

I. U. S. C. Settles Placement Issue By Compromise

In a memorandum, presented by the Intra-University Student Council to Dr. Belkin, the Council informed the President that it has decided to accept the compromise on the Student Placement Service. The compromise provides that all calls, which previously had gone to Student Placement, now be channelled through Mr. Ellenberg's office. Should any other offices of the University receive calls regarding such positions they will direct them to Mr. Ellenberg.

The Placement Service will continue to have the exclusive authority to decide on the distribution of the positions, and also retains its right to solicit positions.

The memorandum also states that the previous agreement in regard to the relationship of a student's income and the financial assistance offered by the University still remains. According to this agreement, only a student earning more than $80 a month can be deprived of his stipend, and any student earning more than $60 a month can be deprived partially of his stipend.

Quartet Performs At Alumni Affair

The annual Student-Alumni Show was held Sunday night, November 27, at the Central High School of Needle Trades. A Yeshiva College quartet, composed of Shragal Arian '50, Bob Kurtzman '50, Bill Solomon '51 and Karl Goldberg '53, rendered several selections.

Sonny Sklar '49 did pantomimes, while Jack London and Jack Glickman performed some magical feats. Bill Solomon acted as master of ceremonies.

Preceding the show, the Yeshiva College Quintet defeated the Alumni and Talmudical Academy lost to their alumni.

Y. U. Delegates Present Paper At Conference

The Yeshiva University International Relations Society took part in the Middle Atlantic Area Regional Conference of International Relations Clubs, held at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., on Friday and Saturday, November 25-26. Melvin Bunim '50, Norman Twersky '51, and Aaron Weitz '51 represented Yeshiva.

Mr. Bunim, president of the I. R. S. of Yeshiva University, read a formal paper entitled, "Zionism and the State of Israel," at the first round-table discussion. He stressed the role that American Jewry and the American Government played in bringing about the creation of the Jewish State, and the importance of Israel's entry into the United Nations. "They no longer need to justify their existence as a people, to explain their origins, to state their historic case. All this is past history; theirs is a 'case jugee.'"

The more than three hundred delegates, representing Columbia, Penn State, Barnard, University of Montreal and other colleges, heard addresses by Lleres de Camargo, secretary-general of the Pan-American Union, who discussed the relations between the United States and the South American countries, and John Martin Gates of the Department of State, who discussed the United States and the United Nations.

T. I. To Present Chanukah Affair

The annual Teachers Institute Chanukah Chagigah will take place on Wednesday, December 21, at 7:30 p.m. Among the highlights of this year's chagigah will be a play in Hebrew, the appearance of a T.I. songbook and anthem, and a "truth or consequences" program. In addition, the T.I. Choir will offer their repertoire, and the second edition of the "Lapid," T.I.'s student newspaper, will be distributed.

S. C. To Approve Student Leaders; Concert Planned

A motion whereby editors of Commentator and Masmid and leaders of other student activities will require the approval of Student Council upon appointment to office was passed at the fifth meeting of S. C. held on Tuesday, November 22, in a session which lasted for nearly four hours.

Preparations for the annual Yeshiva University Chanukah Concert were discussed by Bob Kurtzman '50. The Y. U. orchestra has prepared a number of renditions for the affair which will also feature a pageant written by Larry Nassis '50, in conjunction with the Teachers Institute Chorus, and individual acts. Isadore Singer, tenor, and Alexander Petrushka '51 will be featured as soloists.

It was decided that the concert be sponsored as a student-parent affair, and that parents of all the students attending any department of the University be invited. The final decision on the date was left to the discretion of the executive council.

Reports were made by Eli Horowitz '49, chairman of the Intra-University Dormitory Committee, Boris Rackovsky '50, Editor of Masmid, and Isaiah Herzberg '50, co-manager of the Co-op.

Sociologic Survey Supported By S. C.

At the last meeting of Student Council, held on Tuesday, November 22, a resolution was passed in support of a sociologic survey to determine the average size of the Yeshiva College student's family. This information will be correlated with any possible casual factors.

The sponsors of the survey are Alvin Schwartz '50 and Bob Kurtzman '50.

To a limited extent, the results of the survey will indicate current Jewish population trends, reasons for the decrease of the size of the Jewish family, and the relationship, if any, between occupation and size of family.

Students Lecture For La Tertulia

Ludwig Nadelman '51 and Ludwig Fleishman '52 addressed La Tertulia, the Spanish club of Y. U., at its first meeting, held on Wednesday, November 30.

Mr. Nadelman told about his impressions of the earthquake in Ecuador, where he spent three months this past summer. Mr. Fleishman analyzed the works of Ruben Darlo and their attitude to the "Yankee" way of life.

Plans for the publication of a printed "Clarín," Tertulia's publication, were drawn up. The financial goal of $125 is to be reached through ads and individual contributions from the students.

Sociology Survey

At the present time, a sample survey is being conducted throughout the college to determine the average size of the Yeshiva College student's family. The importance of such a survey can hardly be underestimated. It will be a first step in answering such questions as "What are the reasons for the decrease in the size of the Jewish family?"

Commentator urges the student body to cooperate with the Sociology department in the gathering of the material in order to make the findings of the survey more accurate and exact.

Internationalization

Jerusalem's future is at stake. With the Vatican, the Latin American countries, and the plurality of the constituent nations of the Arab League supporting the internationalization of the Holy City, the big powers seem to yield to the vested interest of the Catholic Church and Arab oil. Israel stands all alone in its plea for a Jewish Jerusalem.

Israel's demand is just. It has its roots in the historic link that exists since time immemorial between Jerusalem and the Jewish people. It found its political justification during the war between Israel and Transjordan. At that time, Jewish troops were fighting single-handed against the aggressors and neither the Pope nor Ibn Saud cared to rush to the defense of the holy places, the control over which is supposedly the main official reason for Jerusalem's proposed internationalization.

The United Nations is becoming the scene of international power politics. If for some reason, which we cannot fathom, the U.N. cannot reach a decision confirming the status quo, the issue should be dropped. The future of the United Nations is also at stake.

Student Apathy

We notice with much regret that extra-curricular activities at the college have gotten off to a slow and slumbering start. Since one of Commentator's primary functions is reporting on student activities, we feel that we are in an excellent position to comment on the situation and offer possible solutions.

Though some of the clubs and societies have conducted their affairs normally, the fact remains that the greater majority of them are not functioning well. A main cause for this slack is student apathy. Students have simply not been turning out in any appreciable numbers to attend these affairs.

The lack of planning and co-ordination in conducting these activities, of course, shares in the blame. A student cannot be expected to show interest in something that is not made interesting for him.

Much can yet be done, however, to awaken student interest. A concretely planned program, based on a definite schedule and thoroughly publicized via Commentator and the bulletin boards, can do the trick. It will be done if student activity leaders are willing to put in the extra effort, and the student body is determined to take advantage of this means of education and enjoyment.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Wednesday, the second of Kislev, November 22, was the "Yahrzeit" of Dr. Bernard Revel of blessed memory, first president of Yeshiva. The administrators of Yeshiva, however, apparently overlooked the matter completely and took no action to commemorate the event. It was only because Dr. Revel's widow called that one class of the Yeshiva was aware of the fact, and its Rosh Yeshiva recited the "kaddish" in his memory.

If the administration has forgotten him, we, the students, certainly should not. A minyan-assembly should be held annually in memory of the man who, more than anyone else, is responsible for the existence of Yeshiva University today.

Sincerely,

David Scheinfeld '51

Dear Editor:

Some time ago, the Jewish flag was permanently removed from its flagpole in front of the Yeshiva. This incident would have gone completely unnoticed were it not for a T. I. assembly dedicated to the subject of dual-nationalism and the flag incident. Even so, the assembly only caused a mere ripple of excitement.

The decision to take down the flag was made, I am told, at a secret meeting of Y. U.'s top brass, without first sounding out student opinion on the matter.

Y. U., to my mind, has fallen prey to a peculiar sort of "Avadah Zara," called "the worship of the almighty dollar." Due to the institution's expansion (which might well prove to be its over-expansion), it has come to rely, more and more, upon the good graces of its big donors. Any course of action, or any Commie article that might in the slightest way imaginably offend one of these is taboo. It is very possible that many of our rich friends objected to the Jewish flag because it "might give the wrong impression to our gentle friends."

The late Justice Brandels, however, effectively exploded the myth of dual loyalty. Yes, you are United States citizens in a political and civil sense, he maintained, but you are also members of the Jewish nation in a cultural and historical sense.

These relationships would be expressed by the presence of the United States and Jewish flags. The Jewish flag would proclaim that this is an institution that keeps up the Jewish tradition, teaching Talmud, Tanach, and Hebrew, thus strengthening our ties with Israel and world Jewry.

True Americanism doesn't demand the disappearance of cultural differences; the "melting pot" idea has been discredited as impractical and unnecessary. Democracy requires cultural plurality; 100 percent Americanism is a myth and a hoax.

I hope that the student body will not be apathetic to the situation. An assembly of the entire student body should be called to discuss this matter of the flag and its implications, and to decide on an appropriate course of action.

Sincerely yours,

Shlomo Levin '49

Jewish Community In Surinam Described By Philip A. Samson

By Victor Solomon

It was an ordinary day that promised to be as uneventful as the day before. But when Dr. Grinstein entered the American-Jewish History class, I noticed a tall, distinguished-looking man, apparently in his fifties, following him into the room. He was introduced to us as Mr. Philip A. Samson, prominent member of the Jewish community in Paramaribo, Surinam. We spent a very interesting hour listening to an historical and sociological sketch of his native land, which is the site of the first Jewish community in the New World.

The lecture was cut short by the bell and, seeing the makings of a good story, I asked for an interview. I was told that in 1639 the first Jewish settlement in the Western Hemisphere was established at Savanah in Surinam (Dutch Guiana) on the Northwest coast of South America. These early settlers, all of Sephardic stock, found themselves in the midst of a tolerant community. The Jews became the trustworthy defenders of the colony against English, French and slave aggressions. Their reward was a position of respect and trust.

Community Structure

The present Jewish community of Surinam numbers about 600 of whom about sixty are observant Jews. The Synagogues are crowded with worshippers on the High Holidays, among them many Gentiles, who, although they do not consider themselves Jewish, look upon Yom Kippur as a Holy Day. The strange custom of visiting the graves of their ancestors on Yom Kippur Eve and reciting the "Hashkava", or Sephardic Yizkor, in Dutch, prevails among these people.

The Jewish community is concentrated in Paramaribo, the capital of Surinam, where it maintains two synagogues, a Shochet, a Zionist organization headed by Mr. Samson, and "Truah," the community newspaper printed in Dutch. Financially, the Jews are well established, most of them participating in commerce, the professions, and the civil service. But the past few years have marked a steady decline in their participation in government. In 1891, 54% of the Legislative Assembly was Jewish; today the figure stands at 5%.

Jewish Education

Jewish education is undeveloped in the community. There is a type of training in Hebrew translation of prayers and scriptures which is tantamount to our own Sunday School. Although only about 10% of the community is observant, the validity of Tradition in religious matters is unchallenged. The ritual at both Synagogues is Sephardic. However, any Y.U. rabbi who is ready to assume the vacant position in Surinam will receive a warm welcome. Mr. Samson believes that this is just what his community needs.

Meet The Seniors

Katzman, Baruch.— If not for Baruch's strong, silent presence, one would hardly know that he ever switched from Chaim Berlin in 1946. He's still interested in Talmud to the exception of everything else and intends to go on for "Smichah." The only apparent synthesis he has achieved of Yeshiva is an occasional glance at the New York Post; Physics homework and nights in the Beth Hamedrash leave no time for any extra-curricular "shtus."

Baruch, who is from Seattle, doesn't care very much for this town. When he finishes his term here he'd like to go to some quiet little place and do a little tuna fishing. Therefore, he's been taking weight-lifting for practice.

Goodman, Moshe Y.—A base of Israeli, a little 5 yr. Scotch of the Glasgow vintage, seasoned with a touch of English, cooked over a slow Memphis flame and served sprinkled with grated "Swiss" cheese, makes for one good portion of Moshe Y. Goodman.

He is one of those fellows that indulges in minyan and College classes, the latter with a regularity unnatural for an English major. This seasoned traveller has to date attended New York University and Brooklyn College. He hopes to be graduated from Yeshiva College this January. The week-end finds him in Crown Heights, visiting many close relatives, who, oddly, are all named Pearl. During the week he busies himself with the theater, good music and nagging the daylights out of Sonny Schwartz and Nahum Shulman. Possessed of a sharp eye for business, Moish has so far made about 2 million dollars in unpaid library fines.

Rackowsky, Boris.— A living proof of the fact that G-d can make the same mistake twice, Boris washed the sands of Miami from his ears, and came to Yeshiva to make mud pies. An old hand at managing rackets, he expects to become either a Rabbi or a lawyer.

Former illiterate editor of Masmid, he is now chief janitor of that publication.

Although he is willing to debate the issue pro and con, he gives his all for the basketball team by selling tickets on the side.

Halpern, Morris Harry Joseph.— Another of the famed Bedford Avenue cowboys, Moish started out in life across the bridge. After spending twelve years in Torah Vodaath, he decided to see some unbarred folk and went to Brooklyn College. Tired of going to college, he came to Yeshiva University.

An alumnus of Rabbi Volk's class, he chose the Beth Hamedrash with the shorter hours. He majored in English and some other foreign languages.

Not the Marion type, Moish intends to leave the country and ship us some worthwhile goods in return.

Mites Down Alumni In Season Opener, 105-43; Faculty-Alumni Jar Talmudical Quintet, 42-38

T. A. Five Held Scoreless In Exciting Extra Frame

The Talmudical Academy five tasted defeat at the hands of a Faculty-Alumni aggregation, 42-38, in an overtime period in the preliminary tussle to the Mite-Alumni debacle. Leading the parade for the victorious Faculty-Alumni dribblers was E. Berman who threw in 19 points, followed by Manny Doppelt with eight. High man for the Talmudical quintet was "Red" Kramer with a total of 12 points.

Getting off to a fast start, the Faculty-Alumni combo sped off to a 10-4 lead at the end of the first quarter. The speedy Highschoolers began to overtake the wheezing Alumni and crept up to within one point, behind 16-15 at the end of the first half.

The Alumni hung onto their slim lead enlarging it by a point as they outscored the Talmudical noopsters in the third quarter, 8-6. Slashing back, the men of T. A., led by Kramer, who thumped in 8 markers in the final period, surged forward but were catapulted into a tie by virtue of the fine shooting of Berman, who saved the Alumni, garnering 13 points in the last furious frame of the regulation 40 minutes of play. Tied 38-all at the end of the regular playing time, the Alumni held the Talmudical Academy five scoreless in the overtime period and threw in four tallies to win 42-38.

The redoubtable Rabbi Abe Avrech, who played in both contests of the evening, threw in four markers for the Alumni aggregation. Although labeled "Faculty-Alumni" no members of the Talmudical faculty played against the High School squad.

Invitation

The Yeshiva University Athletic Association extends an invitation to the members of the faculty and their friends to all games played by the Yeshiva College Basketball Varsity.

Hershkowitz High Scorer For Y.U. With 22 Points

The Mighty Mites of Washington Heights inflicted heavy punishment upon the hapless Alumni, defeating them, 105-43, in the Alumni opener on Sunday, November 27, at the Central Needle Trades gym. High scorers for Yeshiva were Marv Hershkowitz, who canned 22 markers, and Artie Stein with 17 points. Stan Doppelt led the Alumni, scoring twelve points.

The Quinhooplets, the tallest team in Yeshiva's hoop history, darted onto the floor, resplendent in their new blue-and-white uniforms, dwarfing the oldsters. The Alumni stars, who had twinkled in the past, were Rabbis Jack Green and Abe Avrech, the Doppelt Brothers, Goldklang, and Wiesel.

The Mites started slowly, and after leading 14-8 at the end of the first quarter, perked up considerably and outscored the Alumni 29-8 in the next frame. Pacing the Mite attack in the first half were Hershkowitz and Stein, each caging 12 markers.

After a pep talk by Captain Howie Danzig, who took over the coaching reins for the night, the Heighters trampled the Alumni under a flurry of baskets, outscoring the ancients in the third quarter, 33-11. The Alumni improved slightly in the final frame, scoring 13 points, but were again swamped by the younger Mites who swished through 29 markers.

Displaying fine accuracy on the foul line for Yeshiva was Natie Krieger, who threw in seven charity tosses. Scoring their first points in Mite livery were Duvie Hartman, 9 points, and Murray Mayer, who hit the hoops with 8 markers.

Yeshiva Intramural Sports In Full Swing

PING-PONG

A strong Freshman squad routed the Sophomores, 4-1, in the first intramural ping-pong match of the season. Joel Dershowitz, number one Freshman racqueteer, demolished George Marcus, the leading Sophomore, 21-17. In the number two position, Freshman Otto Mond rebuffed Morton Kula, 21-13. In a hard fought doubles match, Joel Derchowitz and Otto Mond wrecked all Sophomore hopes with a 21-19 victory over George Marcus and Morton Kula. The only Sophomore to triumph was Skaist who turned back Izzie Feuer, 21-17.

Imbued with the spirit of the celebration of the turkey one day early, the Senior ping-pong team forgot to make its appearance at the gym, forfeiting its contest to the Junior class.

HANDBALL

Otto Mond defeated Izzie Feuer on Monday, Nov. 23, to capture the Freshman handball tournament. Mond scored heavily with aggressive play to snare the bunting with scores of 20-21, 21-7, and 21-18. Feuer knocked Norman Toporovsky out of the running in a semi-final match, winning 21-14.

BASKETBALL

defeated a hard-fighting Freshman quintet, 39-27, at the George Washington High School Gym on Tuesday, Nov. 15. High scorer was Freshman Eugene Tokayer with eleven points.

The Juniors lapsed into their old habits as they forfeited to the Seniors on Tuesday, Nov. 22, at the George Washington Gym.

Community Chest Embarks On Drive

The Yeshiva College faculty has raised $300 in the recent University Community Chest drive, announced Prof. Abraham Hurwitz, chairman of the college division of the drive.

The Community Chest has been organized by the various faculties of the University to eliminate collections for individual drives. Among the numerous causes to benefit by the Community Chest are the Greater New York Fund, the Red Cross, the Infantile Paralysis, Cancer, Tuberculosis, and Heart Funds.

A committee composed of the deans and one member of each faculty will allocate funds to each organization. The preferences of the individual members of the faculties will be taken into consideration.

The United Jewish Appeal drive is not included in the Community Chest, and will be held separately under the leadership of Dr. Pinchos Churgin.

S. O. Y. Effects S.O.Y. Welcomes New Constitution Incoming Students

"A revised constitution for the Student Organization of Yeshiva has become effective this year," Chaim Shulman '50, president, announced. "The constitution provides for one general and one senior council. It limits the powers of the president and is intended to make for a more efficient S. O. Y. government."

Mr. Shulman, however, stated that S. O. Y. activities are not running smoothly. Two editors of Hamevasser, the organization's newspaper, have already resigned this year. Other resignations include those of the Gabbai and the chairman of the Chagigah committee.
