

Israeli U. N. Delegate Talks On Constitution

Dr. Kohn Analyzes Problems Of New State In View Of Jewish Heritage, Ethical Ideals

"The constitution of the State of Israel must be rooted in the basic traditions and ethical ideals of the Jewish heritage," declared Dr. Yehuda Kohn in an address on "The Constitutional Problems in Israel" held in Riets Hall on Tuesday, November 14, at 8:30 p.m., under the auspices of the Jewish Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Kohn, who is a member of the Israeli delegation to the UN and a political advisor to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, stated that the question of a constitution for the Jewish State became acute only during the past summer. At that time a resolution was adopted by the Israeli parliament to abandon for the time being the idea of a written constitution. Instead, it was decided to establish a number of fundamental laws defining the function of the government and the agencies of the state and their inter-relation. After several years of experimentation, these fundamental laws will be combined into an organic whole—a constitution.

Dr. Kohn also mentioned the diversity of opinions which exists with regard to a written constitution. The argument against the constitution is based on the notion that it would be unfair to the immigrants to impose upon them a body of laws on which they could not voice their opinion. Against this, the supporters of an immediate constitution claim that it would add to the stability of the state, would provide for a common political language, and would have an educational effect in shaping the people into a political unit.

"On the whole," Dr. Kohn maintained, "we have a strong case in favor of a written constitution. It should not be as technical and elaborate as modern constitutions. It should above all be rooted in what all Jews feel."

Justice Douglas Praises Yeshiva

"The military mind knows only how to destroy. We—men of faith—need to create tolerance, understanding, and good will in the world," stated Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court, in an address delivered at Yeshiva University's annual charter day dinner, marking the fifth anniversary of the elevation of Yeshiva to the status of University, on Sunday evening, November 12, at the Hotel Astor.

Justice Douglas went on to praise the value of Yeshiva to the Jewish Community, saying, "The sons of Yeshiva have shown, through their activities, both in the pulpit and elsewhere, that a religious training and a religious outlook on life are of inestimable aid in advancing the causes of liberty and humanity to which we Americans are dedicated."

Justice Douglas, who was presented with the University's annual Morris Morgenstern Award, was cited by Dr. Samuel Belkin, in recognition of his eloquent espousal of the rights of man.

Commie Lectures

The Commentator will sponsor a series of three lectures in journalism for all staff members, Leon S. Levy '51, editor-in-chief announced.

The first lecture on "Elements of the News Story" will be given by Murray Stadtmauer '51, last year's editor-in-chief, on Wednesday, November 29, at 8:30 p.m.

The second lecture, scheduled for Tuesday, December 5, at 8:30 p.m., will be offered by Ludwig Nadelman '51, former managing editor, on "Reporting of Speeches and the Writing of Headlines."

The third in this series of lectures will be delivered by Mr. Levy on the "Feature Story," on Tuesday, December 12, at 9:15 p.m.

All lectures will take place in the Commentator office.

Y. U. Psychiatrist Talks On Neurosis

"Most neurotic children would be normal if brought up in a healthy psychic environment," declared Dr. William E. Sorrel, Chief of Clinical Psychiatry at the Jewish Memorial Hospital, in a lecture at Graduate Hall on the topic, "The Origin of Neurosis," held on Tuesday, November 14.

Dr. Sorrel stated four sources of the "basic problems of children"—deprivation, rejection, exploitation, and over-protection.

"To avoid anxiety, a child uses the following safety mechanism—combined aggressiveness and detachment," continued the speaker. Two pseudo-solutions mentioned were the idealized image and externalization (blaming the world for one's failures).

Dr. Sorrel presented a brief outline of the requirements for a healthy, psychic atmosphere in the home—show love; speak to the youngster in the positive; talk about the time when you were his age; permit the child to compete with others; allow the child to observe the parents enjoying their leisure.

S. C. Supports Mixer To Be Given By Dean

Drama, 'Jacob's Dream' Will Be Presented By Dramatic Society; Y.U. Choir Will Sing

The annual Dean's Reception will take place at 8:30 p.m. on Sunday, December 3, in Riets Hall, it was announced by Aaron Landes '51, S.C. President. The program will include the presentation of the second act of a three-act play entitled "Jacob's Dream," by Richard B. Hoffman, readings, and a musical program by the Yeshiva University Choral group with communal singing. Bill Solomon '51 is chairman of the arrangements committee.

I.U.S.C. Selects Representatives

Student representatives to the various faculty committees have been selected, it was announced by Aaron Landes '51, president of the Inter-University Council. Solomon Poupko '49 was named to the dormitory committee, and Eli Horowitz '50 was selected to serve on the registrar's committee.

Mr. Landes further reported the appointment of the Placement Bureau Committee, to be composed of Mark Brenner '51, college representative, Henry Keller '51, Yeshiva representative, and Ludwig Fleischmann '52, T.I. representative.

As yet no chairman has been selected to direct the United Jewish Appeal campaign in the school.

Annual T.I. Chagiga Will Be Held Dec. 6

The annual Teachers Institute Chanuka Chagiga will be held on Wednesday, December 6, at 8:30 p.m., in Riets Hall, announced David Mogliner '52, Teachers Institute Student Council president. The admission price is $1.50 per person which includes the serving of a full meal.

An original play in Hebrew, written by Abraham Martan and under the direction of William Solomon '51, will be the main presentation of the evening. The remainder of the program will include choral selections by the T. I. choir under the direction of Murray Greenfield '51. The Yeshiva University Trio will present a program of original comic songs in Hebrew and several humorous sketches depicting daily T.I. activities.

Mr. Mogliner stated that the affair is open to all students of the University and their friends. Tickets may be obtained through the T.I. Student Council.

Yeshiva Chess Team Draws With C.C.N.Y.

In a match held on Sunday, November 13, in the social hall of the new dormitory, the Yeshiva College chess team drew with the City College team, defending champion of the National Inter-Collegiate Chess Tournament. The score was 2½ to 2½.

First board was won by David Steinberg '51 of Yeshiva; second board by Zuckerman of City.

Mr. Landes also reported that the reception would be open to all members of the faculty and juniors and seniors of the college. Students may bring one friend.

When asked to comment on the affair, Mr. Landes stated that the Dean's Reception as arranged this year is completely free of the stigma of serving as a substitute for autonomous student affairs. "If it were a substitute," Mr. Landes declared, "we would under no circumstances accept it. Student Council will still ask for its usual 'Music for Y.U.' and Class Nite affairs."

Open Class Nite

The Dean's Reception was first proposed last May, following the student fight over the open class nite, which finally resulted in the rejection of student-sponsored affairs by the administration.

An informal get-together given by the dean of the college for students, faculty, and guests. It was to consist of a program staged by the students and supervised by a committee consisting of three faculty members and three students. (Class nites had been under the sole supervision of the Student Council).

S. C. Resolution

In deciding not to participate in the affair, last year's S. C. passed a resolution which said, in part, (Continued on Page 4)

Mogilner Appointed To Fill New Associate Editor Post

David Mogilner '52 has been appointed to the position of associate editor on the Governing Board of The Commentator, Leon S. Levy, editor-in-chief, reported. At the same time, Mr. Levy reported the resignation of Perry London '52 as news editor.

Mr. London and David Rosenhan '51 have been named to the editorial board, which will assist the editor but will not have voting power in matters concerning Commentator policy.

Mr. Mogilner, the associate editor, hails from Newark, New Jersey. He is a junior in college and a major in English Literature. At present, he is the president of the Teachers Institute Student Council.

The position of associate editor was last held by Lou Lauer, New York University '50, who had to resign from his post due to his expulsion from the institution.

Math Club

At a meeting of the Math Club, held on Monday evening, November 20, Azriel Rosenfeld '50 delivered the third in a series of lectures on "Modern Algebra."

Faculty Notes

On the occasion of his sixtieth birthday, Dr. Bruno Kisch, professor of Chemistry at Yeshiva College, was honored with two scientific publications dedicated in his honor. The publications appeared in Europe and the United States and included articles by leading scientists from Israel, the United States, Belgium, Italy, England, Germany, Holland, Turkey, Egypt, and Brazil. On the same occasion, some friends and colleagues presented Dr. Kisch with a medal.

Mr. Abraham Tauber, assistant professor of Speech and English Composition at Yeshiva College, is at present the editor of the Speech Bulletin of the New York City Speech Association. Mr. Tauber will also speak in a panel on Adult Education at the Mid-Century Conference of the Speech Association of America, to be held in New York City in December.

Mr. Jacob I. Dienstag, librarian of the Mendel Gottesman Library, is preparing a bibliography of all Hebrew works that have been translated into English.

Librarian Announces Y.U. Book Exhibit

"An exhibit of 'Hebrew Classics in English Translation' is being shown by the Mendel Gottesman Library in celebration of the Jewish Book Month," Mr. Jacob I. Dienstag, librarian, stated.

Mr. Dienstag also reported that the merger of the Teachers Institute Library and the Mendel Gottesman Library was completed over the summer. Dr. Solomon Wind is in charge of the T.I. section, which contains a large selection of books on modern Hebrew literature. The late Dr. Nathan Klotz' collection of bible exegesis has been acquired and is now being processed.

The library is now open until 9:00 p.m. on Monday and Thursday nights, it was revealed. Arrangements are being made to have the same schedule for Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

The Yeshiva library was renovated last month, and plans are being drawn up to have partitioned cubicles on the mezzanine for students engaged in graduate work.

Not Substituting Student Affairs

By Aaron Landes,
S. C. President

The Student Council has officially accepted an invitation to participate in a Dean's Reception for the Junior and Senior classes.

Some misunderstandings have arisen concerning the affair, which I would like to clarify. The Dean's Reception was refused last year because it was offered as a substitute for an open student-sponsored Class Nite. The Council agreed that the Dean's Reception was a great idea and a step forward in bettering student-faculty relations. Were it not offered in the context of a substitute, Council would have accepted it. Whenever a Student Council president goes in to ask the administration for permission to run an open affair, he is confronted, rightly or wrongly, with these objections: first, that the students do not behave properly when attending an affair with their friends; and second, that the entertainment is badly presented and chosen in poor taste.

The Dean's Reception as arranged this year, has been removed from the context of a substitution. It is to come out before the usual time for other student-sponsored affairs. If it were a substitute, Council would not accept it. Student Council will be responsible for the entertainment. Under these conditions, we students are in a position to give the lie to all the accusations leveled against autonomous student-sponsored affairs.

There are some who still oppose the Dean's Reception. If we were to accept their position, all the administration's objections to student affairs would still stand. By accepting the affair, the objections can be vitiated, and the students make their requests with justice on their side. Acceptance of the Dean's Reception does not preclude our striving for other autonomous student-sponsored affairs, but rather strengthens our hand in the event that we have to fight. Every member of the Junior and Senior classes has a tremendous responsibility. On their conduct, rests the fate of open autonomous student-sponsored affairs, not only this year, but for years to come.

No Half-Way Measures

By Leon S. Levy,
Editor-in-chief

Before proceeding to explain why I consider the acceptance of the Dean's Reception by the Student Council to be an unforgivable error, I would like to make it clear that I am not asking students to boycott the affair. It is being endorsed by your elected representatives. What you can do is to inform your class representatives to vote against the sponsoring of other such affairs.

The acceptance of the Dean's Reception is an about-face on the attitude of last year's Student Council which was that unless "a Dean's Reception were offered in addition to a class nite," S.C. could not accept it. The fact is that no "Music for Y.U." will be held this semester. No guarantee has been given to student representatives that there will be student-sponsored dramatic affairs. As last year's S.C. president stated, "The running of the affair at this particular time is per se detrimental to the efforts of Student Council to obtain student-sponsored affairs." Have your representatives given up?

The proposed affair is necessarily connected with the issue of student dramatics. This is clear from the history of the issue. Furthermore, other schools do not have open dean's receptions so that we must assume that Yeshiva, which has consistently shown a negative attitude to open affairs, is more liberal in this respect!

No compromise on the question of student-run dramatic affairs is feasible. Rather than have a series of half-baked affairs, I would prefer no affair.

The students have always insisted upon open dramatic affairs because there can be no dichotomy between what a student does in the school and what he does out of it. The limiting of the affair

Meet The Seniors

Ira Albeck — Not satisfied with his dorm room, Ira has finally moved into the Beth Hamedrash and his counsellor reports excellent "minion" attendance. Coming from R.J.J., Ira is the only student here who calls Staten Island his home. After graduating from the college, he'll remain in RIETS to become a guide to the perplexed.

Charles Bahn — Possessor of the professorial stoop, the dark horn-rimmed glasses, and the poet's mane, this Bostonian bard can usually be seen pacing the floors in deep thought.

Charles is an English Literature major and also found his way to Rabbi Shatzkes' class. He is the only Yeshiva undergraduate to have lectured on the Philosophy of Science at Harvard, and he readily admits it.

Charles' poetical accomplishments are well known at Yeshiva U., having been heard at various gatherings and printed in several Masmids.

Israel Bilus — A "Chofetz Chaim" alumnus, Israel is finishing his studies at Y.U. in preparation for his individual "aliyah." In the meantime, he is kept busy by Rabbi Burack while trying to major in Philosophy?

When he isn't busy plucking chickens, he's talking with Cantor Schall. Despite all of his machinations, however, he still has time to take a very active interest in "Beth Yaakov" affairs.

Leo Bornstein — Following in the footsteps of the college basketball team, Leo spends his summers working in hotels as a waiter. After graduating from R.J.J. High School, "Borey" came to Yeshiva College and to T.I.

A math major in college and a "Maalach Hamovies" major in T.I., he is as yet undecided whether to become a Hebrew or Math instructor. He will go on for his masters degree just as soon as he decides which field he'll enter.

Solemon Botnick — Hailing from the wilds of Ontario, this Toronto Chasid is now in Rabbi Lifshitz' class. Chief religious advisor to Bim, Sol is always ready to discuss the comparative merits of the various exegetes, including Rambin, Malbim and Miss Bim.

Known as the little man with the tall cigarettes, his mouth is closed only when he has the weed in it. Scheduled for a future visit before the Smicha Committee, he will either talk his way into or out of the rabbinate.

Pynchas Brenner — Born in Poland, brought up in Peru, educated in Yeshiva, and "managed" by Commie, "Mar" Brenner is a math major in college and a crossword-puzzle major in T.I.

An energetic violinist in the Yeshiva University Orchestra, "Boopkins" intends somehow or other to fiddle his way into the Rabbinate. His friends stoutly maintain, however, that Pinky has intentions of becoming a dean in some institution or other.

Chem Majors Weeded Out When Avrohom Eyes Cribbs

By Saul Bahn
and David Miller

Warning: look out for Able Avrohom during all examinations! Dead-eye Avrohom has never failed to spy any foreign material that is brought into an examination room. "Woe to he that goeth to take an examination with the help of a 'crib'."

Don't let this warning poster give you the wrong impression of Mr. Abraham Weingart, the lab assistant, better known to all the students as Avrohom. Toward the end of any lab day, one can hear the melodious "Feeneesh" as it pervades every nook and cranny of the fourth floor. This, however, never deters any student from taking an extra ten minutes, as his kindness is well known.

was an infringement upon this principle. It was one imposition in a series of curbs which have come in the past two years.

Yet, I do not consider the present situation final. I look forward eagerly to the time when the "iron curtain" will rise in Lampion Auditorium.

Born in Poland, Mr. Weingart went to Yeshiva and the Gymnasia in his native land. After graduation from the Gymnasia, he went to France where he completed the course leading to the degree of Chemical Engineer. He returned to Poland and worked in several factories as a Chemical Engineer until 1939, when the Nazis came. Under the Nazi rule, Mr. Weingart underwent many hardships and was in several concentration camps. He was liberated by American troops in 1945, but was forced to live in an Austrian D.P. camp until 1949.

He came to the United States and immediately went to work in Yeshiva University's Chemistry Department. His arrival gave Professor Levine the opportunity to illustrate his lectures by more experiments, and also took some of the load off of Dr. Levine's over-burdened shoulders. His efficient handling of the Chem Lab is a marvel to behold. Many think that Avrohom is an Israeli since he speaks an excellent Hebrew. Actually he never set foot in Israel, although he hopes to in later years.

Drama Review

By Arthur Taub

"The Imaginary Invalid" by Moliere
Presented by: The Dramatic Workshop
Erwin Piscator, Director
At: The President Theatre
248 West 47th Street

To tap Moliere for all he is worth and at the same time to keep one's feet on firm theatrical ground, is, doubtless, a rewarding task, but a trying one. Despite the innate "playiness" incorporated into the lines, a modern audience, case-hardened to preciousness, may regard with a jaundiced eye an admittedly prohibitive attempt to stage and produce him in a new vein.

Erwin Piscator and The Dramatic Workshop have succeeded, with their little piece, in holding the interest of the audience a good measure of the time, in showing a neat trick or two of stage business, and, on the whole, in getting a fair bit of an evening's entertainment out of the old tale of the "Imaginary Invalid" and his false friends. This classical lampoon of quackery, hypochondria, and their bedfellows—bloated dignity and self-deception—takes in this production, a novel appearance. Though overloaded with some affectedly "arty" ballet, quippery, mugging, and a bit of over-frisky romping, it manages to capture the audience and to evoke sympathy with the characterizations.

The "synthesis" achieved was well demonstrated in the development of the character of Argon (admirable Jack Creley), a slave to his fancied ills, to his medical treatments, and to his charlatan physicians and metaphysicians — so much a slave as to betroth his daughter Angelique (aptly named!) to a cretin, fresh out of medical school, who carries as standard equipment a fund of fluent Latin, Greek, and sundry other superfluities (not to mention his face.) At the denouement, Creley discovers somewhat belatedly that his illness is chimera, which medical science cannot cure. Now this Argon, I say, between bouts of agonizing imaginary pain, romps, giggles and is concupiscent, realistically and humorously, but—the character is a trifle strained and put on.

Angelique (the ingenuous Anita Cooper), on the other hand, is an attempt at sincere portrayal. Yet the touch of sarcasm so characteristic of the French master is present only in spots. That fleeting tongue-in-cheek that is a Moliere personality at its best oftentimes degenerates, sad to say, into mere "cuteness."

Thus Erwin Piscator, with the opening of the Fall Repertory season, narrowly (but narrowly) avoids presenting a potpourri of triple-distilled modernism, opens his showcase, and presents the first of his wares and his proteges.

We find them certainly not great, but honest altogether and promising. But don't get us wrong—we liked 'em!

On The Sidelines

"There's Them That Do And Them That Don't"

By Sheldon Rudoff

The attitude of Yeshiva University students towards their basketball team is adequately described by the headline to this story. There are several students who take a sincere interest in the accomplishments of the Mighty Mites, and then there are the others... It is the latter who, when asked to purchase tickets for the St. Francis-Yeshiva game, reply, "Are you kiddin'?"

Let's look at it this way. There are about four hundred students registered at Y.U. The Heighters take on teams representing schools with as many as nine or ten times the enrollment Yeshiva College has. Most of the top city fives pick up hoopsters who have played with the city's better high school teams. Most of our basketballers are graduates of Talmudical Academy and Rabbi Jacob Joseph High School. A Yeshiva high school has never won an inter-city championship. The Sarachekites carry heavier programs than their court-foes. Consequently, they have less time to practice. Therefore, when Y.U. takes on such clubs as St. Francis, the Kingsmen of Brooklyn, and Fordham, and makes a contest of the game, as it has done in the past, it deserves the co-operation of the student body.

They deserve it, but don't receive it. When asking for student support, we are not asking for much. All you have to do is attend ball games.

The revenue received from the admission price goes to the Y.U. A.A., which has done much for the betterment of sports at Yeshiva. Due to its direct efforts, Yeshiva now boasts fully equipped fencing and chess teams. These teams are not financially profitable. They rely on the Y.U.A.A. for funds. Thus, the four bits collected at the gate at basketball games does not only result in a better basketball team, but in an improvement of sports at Yeshiva, in general.

The games, this year, promise to be more interesting than usual. The openers of double-headers will be played by the Y.U. Junior Varsity, and by a rejuvenated Talmudical Academy five. In addition, a good schedule and an experienced ball club will make all Y.U. games pulse-quickening affairs.

More important than all the previously mentioned reasons is the simple fact that YESHIVA IS YOUR COLLEGE AND THE MIGHTY MITES YOUR TEAM. Don't merely go to Y.U., go for Y.U.

"To them that don't" we can sum it up in these words: You have a Y.U.A.A. Membership Card—use it. Attend the basketball games. We might even win a game, and wouldn't you be surprised?

St. Francis Beats Yeshiva Five; Alumni Oldsters Whipped, 86-28

Ancient Jesters Fall In Y.U. Tumblechase

The creaking Yeshiva basketballers of old were nailed into their coffins, 86-28, by the Heighters, at the Needle Trades gym, on Saturday evening, November 18.

Using a two-platoon system, the Mites quickly swept to a 20-0 lead, and eased into a 44-point margin at half-time, leading 55-11.

Paced by Hershkovitz, who scored 12 points in the second half and was the game's high scorer with 22, the Heighters poured it on. The Alumni, who managed to score 17 markers in the second half, clowned their way through spectacular mid-court heaves.

Stein scored 17 for Yeshiva and passed off nicely. The Alumni oldsters were led by Avrech, who canned six points.

Stein Nets 26 Points As Mites Go Down Before The Fast-Moving Terriers, 82-59

A fast-breaking St. Francis five trounced Yeshiva, 82-59, at the Sunnyside Garden on Tuesday, November 21. Stein scored 26 and Hershkovitz canned 14 for Yeshiva. The victorious Terriers were led by Rudzinski who hit for 18 markers.

The Mites managed to keep up with the Terriers in the opening minutes of play as Krieger and Hershkovitz hit from the outside. But led by Reardon's sensational set-shooting, St. Francis pulled far out in front and enjoyed a 44-26 lead at the end of the first half.

Rosenthal, Siegal, Tie 'City' Debating In "Oregon" Style

In a debate held at the College of the City of New York on Thursday, November 16, on the inter-collegiate topic, "Resolved: An International Organization, Excluding Communist Nations, Should Be Formed," Yeshiva College, represented by Stanley Siegal '52 and Gilbert Rosenthal '53 drew with the C. C. N. Y. team. A return debate with City College is scheduled to be held at Riets Hall on Thursday evening, November 30.

A home debate with West Point was held Saturday evening, November 25. The varsity will debate Columbia University this evening in Riets Hall. Both debates are conducted in the Oregon Style in accordance with a new debating team policy.

Three practice debates were held on the inter-collegiate topic on November 20, 21, and 22.

T.I. Dean Discusses New Advisor System

"The faculty advisor system has been instituted in order to aid the student during his stay at the Institute and to guide him when he leaves," stated Dr. Pinkhos Churgin, dean of the Teachers Institute, in a short address, delivered at the first T. I. assembly of the year, held on Monday, November 13. Dr. Churgin also listed the various faculty advisors and elaborated on their functions. (A complete list of the advisors appeared in the first issue of Commentator this year).

The remainder of the program featured several songs by the University Trio, Wilfred Solomon '51, George Marcus '52, and Lacey Burack '53.

Dean's Reception

that while the S. C. "gives its whole-hearted approval to the suggestion of a Dean's Reception as an addition to a student-sponsored dramatic affair," it could not accept it at the time. Council's grounds for refusing to participate

MAKE THE TOBACCO GROWERS' MILDNESS TEST YOURSELF...

"TOBACCOS THAT SMELL Milder SMOKE Milder"

YES... Compare Chesterfield with the brand you've been smoking... Open a pack... smell that milder Chesterfield aroma. Prove—tobaccos that smell milder smoke milder.

Now smoke Chesterfields—they do smoke milder, and they leave NO UNPLEASANT AFTER-TASTE.
