T. A. Vs. T. A. In the Garden For H. S. Title

Talmudical Academy of Manhattan will oppose Talmudical Academy of Brooklyn in Madison Square Garden, tonight, Wednesday March 25, in a game which will determine the championship of Division "A" of the Jewish High School League. The contest will serve as a preliminary to the New York Knickerbockers-Boston Celtics playoffs.

Manhattan, coached by professor Hy Wettstein of the College Physical Education Department, has already compiled a 19-2 record during this season. The Wettsteinmen are currently seeking their thirteenth consecutive victory of the season, and their third straight league championship. Since becoming coach of the Washington Heights school, Wettstein has guided his charges to an overall record of 102 victories and 35 defeats.

Brooklyn Talmudical, with a season's record of 14-5, has split the two games already played with their rivals. Under the tutelage of Hal Jetter, the Brooklynites have held the top rung of the league during most of the season until their defeat last week by T.A. of Manhattan.

The site of the game came as a result of the efforts of Gene Roswell, New York Post sports writer, and Coach Wettstein of the Manhattan squad. Ticket sales have been under the direction of Bernie Sarachek, coach of the Yeshiva basketball team and Chairman of the board of the High School League. The league is sponsored by the Yeshiva University Athletic Association.

Schulman Reveals $1750 Collected In Charity Drive

As of Monday, March 16, a total of $1,750 has been collected for the Yeshiva University Drive for Charities, announced Morton Schulman '55, chairman. This figure includes the following contributions: R.I.E.T.S., $834.09; Teachers Institute, $340.14; Talmudical Academy, Brooklyn Branch, $246.89; and Central High School for Girls, $205.68.

Mr. Schulman pointed out that Rabbi Tendler's freshman Yeshiva class has the highest per capita average, and the six lowest contributors were all T.I. classes.

S. D. A. Chartered By Student Council

Students for Democratic Action, the first political organization formed at Yeshiva College, was granted a charter by Student Council at a meeting held Wednesday, March 18. Though S.D.A. recognition was the subject of much controversy previous to the meeting, Student Council approval was achieved by virtue of a clear cut 7-1 decision.

The group was organized at a gathering of twenty-five students in the Dorm Social Hall, Thursday, March 11. After hearing from Mr. Sander Levine, National Chairman of Students for Democratic Action, the assembly voted to join the national movement, a student affiliate of Americans for Democratic Action. The latter organization includes among its members, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Senator Herbert Lehman. The organization has been attacked by Senator Joseph McCarthy, of Wisconsin and right-wing and isolationist elements.

Schachter is Chairman

Oscar Schachter '54, who presided at the meeting, outlined the purposes of the S.D.A. He termed it "an organization devoted to educating the student and public on topics of national interest and to take subsequent united action on these issues. The club will be dedicated to the advancement of civil rights and the raising of the economic standard of the under-privileged through democratic processes." As an example, Mr. Schachter cited the McCarran Act, "the opposition to which might be a group project."

In an election of officers that followed, Mr. Schachter was elected chairman, Arnold Enker '55, vice-chairman, and Fred Horowitz '55, secretary-treasurer.

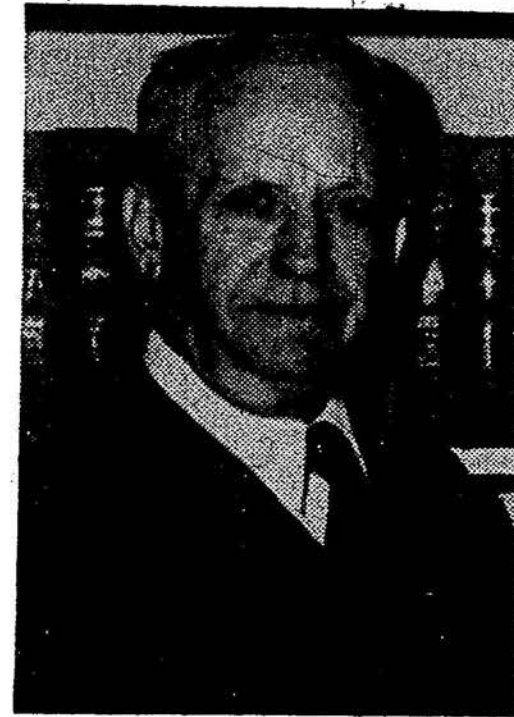

Rabbi Emanuel Rackman, Instructor in Political Science, will serve as faculty advisor of the organization. Plans for the next meeting of the group, to be held after Passover, call for a panel discussion on academic freedom.

Vice-chairman Arnold Enker revealed that nineteen students have already enrolled in the group. He expressed the hope that more will follow the example of "those who have not succumbed to 'the climate of fear' which is prevalent on the American scene today."

Steinmetz Gains Contest 'Mention'

Sol Steinmetz '53, former Feature Editor of THE COMMENTATOR, was awarded an honorable mention in the National Council of Jewish Women's nation-wide essay contest for college seniors on "The Meaning of Academic Freedom."

Students in approximately 200 colleges submitted essays to the contest, according to Mrs. Irving M. Engel, President, National Council of Jewish Women. The winning essays were chosen by a board of judges headed by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, and which included Dr. Ralph Bunche, winner of the 1950 Nobel Peace Prize.

The Late Samuel Levy

Samuel Levy Is Dead at 77

Samuel Levy, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Yeshiva University and former Borough President of Manhattan, died Sunday, March 15. At the funeral service held on March 17, Rosh Chodesh Nissan, at the Bnai Jeshurun Synagogue, no eulogy was delivered. Instead, a birthday tribute was delivered by Rabbi Joseph Lookstein, since March 17 would have been Mr. Levy's seventy-seventh birthday.

Mr. Levy was instrumental in raising funds for the establishment of Yeshiva College in 1928 and served as chairman of the College Council. In 1945 when Yeshiva achieved its University status he was elected Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

A prominent attorney, real estate investor and philanthropist, Mr. Levy was active in civic, religious, and charitable projects. As a member of the New York City Board of Education, he was instrumental in changing city school regulations to allow Jewish students to observe the Jewish Holidays, and the introduction of the study of the Hebrew Language in the public high schools.

City College, Polytech Top Yeshiva Debaters

The City College of New York and Brooklyn Polytechnic defeated the Yeshiva Debating Team, Monday, March 9, and Tuesday, March 17, respectively. City downed a Yeshiva squad consisting of Eli Lauer '54 and Fischel Perlmutter, '55. Mr. Perlmutter and Neil Hecht '54 represented Yeshiva at B.P.I.

We Mourn

The recent death of Samuel Levy, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, is indeed a great loss to Yeshiva. Mr. Levy's untiring efforts on behalf of the institution saw the realization of a dream to establish the first Jewish university in the Western Hemisphere. His efforts on behalf of the entire Jewish community of New York will be remembered for many years to come.

THE COMMENTATOR joins the administration, the faculty and the entire student body in mourning the loss of a loyal Jew and a fine American.

Unofficial Statistics

An interesting bit of statistics is readily available in the college office. A careful study of the schedule of courses will reveal that there are approximately eighteen courses now meeting twice weekly and receiving three credits.

We are sure that all the courses which have reverted back to the old system (including four which were never rescheduled, among which are English 4, section 1, and English 4, section 5), have received special dispensations. We are certain that all the instructors involved presented valid claims in arguing their cases.

But there are two items which seems to strike us as odd and puzzling contradictions.

Item No. 1: A new instructor, taken up at the beginning of the current semester as a replacement for another instructor who could not comply with the edict of the Dean, has been meeting twice a week since the first month of the term in a three-credit course.

Item No. 2: Another instructor, also taken up at the beginning of the term after the ordinance of no twice weekly meetings for three-credit courses had been issued by the Dean, is now engaged in teaching such a course twice a week.

We are sure that Drs. Aaronson and Prijs can explain their revised schedule. We are likewise certain that the students in Psychology 35 and German 8 had good cause for asking for the present arrangements. We are inclined to believe, however, that one person may not be able to explain the entire sequence of facts as properly as they can. Certainly Dr. Isaacs cannot claim consistency in an ouster of an instructor who could teach courses but twice a week, only to allow two new men on the faculty (one of them his very replacement) to take on courses of similar credit value under that arrangement.

Another Milestone

Naming Yeshiva's medical school for Dr. Albert Einstein is an important and significant step in the history of Yeshiva and the American Jewish Community. The projected college of medicine is no longer the dream of a few individuals, but is an active project in which the entire community must share.

Dr. Albert Einstein is not only a scientist and a scholar. He represents the embodiment of a man of science. He has left his imprint on world history. Yeshiva's medical school must be imbued with the spirit which this man represents in the world of scientific endeavor.

Here again, we see the burden of leadership which falls to Yeshiva. We are expanding in the realm of the spirit and in the sciences. We can no longer contain ourselves, and rest content with "doing our share." Yeshiva must never forget that ours is a great responsibility in shaping the fate of American Jewry.

Yeshiva is living up to its commission in taking the latest step toward the actual establishment of the medical school. In doing so, let us hope that the leadership in Jewish spiritual life which is its primary task, is not neglected.

Medical School Planned by Y. U. Named for Dr. Albert Einstein

"A cornerstone of our faith is the belief that the truest way to serve God is by serving man. Yeshiva University's Medical College was conceived in this spirit, rooted in the noblest tenets of our faith and the finest traditions of our democratic heritage.

"We are assembled here to give this college a name that will embody these ideals and serve as an inspiration to those dedicating their lives to the pursuit of knowledge and the welfare of mankind. The name we have chosen embodies these ideals. It belongs to a man who for generations to come will be remembered and revered as a great scientist, a great scholar, a great humanitarian."

Dr. Samuel Belkin, President of Yeshiva, said these words at a luncheon for Dr. Albert Einstein at Princeton Inn, Sunday, March 15, where he notified the world-famous scientist of the decision to name America's first medical school under Jewish auspices The Albert Einstein College of Medicine.

"To my mind," said professor Einstein, "this undertaking is of the greatest importance to American Jewry; it is an act of self-help to make it possible for some of our young people in this country to study medicine. Yeshiva University's medical school will be unique in that, while it will bear the imprint of a Jewish university devoted to arts and sciences, and will represent a collective effort of our people to make its contribution in the field of medical science, it will welcome students of all races and creeds," Dr. Einstein said.

One hundred community leaders from twenty different cities in the United States and Canada were present to pay tribute to Dr. Einstein upon his 74th birthday observance.

The model was presented by New York State Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein, National Chairman of the $25,000,000 Medical School Campaign. Attorney General Goldstein announced that prior to the ceremonies, a little over $3,000,000 in cash and pledges had been raised, and that an additional $520,000 was raised at the birthday celebration for Dr. Einstein.

Recipients of Jewish Agency Scholarship Discuss Two-Fold Aim of Israeli Seminar

By Samuel Silverstein
and Michael Rosenak

"The Jewish Agency, the teachers it supplied us with, and the friendly people of Israel did everything to instill in us a love for the land of Israel," stated three of nine former Teachers Institute students who have recently returned from the Holy Land. These students, Stanley Wagner '53, Yehuda Berenson '53 and Benjamin Seruya '53 were part of a twenty-five member group which received Jewish Agency scholarships for a six-month seminar held on the premises of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. The scholarship covered all normal living expenses in Israel, including tuition, from August to January. Other schools represented in the group were: the Teachers Institute of the Jewish Theological Seminary, Herzliah, and Boston's Hebrew Teachers College.

In explaining to us the purpose of the seminar, they explained that the aim was two-fold: firstly, to round out the students' training as Jewish educators by making Jewish learning "live" in its original setting, and secondly, to acquaint them with the culture and problems of the Yishuv.

Historical Settings

The first object was accomplished by the study of the geographic settings and the historical background of the Bible, coupled with extensive trips to the places studied about. In addition, the scientific study of the Talmud and a comparative survey of early Biblical commentaries were taken up. These were supplemented by courses in Biblical archeology, and in the modern development of the Hebrew language.

A knowledge of the state of affairs in Israel was conveyed to them by interviews with leading public figures, including Prime Minister David Ben Gurion, President Ben-Zvi, and Chief Rabbis Herzog and Ben Uziel; lectures by authorities in economics, sociology, and religion, and courses dealing with various phases of contemporary Israeli life.

Group Was Active

The group, according to its spokesmen, was, despite the varying backgrounds of its members, a homogenous one. For instance, it was related, the group published its own periodical and participated in many extra-curricular activities together. It was a sort of amazement to the Israelis that a modern young group of Americans spoke Hebrew and observed traditional Jewish law.

Declaring that their trip to Israel had had a great effect on their outlook towards Jewish education and the Jewish state, the scholarship recipients said, "we have almost unanimously assented to return." They declared, that the most important aspect of life as it was shown to them in Israel was "the absence of a Galut-complex and the positive Jewish life being built there, reconstructed as it can be only in the Land of the Prophets."

FROM THE FILES

March, 1943: A vigorous protest was lodged against the United Nations' silence in the face of "the brutal 'obliteration of a whole people'" at a student assembly of Yeshiva. The assembly gave its unanimous approval to a strongly worded resolution urging the American Government to assume the lead in effecting the rescue of the European Jews now facing extinction. In addition, the resolution urged that the Palestinian immigration laws be annulled to allow the Jewish refugees from persecution a haven in the Jewish nation's home.

March, 1948: One of the largest audiences ever accorded any extra-curricular program was on hand to applaud the numerous stellar performances at the recent "class-nite." The frosh sought to render a mixture of poetry, piano selections and impersonations. The sophs opened fire with a barrage of comedians. The juniors proved to be the heroes of the evening by refreshing all the old impersonations and adding several new ones. The seniors presented an integrated program revolving about a farcical classroom scene.

March, 1944: "The Commentator" has passed the test of time and now enters its tenth year of publication. The first issue appeared March 1, 1935 under the editorship of Moses L. Feurstein. "The Commentator" has risen to a first class rating in annual collegiate competition, and has maintained this degree of excellence.

March, 1938: Dr. David Swick, University Medical Director, has announced that the Wasserman Syphilis tests, given by the Board of Health, is available to every undergraduate. Tests will be voluntary and results will be confidential. The tests are being sponsored by the Metropolitan News Association, of which "The Commentator" is a member.

Scribe Discusses Student Attitudes, Hershko's Last Game

By Seymour Essrog

The basketball and fencing seasons are now just pleasant memories of the past. Pleasant in the sense that both squads enjoyed good seasons as far as won and lost records go. But this success cannot truthfully be shared by the entire student body. Our teams still do not receive the backing and moral support of every student in the college.

Perhaps in reading the daily newspapers you might have read the news regarding football at New York University. Since the team was a financial liability as far as N.Y.U. was concerned, the board of trustees decided to drop the sport rather than continuously run an annual deficit. Part of the deficit was due to lack of student support. As one of N.Y.U.'s grid stars expressed it, "If the students refuse to support a team by their attendance at games why should the administration?" We find the same situation at Adelphi College. The school wanted to drop football since it drained valuable money that otherwise might be put to good use in the college. The entire student body was given an ultimatum to raise $10,000 by a certain date or else the sport would be dropped. The entire student body responded wholeheartedly and together with their alumni raised the money necessary to sustain their gridiron team for another season.

Here at Yeshiva we do not have a football team. Our big sports are basketball and fencing. We do not strive to make profits with our teams through post-season tournaments, or games in the Garden. We do not hand out any athletic scholarships to entice ball-players to come to our school. All the members of the individual varsities are expected to study and attain the same grades as any of the other students. No athlete receives any special dispensations. Still, we manage to field a team on the basketball court and the fencing strip when the whistle blows at the start of every season. In recent years, with losing records and a smaller student body, attendance at basketball games was much better than this season. This year, the team finished their campaign with a 10-10 record and with a little more luck could have done better. However, attendance at games continually fell off. When the team won, the average student greeted the fact with a complacent attitude and a cynical remark. This attitude has not only affected Yeshiva sports. All of the extra-curricular activities are presently suffering from this germ of apathy and disregard.

This condition should not be allowed to continue. It is up to student leaders and S.A.C. to see that attendance is raised in intramurals. Clubs, societies and other school activities must continue and not die a slow death of inactivity and student disinterest. If this apathy continues, I foresee the suspension of many of the major activities of our extracurricular and athletic program. It happened at N.Y.U.; it can happen at Yeshiva.

Marvin Herskowitz, captain of this year's varsity basketball team, has just completed his playing career. As many of you no doubt know, Marvin has rewritten almost all the scoring records at Yeshiva. In four years he became the first hoopster to score 1,000 points for Yeshiva, as he scored 1,095 points. Perhaps the words of Coach Bernie Sarachek can best express the sentiments held by all of us towards Marvin.

In his last locker room talk of the season, Sarachek said, "It is very seldom that I ever express my feeling towards any ballplayer, college or professional. But tonight I am going to make an exception. Marvin Herskowitz is the greatest ballplayer that I have ever coached at Yeshiva. Not only has Marvin brought fame to Yeshiva through his playing ability, but also by his gentlemanly manner as a student of this college. Perhaps many people do not appreciate what Marvin has done for Yeshiva, but in later years he is certain to be remembered. In my opinion Marvin could have made any college varsity in the country. Nevertheless, he chose Yeshiva since he wanted to get a Jewish education and has truly been a credit to Y.U."

"After the King's game in Wilkes Barre the referee came over to me and told me, 'That number twelve on your team (Herskowitz's number) is not only a great player but a gentleman. In all my years of officiating ball games I've never met such a ballplayer. It has been a pleasure to officiate this game.'" Concluding his remarks Coach Sarachek said, "I am proud to be a friend of Marvin Herskowitz."

Mites Gain 10th Win of Season

Playing the last game of the 1952-53 season, Yeshiva defeated their traditional rivals, Cathedral College, 46-36 in a game played Saturday, March 14, at the Needle Trades court. The victory enabled Bernie Sarachek's charges to conclude the season with a 10-10 record, their best since 1945.

The visitors, in an attempt to keep the score down kept control of the ball without taking a shot for 8 consecutive minutes during the first quarter. But the Mites, by virtue of foul shots by Abe Sodden and Marvin Herskowitz, led at the end of the first quarter 2-1.

When the game returned to normalcy at the start of the second period, the Heighters quickly rolled up a commanding 11-5 halftime lead. Leading by 13 points late in the contest, Coach Sarachek emptied his bench in an effort to give Neophytes Alex Steinkohler, Mickey Orlian, Fred

Heighters Nipped by Cooper Union In Final Second of Game, 58-56

March of Dimes Basketball night, sponsored by the Yeshiva University Athletic Association proved to be one of excitement and tenseness, as Yeshiva University fell before a fast-moving Cooper Union five in the final seconds of play 58-56, and the New Jersey Wheelers nipped the Brooklyn Whirlaways, 32-31, in the preliminary paraplegic contest, Saturday, March 7, at the Central High School of Needle Trades.

In the feature contest, the Mites, playing their fourth game in five days, played steady, consistent ball throughout the first half, with Marv Herskowitz, Eli Levine and Abe Sodden leading the Blue and White attack. Employing a tight zone defense, Yeshiva led at the close of the

Complete Season With 5-1 Record

Yeshiva University's Fencing Team completed their season by defeating Cooper Union 14-13, Sunday, March 15, in the Yeshiva gymnasium. The victory gave the Duelists a 5-1 record for the 1952-53 season.

The hero of Yeshiva's victory was Neophyte. Barnet Liberman, who, with the score tied at 13-13, defeated Cooper's Kreshin, 3-2, for the bout clinching victory.

Yeshiva's Sabermen sparked by Toporovsky and Rosenberg, showed the way by defeating Cooper Union, 6-3. The foilers, improving on their previous record, won five of the nine matches. The epeemen, however, suffered an off-night, and came out on the short end of a 6-3 score.

Cooper Union took an early 8-4 lead and for a while it appeared they would not be overtaken. However, the Blue and White hung on determinedly and narrowed the score to 10-11, by virtue of victories by foilmen Millen, Spear and Greenfield. Rosenberg and Toporovsky then followed with victories, but losses by Tokayer and Hecht left Yeshiva behind 13-12. Dave Mostofsky de-
