dr. Joshua Finkel and a timely disquisition on "The Segregation of the Sexes in the Synagogue" by Rabb Samuel Gerstenfeld are other contributions to the literary section.

Statement of Purpose

Rabbi Poupko released a special statement to the "Commentator" in which he declared: "The 'Eidenu' represents a year of grueling effort of all the editors. However, if the product of our labors serves to indicate in some measure that the spirit of Dr. Bernard Revel lives and will continue to live in his students, we will be more than amply rewarded.

"I should like to express my appreciation to Deans Belkin and Sar, in particular, for their invaluable aid. I am also deeply grateful to Mr. N. Kolovsky, famous Hebrew illustrator, for designing the beautiful cover."

Hoop Season Over: And just to prove it you'll find elsewhere on this page a complete account of the team's record as well as the individual scoring of varsity members. Just for laughs this department will print in the next Commy what we consider to be the all-time Yeshiva basketballers. This idea is all the more appropriate since this may well be the last year Yeshiva College will have a team to represent her inasmuch as plans for a Secondary team are rapidly materializing.

Tennis Menace: Tennis is being hard hit by the war because balls are not readily available but it seems that Yeshiva will have a tennis team this season. Many colleges have been forced to drop tennis from their list of inter-collegiate sports and throughout the country officials have been cutting down on the number of tournaments. But prospects for the team are exceptionally good since the Freshmen have brought with them a number of fine racqueteers.

In Dust Do Not Trust: If cleanliness is next to godliness, then our gym must be right next door to Hades for, as the letter to the Editor suggests, it is indeed a rare occasion to find the gym devoid of dirt. Not only is the floor filthy but the air is stale and flat because the ventilating system is defunct. Its about time someone took in hand the proper management of the gym so that the greater number of students might be supplied with the greatest good.

Pic Picks 'Em: There'll be the usual quibbling over the selection of America's outstanding ball players but Pic magazine has picked a gang against whom it will be indeed difficult to debate. Here they are:

In a return non-decision debate, the Yeshiva College debating team met Ursinus College of Collegeville, Pa., last Thursday night. Reuben Seigel '42 and Jack Green '44 upheld the negative for Yeshiva on the N.A.T.S. labor union topic.

Two debates are scheduled to take place before the Passover recess. On Monday night, March 30, Yeshiva will uphold the affirmative on the same topic against Rider College of Trenton, N. J.

The second debate of the season with Columbia University will be held Tuesday evening, March 31.

Tennis Candidates Exhibit Promise

The tennis squad has inaugurated the current season by holding practice at the public courts facing the Hudson River. Aspiring candidates have shown promise in these sessions, enough to provide ample competition for positions on the team.

Returning players from the previous squad include Irving Fredman '44, Albert Salkowitz '43, Aaron Abelow '44, Jack Levy '45, Joseph Peyser '43, Murray Leitner '43 and Leo Auerbach '44.

The results of last year's matches show no success for the Yeshiva racqueteers, but as is evident from the above list, the team was composed solely of Freshmen and Sophomores. It is expected that the present squad has benefited from the last campaign and will be in a position to offer stiffer competition to other schools.

The tentative schedule of matches as disclosed by the manager, Jack Levy, all to be played on away courts, includes Queens College, May 1; Seton Hall, May 5, and Long Island University, May 15.

Doppelt High Scorer With 15 Counters In 84-58 Setback

By MYRON L. REIS

After gameably holding a vastly superior John Marshall quintet to a mere seven point advantage in the first twenty minutes of play, the Mighty Mites wilted badly in the second half, and fell victims to a severe 84-58 shellacking on Saturday night, March 14, in the Stuyvesant High School gymnasium. A goodly crowd was on hand to witness the season's grand finale, and for the most part saw a classy exhibition of wide-open, thrilling basketball.

It was six-foot four-inch Charley Grinchis, the stellar Blue Devil center, who almost singlehandedly sealed Yeshiva's doom. Literally a tower of strength for Marshall, he spearheaded the Jerseyites' powerful attack, proved to be well nigh unstoppable under the boards, and personally accounted for no less than 31 tallies.

With Lefty Stan Doppelt, high gun for the Blue and White with 15 points, again sparking the offensive, the varsity succeeded in keeping pace with the fast-stepping Lawyers until 3 minutes from intermission time. But then, with a couple of rapid fire shots, Marshall drove to a comfortable 38-31 lead.

Thundering down the home stretch, the highly-rated visitors took matters completely into their own hands, and making excellent use of superior reserve strength, ran right through the tired Blue boys, and rolled the score to lopsided proportions. Irv Jaret followed Doppelt in scoring honors with ten points, while Esterson and Perlow came through with eight apiece.

Basketball-PingPong Intramural Reviews

On Tuesday night, March 17th, the Juniors defeated the Seniors in a sloppy, low-scoring basketball game in the gym. The final score was 10-7.

Kramer of the Seniors was high scorer with five points, and Salkowitz led the victors with four points.

Fresh-Junior Game:

Avenging their first-round defeat, the Freshmen vanquished the Juniors on Tuesday night, March 24th, by the score of 27-17.

High scorers for the Frosh were Korchak and Levy with nine and eight points respectively. Peyser, with six points, was high man for the Juniors.

Soph-Senior Ping-Pong Match:

By virtue of a forfeit by the Seniors, the Sophomores have a chance to tie the Juniors for first place in the ping-pong intra-mural tournament. The Juniors have four victories against one defeat, and the Sophs have a record of three wins and two losses.

Ping-Pong Tournaments:

The closing date for entries to the singles and doubles ping-pong tournaments has been advanced to this Monday, March 30th. A minimum of sixteen entries in each tournament is necessary to provide for awards for the winners. Unless that number is reached the tournaments will be cancelled, so get as many entries as possible. Any extra entry fees will be used to provide materials for the game room.

"Struma" Mourned

Jewish refugees who were denied admission to Palestine and who lost their lives with the sinking of the ill-fated Struma.

We protest against Britain's refusal to grant a haven to the fugitives of Nazi terror.

We charge that the British government and the Palestine administration are directly responsible for the death of these 750 Jewish men, women and children.

We demand that Britain immediately replace the present Palestine administration, revoke the infamous White Paper, and revise its vicious and undemocratic attitude towards a Jewish Palestine.

We demand that Britain fulfill its promises and obligations to the Jewish people and open wide the doors of Palestine to Jewish immigration and establish there a true Jewish national homeland.

We are unyielding in our determination to fight for our divine and historic right to establish a Jewish state in Palestine.

We beg the President of the United States of America to act in the name of every liberty and freedom-loving man and woman and lend the good offices of the United States government to intercede in this behalf and cause the British government to adopt a liberal and democratic Palestine policy leading to the establishment of a Jewish state.

Meet Levovitz

Levovitz, Paul: Another member of the Brownsville legion. Paul is dividing his time between body and soul; part of the day he learns at Tifereth Jerusalem and part of the day at Yeshiva College. He has already been awarded sm'cha by the Grossinger Country Club and is awaiting confirmation of it by Rabbi Greenbaum. Meanwhile he majors in mathematics in which field he has devised a formula for putting a minimum of knowledge to a maximum of effort.

Rabbi Katz Stars In Chess Tourney

In an amazing exhibition of simultaneous chess, Rabbi Michael Katz '44 won 14 games, while losing only one, last Thursday night. Leonard Zion was the lone victor. This marked the first time that the Yeshiva has witnessed a simultaneous exhibition of such magnitude.

Earlier in the evening, the Yeshiva College-S.O.Y. chess match resulted in a 2-2 draw.

Rabbi Katz disposed of his opponent, Abe Zuroff '41, in twelve moves. A Scotch Game between Samuel Zaitchik '43 and William Cohen '41 resulted in a hard-fought draw after an interesting end game, in which a bishop opposed 3 pawns. With Allen Mandelbaum '45 ahead in pieces and position, Ben Elefant '41 executed a clever perpetual check and thus gained a draw. Jack Gliberman defeated Leonard Zion in a Two Knights' Defense.

Agudah Significance

the Zionists to purchase 107,000 dunam of land in Palestine.

"Today, our association with the Mizrahi for educational purposes is not as close as it should be," concluded the guest speaker. "The combination of Hapoel Hamizrachi with Poel Agudath Israel presents the greatest hope for the survival of Judaism in Palestine!"

Rabbi Jung is a former member of the Agudah executive committee and was instrumental in building Beth Jacob schools.

"This meeting does, by no means, mark the culmination of our activities," Oscar Reichel '42, president of the chapter, stated.
