

Orators Win Fourteen On Recent Tour

Yeshiva College debaters registered fourteen victories against four defeats in their recent tours which traveled to Boston, upper New York State, Pennsylvania, and the South.

In the first debate of the tours, Gil Rosenthal '53 and Joseph Erushalmi '53 defeated Princeton University at Princeton. Mr. Erushalmi and Fischel Perlmutter '55 represented Yeshiva in the Boston area where they defeated Tufts, Boston University, and M.I.T., while dropping decisions to Harvard and Boston College.

Spoiled by Syracuse

Stanley Siegel '52 and Jack Adelmann '53, traveling to New York State and Pennsylvania, scored four victories against one loss. They beat the Union College team which took the trophy in the recent Brooklyn tournament, College University, the mid-West touring team of Cornell, and Lehigh University. Their lone defeat was at Syracuse University. A debate at Albany State was non-decision.

The Southern tour consisted of Mr. Rosenthal, Robert Ivan Rozen '53, Sam April '54, and Morton Geffer '55. In Philadelphia, Yeshiva beat Temple, Haverford, the University of Pennsylvania, and Villanova. In Baltimore, the debaters were defeated by Johns Hopkins University while beating Loyola College. The tour ended in Washington where Yeshiva beat Howard University and Georgetown.

The season's record for the varsity team is twenty victories, six losses, and five ties or non-decisions.

All debates this year have been held on the national intercollegiate topic: Resolved, that the Federal Government should adopt a permanent program of price and wage control.

Social Hall Opened Thru SAC Effort

"In response to student demand, the Dormitory Social Hall is being opened during the evening in the near future," announced Daniel Bonchek '53, SAC supervisor of the hall. Mr. Bonchek also stated that the radio in the hall has been repaired and may be used at the discretion of the students.

Stanley Wagner '53 announced that a Yeshiva Guidebook will be published by the Student Activities Committee. The book will contain all pertinent "whys and wherefores" concerning Yeshiva.

The complete staff of "You the Student" the official bulletin of the SAC has been appointed, it was announced by Michael Rosenak '54, editor-in-chief of the bulletin. Ralph Bierman '54 will serve as News Editor; Joseph Levine '55 is the Art Editor; and Herbert Panitch '54 will work in the capacity of Circulation Manager. Members of SAC will also contribute articles, he added.

The deadline for applying for Student Council Awards has been postponed until Wednesday, April 2, announced Hyam Reichel '52, president of the senior class and awards committee chairman. Application blanks for these awards, annually given to seniors for service, are available in the main Co-op store.

At the same time Mr. Reichel announced that a meeting of the Senior class will take place on Thursday, March 27. Final arrangements for the Senior Dinner and the annual award to a faculty member are on the agenda.

Talpioth Sponsors Concert, Address

Friends of Talpioth, the recently formed organization of supporters of the Hebrew scholarly publication at Yeshiva University, is sponsoring a concert celebration on Thursday evening, March 27, at the Jewish Center, 131 West 86th street, New York City.

This concert celebration, featuring Pinchos Jassinowsky, cantor of the Jewish Center; Nina Valery, noted mezzo-soprano; and an address by Dr. Leo Jung on "The Culture of Judaism," will commemorate the recent publication of the fifth anniversary edition of Talpioth.

A limited number of tickets, priced at four dollars each, are available at the Graduate Hall office of Prof. Samuel K. Mirsky, editor of Talpioth.

Including William B. Manischewitz, who is chairman of the Friends of Talpioth, the committee members are: Mrs. Gertrude Bienenfeld, Mr. Julius Bienenfeld, Mr. Issac Genack, Mr. Nathan Maidenbaum, Mr. Boris Margolin, and Mr. Isaac Shalom.

In addition to the journal, which is published quarterly, and other series of books under the same name, "Talpioth" publishes a Hebrew yearbook annually in Jerusalem, under the joint sponsorship of Yeshiva University and the Rabbi Kook Foundation of Israel. The 500-page volume, which has been hailed as bridging the cultural gap between American and Israeli Jewry, is edited by Prof. Mirsky and Rabbi J. L. Maimon, Israel's first Minister of Religion.

Student Loan Fund Initiated

On April 1, a student fund will be reinstituted at Yeshiva University. After this date students will be able to borrow up to $10 for a period of two weeks by simply requesting such a loan from the bursar's office, it was announced by Mr. Joseph Ellenberg, assistant bursar.

Loans for a longer period of time and loans up to $25 may be received after approval of the assistant bursar. In all cases, the students availing themselves of this service would be obliged to sign a promissory note.

This loan fund will be known as the "Rabbi Ben-Zion Rosenblum Student's Loan Fund" and will replace the Bronx Chapter Yeshiva University Student Loan Fund established in 1945. Nearly 400 students made use of this fund during the years of its operation.

"Special thanks are due to the Bronx Chapter of the Women's Organization for making such service available to the students," added Mr. Ellenberg.

Math Again Heads Y. U. Major Choice

Mathematics continues to be the leading major of Yeshiva College students according to statistics released by Mr. Morris Silverman, registrar.

The figures indicate that 13.8% are majoring in Mathematics. However, this represents a 4.5% decline from last year.

Psychology majors numbering 11.1% still comprise the second largest group. Political Science majors whose numbers have increased from 7.8% to 10.7% replace English for the third position.

The most substantial increase was made in the number of Pre-Med majors who have almost doubled to 6.1% from last year's 3.4%.

Increases were made in the following subjects: Chemistry, Political Science, Physics, Biology, Pre-Med, French, and German.

The following decreased in number: Mathematics, Psychology, History, Sociology, Hebrew, Philosophy, and Classical Languages.

English majors showed no change remaining at 9.3%.

Scholarships

Application blanks for scholarships and maintenance in all branches of the university are now available in the office of the assistant bursar, it was announced by Mr. Joseph Ellenberg, assistant bursar. All applications are to be filled out properly and to be returned to the office prior to May 1.

At the same time Mr. Ellenberg announced that March 31, is the last day for the collection of laboratory fee refunds from his office.

Y. U. Money Drive Nears $500 Mark

A total of $498.60 has been collected by the Yeshiva University Drive as of Tuesday, March 18, it was announced by Irwin Shapiro '53, drive chairman. The sum collected represents 14.3% of the $3,500 goal.

The Chulin class, with thirty-six members, leads the thirty other classes in total and per capita contributions. Collector I. Sanders has handed in $51 over a two week period for a weekly per capita sum of $0.71.

Diligent Classes

Mr. Shapiro expressed satisfaction over the results of present contributions. "Most students have realized the importance of the drive and are contributing from the bottom of their hearts," he said. "However," he continued, "there are ten classes which are far below their quota." He expressed the hope that they too would soon "see the light, and come through." These "delinquent" classes consist of graduate and college students in contrast to high school classes which are fulfilling their quotas regularly.

Daniel Bonchek '53 and Otto Newman '53, assistants to the chairman, emphasized the fact that the $0.25 weekly quota has been instituted for high school students only. "College and graduate students are expected to contribute more," they stated.

The drive, which has five more weeks to run is being conducted throughout the entire university, high school included. Funds being collected are to be divided among U. J. A., P'elim, and Tashbar.

Tuition Fees Will Be Hiked $3 A Credit

Beginning July 1, tuition fees at Yeshiva College will go up to $18 a credit, the college office announced recently. This will increase the cost of a Yeshiva education by approximately $100 yearly.

As a partial explanation of the increase which will effect the entire university—graduate school and high school tuition fees will be raised in the near future—administration officials have cited rising costs as well as increased maintenance fees.

Dr. Belkin, Yeshiva president, assured The Commentator that present scholarships will not be affected. "Full scholarships will still cover the entire amount," he said.

Upper Tuition Bracket

The $3 credit raise will put Yeshiva in the upper tuition brackets in the metropolitan area. Except for Columbia and New York Universities, which charge $25 and $20 respectively, Yeshiva reigns supreme—as far as tuition fees go. At Long Island University the fee is $10 per credit. St. Johns charges $12, but plans to jump to $15. At Manhattan, tuition is $11.50, while Fordham and Pace both charge $15 a credit. C. C. N. Y., Brooklyn, Queens, and Hunter are city-sponsored schools and charge no tuition fees.

This marks the second increase in tuition in the course of two years. The previous raise was from $12.50 to $15. The registration fee was also raised last January from $10 to $15.

The total increase of tuition from $420, two years ago, to $642, next semester, (including registration fees, but excluding laboratory fees) is a jump of over 50%. These calculations are on the basis of seventeen credits per semester.

J. Robbins Contest Ends On April 25

April 25 has been set as the deadline for entries in the Jerome Robbins Memorial Short Story Contest.

A prize of a $25 Series E bond will be awarded for the best original short story by a Yeshiva College undergraduate. There are no qualifications as to length.

The title page of each entry should contain the writer's pseudonym. His real identification should be enclosed in a sealed envelope. All entries are to be submitted to the English office.

Congrats

The Commentator wishes to extend its heartiest congratulations to Sam Glazer '49 on his recent engagement to Miss Joyce Raiman; to Yechiel Simon '50 on his recent engagement to Miss Natalie Greenwald; and to Aaron Gelman '53 on his recent engagement to Miss Bernice Golden.

Long Buried Scroll Discusses Yeshiva Purim Chagiga During Fulda Reign; Skits Described

By Sol Steinitz

It came to pass in the days of Fulda, of the same Fulda who reined from Amsterdam even unto Audubon, over the provinces of the Student Organization of Yeshiva; that, in the first year of his reign, he made a feast unto all his princes and servants in the cafeteria of his palace at Yeshiva. And he gave them to eat and drink according to the pleasure of every man, and the royal wine and beer and soda were in abundance.

All this came to pass on the tenth day of the third month; a day of entertainment and of joy.

Pur

During this event, the princes of a great many provinces sat at one long table at the head of the court, and in midst of them behold Dean Samuel Sar, the guest of honor. Wherefore he arose and spoke and lauded the occasion of Pur, the symbol of the divine lot of our nation. Upon which the approval of the people shook the mighty wall of the mansion.

Then did Fulda command the players to appear before him to show their skill; and lo, they did come disguised and merry. And one being Abraham, the son of Berman, he stageth an eulogy upon the dispatchment of the wicked Haman. And the other being Ab-

Homework, Entertainments Jive At T. I. Purim Chagiga

Dear Folks,

"T.I.'s having a Chagiga," flew down the grapevine from cellblock to cellblock. At the sound of the bell we shuffled out, breaking lines (a holiday treat, you see). Interest flared on all sides. Here's Creampuffowitz, our old friend (a sadder, wiser boy). Let's listen to him as he talks with a companion, "... hey, you going?"

"Yeh, my Rebbe's telling jokes and he'll need help." "Will you lend me the French homework? ... So I will go too." And thus are they entered in.

Program Starts

Shh. ... Shh. ... the Star Spangled Banner. The audience isn't restless at all. We sit down but nothing happens. The audience gets restless. We play a game, "find the song leader." Jack Schachter volunteers. He's brave. And the happy Purim festival is under way.

Even the cracked, peeling ceiling smiles benignly at the antics below. The program starts. No first Otto Newman makes 'uh' speech. It could have been stirring. The audience is patient. Then the program, the poor-im part that is, began.

Program Starts Again

No, first Bialik read from the Megillah, which was really funny though, 'cause everybody laughed. Before I could translate two pages from my Soncino into Aramaic, I was told the program really began.

Wholgerlinter gave a series, but not serious (neither Roebuck), of astonishingly artistic impositions of our various methods. This was so good that people stopped doing their homework. To say that it was hilarious is an overstatement. Why, it was so good that someone even laughed heartily into his beard when his turn was done and a colleague was getting his share.

raham, but the son of Kupchick, it was he who made a blessing, which was not there, upon the wine, which was not there either. O, the gaiety was so great that when Azriel, son of Rozenfeld, chanted over the same blessing, alas, none knew the difference! In truth, the spirits were high when the last clown made show.

Son of Goodman

And he wore a long black tunic and beard, and upon the tunic, a cloth of linen with fringes. Now his head was covered by a hat made of fur, and his name, the son of Goodman, Isaac. So that the people laughed at his mask and discourse until their colors changed and their knees knocked against each other. Yea, for he Rav Siev rounded out the program with some Purim Torah which, as he so aptly put it, "made up of jokes handed down and down for generations ..." (When I say down, I mean it with all my heart). But it must be said of the Rabbi that his students were not only loyal but dutiful, enjoying sally after sally.

Program Ends

The cracked ceiling wasn't looking so happy now. It looked cracked. Hatikvah was suggested and everyone sang. I sidled over to Creampuff and gave him the high sign. As I deftly disabled a pal, Creampuff grabbed eighteen Hamantaschen (Chay). Between bites, Creampuff ruminated, "Last year I had thirty-six..."

But I was happy—I'd had nine Hamantaschen—I finished my French, and look Ma, my name is in the paper!

Love,

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I find it necessary to correct a grave error that was printed in the last issue of The Commentator. I am referring to the news item, "Annual Dedicated to M. Pearlstein," in which you wrote that "Nir, ... will, this year, be dedicated to Moshe Pearlstein '46..."

As a matter of fact, I would like to inform you that this year's Nir will be dedicated to Rabbi Solomon Wind, who has served as a member of the T. I. faculty for over fifteen years.

Then Sanders, who mastered the ceremonies, lifted his mouth and spake: "The show will go on!" And behold, it did. And the people drew up their chairs and formed a circle around the stage and the Mechitzot were divided; thus the skit was begun.

And the players executed their superiors with the stroke of the word; and they acted them out according to their pleasure. And they

Student Loan Fund

The Bursar's office has announced that a student loan fund, once in operation under administration sponsorship, will be re-instituted at Yeshiva. It has been further announced that these small loans will be primarily lent out on a short term basis, although loans up to $25 may be received on approval of the bursar's office.

We question the real necessity of such a set up since Tat is in operation for the expressed same purpose. It is our opinion that a loan fund to help students defray long term substantial expenses, such as tuition and dormitory fees, would be more in order. We trust that the "Rabbi Ben-Zion Rosenblum Student's Loan Fund" could easily be converted to operate on a basis where students would repay long term, big money loans ($100 and up) during the course of their undergraduate days or even afterwards.

Prof. Lisman And His Boys

The Faculty Committee on Student Affairs has been meeting regularly since September, 1951. In the seven months since the opening meeting, the committee, composed of faculty members Dr. Lisman, Professors Horowitz and Young, Rabbi Bernstein, Mr. Terkel, and one student member, Leon Kestenbaum '53, has met on almost every Wednesday evening together with several student leaders; the executive council of the Student Council, and the presidents of the S. O. Y. and T. I. Student Councils.

The main (more correctly, the sole) topic discussed at these meetings was the problem of awards. The importance of awards can be seen from the fact that the findings of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs were not to have any binding effect but were to be referred to another faculty committee (the composition of which is unknown to the executive council as well as to the members of the F. C. S. A.) which was to evaluate the F. C. S. A. recommendations in arriving at their own conclusions—the final word on awards.

At the F. C. S. A. meetings the students present raised the question of the possibility of discussing the final procedure on awards. They were assured that such would be the case. Further, it was announced at the F. C. S. A. meeting of February 6, 1952, that the procedure which would be arrived at by the Faculty Committee on Awards (not to be confused with the F. C. S. A. which is ...) would be published during the week of February 10. Late as that date was, the Student leaders felt that any counter-proposals that they might have could be voiced in time for some action to be taken. It was important at that time to bear in mind the fact that nominations for the various awards would be made sometime in April.

As things stand now, the faculty awards committee has, as yet, not made known their proposals. The F. C. S. A. has gone on to "bigger and better topics," and the student leaders are in a state of perplexity.

Editorials

At the beginning of the school year, much talk was made of "good faith" to be engendered between the students and the faculty members. This good faith seems to be nothing more than talk. The facts speak all too plainly. The proposals are not out as yet, there remain only two or three weeks for the award nominations to be made. At present no system for giving out these awards is in operation. When the final recommendations are released, the students will have had no say.

Something is rotten somewhere, and not in the State of Denmark.

The Tuition Raise

Perhaps no single issue at Yeshiva in recent years has aroused as much student comment as the announcement that tuition rates are to be increased next semester. The opinions expressed at first were varied and somewhat heated but we feel that a calm analysis of the situation might clarify the matter to a certain extent.

The announced increase of $3.00 per credit (which amounts to about $100 for a year's course of study) comes close on the heels of a rise in registration fees this semester and only two years after a previous increase of $2.50 per credit. All in all, this represents more than a 44 per cent rise in Yeshiva College tuition.

Administration officials have explained that while most other colleges receive 60 per cent of their budgets from tuition, Yeshiva obtains only 20 per cent from this source. Greatly increased maintenance and operating costs of recent years have threatened the school with a deficit and it is to avert this possibility that the Board of Trustees decided to increase tuition rates.

The position of the administration has been clearly and candidly stated and obviously circumstances warranted their decision. However, we should like to suggest that they reconsider their action and make certain adjustments based on the following considerations:

Those who intend to apply for admission to Yeshiva College this fall will do so in full awareness of and will be prepared to pay the new tuition rates. But present Yeshiva students entered with the assumption that their tuition would be the same throughout their four years of college and the recent action of the administration imposes an undue hardship on these people.

Dr. Belkin has given his assurance that those currently holding full scholarships would continue to do so, irrespective of the increase in tuition. The ones who will be severely hurt by the new rate schedule are those students who have part-scholarships or who pay full tuition. Many students have indicated that it will be impossible for them to meet the additional costs and that they might be forced to leave school. We should like to recommend that the administration make provision for these people by allowing them to continue at the tuition rates in effect when they entered Yeshiva.

We feel that, in view of the facts, the decision of the administration may be justified; but we hope they will consider our recommendation seriously. Also, we sincerely hope that with the added income, the school will be able to improve and increase its present facilities and be able to offer services to the students and faculty comparable to the prices charged.

On The Sidelines Final Glance At Hoop And Fencing Seasons Taken By Sports Ed.

By Sheldon Rudoff

"Hey Shloime, take off that fur coat; it's spring!" Thus I was so crudely informed of the arrival of the sleepy season by Abby Gewirtz, one of our basketball "freshmen flashes." But there was really no need for such information as I had been well aware of the change. Tennis and Soccer take the spotlight for the basketball and fencing campaigns are officially over. A sports scribe can only console himself with memories of the season past. So, with your kind indulgence, we'll take one last glance at those memories before they become forgone and forlorn facts in record books.

The Mighty Mites had their worst season this year. They won only four out of fourteen games. But there is more to playing basketball than records and box-scores indicate. There is the fellowship, the locker room rumpuses, and the mad road trips which almost compensate for the Heighters' worst of seasons.

We will always remember how the season got off to a good start when Yeshiva beat Webb at Glen Cove, Long Island. The Mites played in a field house in which the heating system blew in cold air instead of steam. We sat in coats while our hoopsters played in their basketball shorts and shirts. They got hot enough however, to cop one of their four precious wins before the evening was over.

The trip to Williamsport in January will remain as the outstanding event of this and many seasons to come. Yeshiva was feted and feasted as if they had won the N. I. T. finals. In return, the Mites played an inspired basketball game. As it occurred many times this year, the "Parcae," the sister fates, stepped in and turned the breaks against them. Yeshiva lost Krieger to influenza, Davidman through a sprained ankle, and Staiman and Freundlich via the personal foul route at Williamsport. They lost the ballgame too.

The 1951-52 hoop season had all indications of becoming a record breaking season for Marv Hershkowitz. Beginning with the Cathedral game when he scored 41 points and pulled off 31 rebounds, Hershkowitz was a "ball of fire." His showing in the Cathedral game was labelled, "the finest performance I've seen in my sixteen years of coaching basketball," by Coach "Red" Sarachek. But the "parcas-fata" spun another fateful web just three weeks ago to stall the Mites, when Hershkowitz fell flat on his top-side a few minutes before the Cooper Union game. He suffered a severely sprained left arm. His only other appearance was in the Brooklyn game where he played with a bandaged hand and scored 11 points. However, it wasn't enough to create a new individual scoring record. Nor was it enough to afford Yeshiva one bright spot in a dismal basketball season.

Coach Sarachek's annual run-in with a referee took place at Montclair. The ribald redhead, hands in pocket, paced forth on the playing field to query a short chubby referee on a call. The official pointed to the bench and declared, "get back to the bench." "Don't hand me any of that baloney," "Red" replied and strode disgustedly back to the bench. Only then could we breathe freely. Coach Sarachek had saved his wrath and vocabulary for his pro-games. Stein pulled the same gag just two nights later and drew a technical foul. You've got to be gifted for these things.

All in all, the season was eventful if not successful. Experiences which, in years to come, our hoopsters will refer to as "the good

Brooklyn's Speed Sets, Jar Yeshiva In Season's Finale

Playing the final game of the 1951-52 basketball season on Saturday, March 15, at Brooklyn College, Yeshiva lost to the Kingsmen 69-50.

Brooklyn grabbed an early lead by virtue of baskets by Jerry Wax and Charlie Wilson and was never behind throughout the game. The closest Yeshiva came to the Kingsmen's lead was early in the first period when they trailed 11-9. Down 37-17 at half-time, the Heighters played their best third period ball of the season as they spurted with a flurry of baskets by Gewirtz, Hershkowitz, and Krieger and trailed 51-38, at the completion of the third quarter.

Cathedral Defeats Marvless Mites; Forman Impressive In Starting Berth

A Hershkowitz-less Yeshiva basketball team was trounced by hustling Cathedral College 68-56, Saturday, March 8, at the Central High School of Needle Trades gymnasium, climaxing a poor home season. The Mites reached the epitome of sluggish and erratic play by bowing to a team they previously defeated this season by 20 points. Continuously harassed by a full court press, the Heighters repeatedly fumbled rebounds and threw away passes.

Scoring a basket during the early seconds of play, the Sarachekeers took the only lead they possessed all game. Cathedral lowered the boom by taking advantage of lax Yeshiva defense and piled up an insurmountable margin. Finally getting organized late in the first half, the Mites "Narrowed" the score to a ten point difference at half time.

"Third-quarter-itis" struck Yeshiva and consequently killed all hope for a repeat victory over their traditional rivals. Leading the scoring parade for the Blue

Swordsmen Beat St. Peters, Paterson; End Best Season

The Yeshiva fencing team won its last two matches by defeating St. Peters College 14-13, in the Yeshiva gymnasium on March 6, and Paterson Teachers College 17-10, at Paterson on March 12. The Swordsmen closed the season with a 6-1 record their best showing in their three year history.

The St. Peters' match was the closest one of the season as it wasn't won until the last touch in the final bout. With the Fencers on

Booters Trowned By Bronxites; 2-1

The Bronx Concord Club handed the Yeshiva Soccer team its first defeat of the year, 2-1 on Sunday, March 16, at Van Cortland Park.

The first half of the contest was scoreless. The Bronxites got only one shot through the sharp Yeshiva defense, which was foiled by goalie Joseph Mogilner. In the second period however, Concord scored two quick goals to give them their margin of victory. Coach Nat Maier's boys came surging back and eventually penetrated the Concord nets for a single tally and threatened to tie the game in its closing moments.

Newcomer Charles Shanilzadeh, an exchange student from Persia, scored the only goal for the Blue and White, and excelled in passing and defensive work. Goalie Mogilner was forced to leave the game late in the last period with an injured leg and was replaced by Sid Ingber.

the short end of a 13-11 score the Sabermen took to the strip. Norman and Eugene Tokayer won their matches handily, 5-2 and 5-3, to tie the score at 13-13. Norman Toporovsky then fenced to a 4-4 tie with the visitors' De Cottis. The tension mounted when the director called six double touches. The crowd went wild when "Tippy" scored the last point, giving the Swordsmen a 14-13 win.

Missing regular Neil Hecht, the epeemen lost 7-2 to St. Peters. Fred Klein, a new starter, turned in a sparkling score, by copping two out of his three epee bouts. Yeshiva bounced back to win at foil, 6-3. Foilman Seagull turned in a perfect 3-0 score. The Sabermen also registered a 6-3 victory.

Paterson Defeated

With several substitutes displaying exceptional form, Yeshiva wound up the campaign with a rousing 17-10 victory over Paterson Teachers College. The Sabermen once again paced the Fencers' attack with a 7-2 win. Eugene Tokayer won all three of his bouts. The epeemen, sans their regular starting squad, nevertheless, turned in a 6-3 win. Coach Tauber was very successful with his substitutions who fenced with electrical epees for the first time.

Senior's Halt J's In Weird Contest

The Seniors opened the spring intramural hoop campaign by nipping the Juniors 28-27, on March 4, in the Yeshiva gymnasium.

The game turned into a weird affair in the final period when the Seniors, lacking a bench, began to foul out of the contest. With six minutes left to play and the Seniors on top 23-21, upper-classman Spira fouled out. He was followed three minutes later by Novoseller and then Epstein.

to a Yeshiva scoring record, injured his left arm. Marv fell in a pre-game practice session before the Mites bowed to Cooper Union, 73-54. Hershkowitz was sorely missed in both contests and consequently his hopes of topping Marv Fredman's 331 point record were frustrated.

old days" occurred. But then again, it's much more fun to win ballgames. . . .

Fortunately, our fencing team need only point at its outstanding 6-1 record to recall pleasant memories of the completed campaign. Some fine new prospects were developed and returning lettermen exhibited great form in the duelists' best season. It is said that fencing isn't a spectator sport, but the tensest of all 1952 sport moments occurred during the fencing match with St. Peter's College. Until Toporovsky broke the 13-13 tie, the crowd literally sat on pins and needles. When the final touch did come, "Tippy" was mobbed by his team-mates and frustrated Yeshiva fans finally had something to shout about.

Perhaps the best indication of the respective success of the squads, is a glance at plans for next season. The fencers will enter the Amateur Fencing League of America matches next September and have tentatively scheduled contests with City College and N. Y. U. The hoopsters, on the other hand, will drop many of their powerful foes and encounter several lesser teams. The Fencers lose only Captain Nisson Schulman via graduation. The Mites lose two tall men, Krieger and Davidman. Coach Tauber has the reserve strength to produce an even stronger squad. Sarachek still has his problem . . . Tennis anyone?
