Dr. A. Freed Resigns Post After 20 Years of Service

Dr. Alexander Freed, medical director of Yeshiva University and professor of Hygiene, has submitted his resignation, effective October 10, terminating twenty years of service to the faculty, announced Dr. Simeon Guterman, dean of the College.

In his letter of resignation to Dr. Samuel Belkin, president of the University, dated September 29, Dr. Freed stated the reasons for his resignation. As the "immediate cause" for his decision he wrote, "On July 13, 1955 the Registrar of the College made a statement that I am an irresponsible and incompetent faculty member."

Lists Events

Listing several "pertinent events" in regard to acts of the administration that brought about his resignation, Dr. Freed stated, "Self-respect and personal dignity dictate that I sever my association with the University."

Dr. Bruno Kisch has been named Medical Director of the University. Dr. Eli Sar has been appointed Instructor in Hygiene and physician in the Yeshiva University Health Service. Dr. Kisch and Dr. Sar will alternate in giving medical attention two hours each day, five days a week.

Dr. Freed's first association with the institution was as a student in R.I.E.T.S. before studying medicine at St. Louis University. Last year, he received the senior plaque by acclamation.

Dr. Freed is a noted Hebrew scholar as well as a cancer specialist. His three-volume work on Hebrew two-letter roots and his dictionary of Hebrew homonyms are soon to be published.

Student Council Starts Clean-up

A committee to institute a clean-up campaign at Yeshiva has been appointed by Student Council, disclosed Joseph H. Chervin '58, chairman of the newly formed committee.

The student councils of all the undergraduate divisions of Yeshiva University have been asked to join the campaign to make the students and the faculties aware of the importance of cleanliness at Yeshiva.

Administrations Participate

Also participating in the campaign are the administrations of the various schools who are urging their instructors to keep classrooms clean. Mr. Louis Levine, chairman of the University Building Committee, has pledged his support to the campaign and will cooperate by adding receptacles and ashtrays wherever they are deemed necessary.

The committee urged all students to participate actively in the campaign.

Faculty Committee Issues Regulations To Stern Students

The Stern College Undergraduate Association (Student Council) has been issued a set of regulations by the Faculty Committee on Student Relations of Stern College. Mrs. Moses L. Isaacs, chairman of the committee and director of Student Activities at Yeshiva University's college for women distributed the rules to the student body, the week of September 12, 1955. The list of regulations includes provisions binding upon both the student body and Student Council.

Under the set of rules, students are limited to ten points of extra-curricular activities so that they may not engage in "excessive" activities.

Other Regulations

Minutes of all Student Council meetings must be submitted to the Director of Student Activities for approval before any decisions of the Council may be carried out. The regulations specify that Student Council checks for any one item over ten dollars must be approved by Mrs. Isaacs while Student Council finances may be audited by the Bursar.

Permission must be obtained before contracts of any kind involving clubs and organizations are signed by the Council; before invitations are issued to outside speakers and before news items or photographs are submitted to newspapers or other outside agencies.

The list of rules also requires that students holding office in the Undergraduate Association or in any club must maintain a 2.2 average.

Official Dedication Of Medical School Slated for Oct. 23

The Albert Einstein College of Medicine of Yeshiva University will be officially dedicated to the late Dr. Albert Einstein, Sunday, October 23, at the site of the new school, Morris Park Avenue and East Chester Road, announced Dr. Samuel Belkin, president of Yeshiva University.

Students to Attend

All students are urged by the administration to attend the event at 2 p.m. Dean Guterman said, "Officially, classes will be held, but buses will leave at 1 p.m. to take students to the ceremonies."

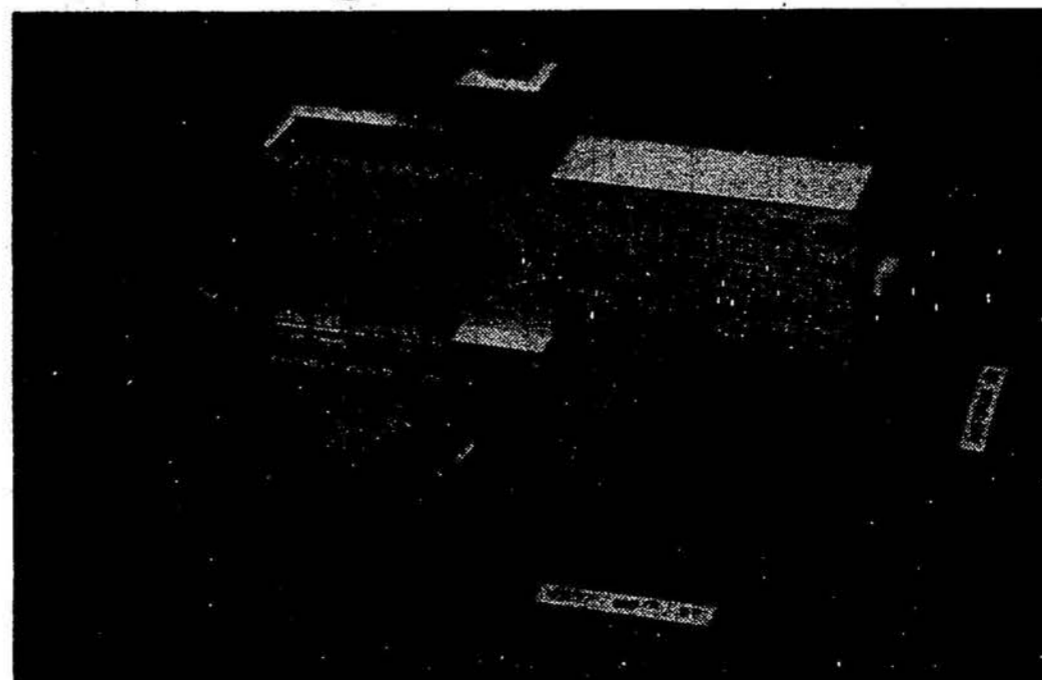

Those participating in the ceremonies will include Hans Albert Einstein, son of the late Dr. Albert Einstein, Dr. Samuel Belkin, president of Yeshiva University, Averell Harriman, governor of the State of New York, Nathaniel L. Goldstein and Jacob Javits, former and present attorney-generals of the State of New York, respectively.

Robert F. Wagner, mayor of the City of New York, Dr. Marcus Kogel, dean of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, and Max J. Etra, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Yeshiva University, will also participate.

New Scholarship

The proceeds of the Jack Hartblay testimonial dinner to be given Sunday evening, October 30, at the Hotel Sheraton-Astor, will be used to establish a Science and Scholarship Fund at Yeshiva University. Mr. Hartblay, who has been active in many philanthropic, religious, educational, health and welfare institutions, will be honored by more than 300 leaders from all sections of the merchandising industry.

Ground-Breaking Ceremonies This Month

Yeshiva University's new million-dollar dormitory paradise (above) will be ready for occupancy in September, 1956, as planned, with the ground-breaking ceremonies to take place within the month. With typical rooms to house two students, the dorm will accommodate 300 students. In addition, the building will contain an outdoor terrace (lower left), a lounge with study hall, two faculty suites, a dining room, an infirmary and a superintendent's apartment.

Dr. Guterman Defines College Grading Policy

There is no quantitative grading policy at Yeshiva College, disclosed Dr. Simeon Guterman, dean of the College. The Dean made the statement after Morris Silverman, registrar, had informed THE COMMENTATOR that a quantitative policy was in effect.

According to the policy explained by the Registrar, September 21, an instructor is to maintain no higher than a C+ — B- (2.89) average in elementary courses and a B — B+ (3.39) average in advanced courses. If the class average does not conform to the policy, the instructor may be questioned by the College Office and asked to explain why his subject or his class is unusual, Professor Silverman said.

No Comment

Professor Morris Silverman, registrar of Yeshiva College, has refused to comment on the Letter to the Editor which appeared in the first issue of THE COMMENTATOR, September 22. The letter, submitted by Dr. Alexander Freed, quoted the Registrar as having made two statements in regard to College policy.

S. A. C. Initiates Coupling of Clubs To Help Students

A system of coupling clubs that draw students with the same interests has been adopted by the Student Activities Committee, revealed Seymour Steinmetz '56, chairman of S.A.C. These clubs will meet on alternate weeks giving students the opportunity of joining more than one club.

Mr. Steinmetz has set up a committee in charge of clubs to be headed by Allan Scher '57, and a committee for publicity chaired by Frank Hellner '56. Joe Singer '58, was named head of the committee in charge of assemblies. Shimmy Kwestel '58, was appointed secretary of S.A.C.

Bulletin Boards

This term new bulletin boards will be placed at each stairwell, thereby eliminating the

Policy Revoked

The following day, September 22, Dean Guterman revealed that the quantitative policy explained by the Registrar had been revoked in June, 1953.

Last week the Dean again discussed the official policy of the College. "We would like instructors to be aware of the best grading practices," the Dean said. "We expect instructors to know how to grade. We would like to see a proper grade distribution for the school as a whole."

Emphasizing that the official policy is very general, the Dean continued, "We do not say to the instructor that he must give so many A's, so many B's, etc. Each instructor ought to be critical and grade carefully."

Debaters Renew Rivalry at Point

Debating rivalry between West Point and Yeshiva will be renewed this year, announced Joseph Kaplan '56, president of the Debate Society. Two debates have been tentatively scheduled for November 15 at West Point, on the national topic, "Resolved: that the Non-Agricultural Industries Should Guarantee Their Employees An Annual Wage."

Mr. Kaplan, who is also president of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Debate Council, announced that last year Yeshiva's team came in second in the Northern Division of the M.I.D.C. League.

Opponents Announced

Yeshiva will debate the following metropolitan schools this year: Barnard, City College, College of Mount St. Vincent's, Columbia University, Fordham College of Arts and Sciences and New York University, University College.

New members of the pre-varsity were inducted at a recent meeting of the pre-varsity, announced Joseph Singer '58, president of the Society. Pre-varsity intramurals will begin next week.

Tower of Babble

Although the term is less than six weeks old, we have already encountered a pattern of confusion in the College Office. This confusion stems from certain unpredictable College policies. The following situations will illustrate:

The number of German O1 sections has been reduced from two to one this semester. Dr. Guterman said that this was done to cultivate an interest in French. It is the policy of the College, he said, that students who have had high school French should continue the language in college. Yet five students who had taken French in high school are now taking German.

To compound the confusion, a memorandum three weeks after classes had begun reported that foreign language requirements could be met by taking elementary courses in Arabic and Syriac in the graduate division. (See Exhibit A.)

MEMORANDUM FOR: ALL STUDENTS

DATE: SEPTEMBER 20, 1955

FROM: COLLEGE OFFICE

We wish to remind College Juniors and Seniors that they may still change their programs if they wish to register for Elementary Arabic and Syriac in our Graduate Division. These languages may be taken to satisfy the College foreign language requirement.

OK Morris Silverman

EXHIBIT A: Shown above is a notice reporting that students may take Arabic and Syriac to satisfy their foreign language requirement. It is dated September 20 and appeared on the College bulletin board September 23.

A week later this was declared an error by the College Office. (See Exhibit B.) Fortunately, no one had registered for the course.

In reply to your inquiry, I am pleased to confirm that the notice of September 20 about Arabic and Syriac was in error. Those languages may not be taken to satisfy the College's foreign language requirement.

RE/AB

EXHIBIT B: The above notice, dated September 27, declares that The previous notice (Exhibit A) is an error.

The College Registrar September 21 stated the official grading policy to THE COMMENTATOR. He said that the instructor should maintain a C+ — B— average in his classes or be liable to be questioned by the Office. (See Exhibit C.) The following day Dean Guterman informed THE COMMENTATOR that this policy was revoked in June, 1953. Why didn't he inform the Registrar?

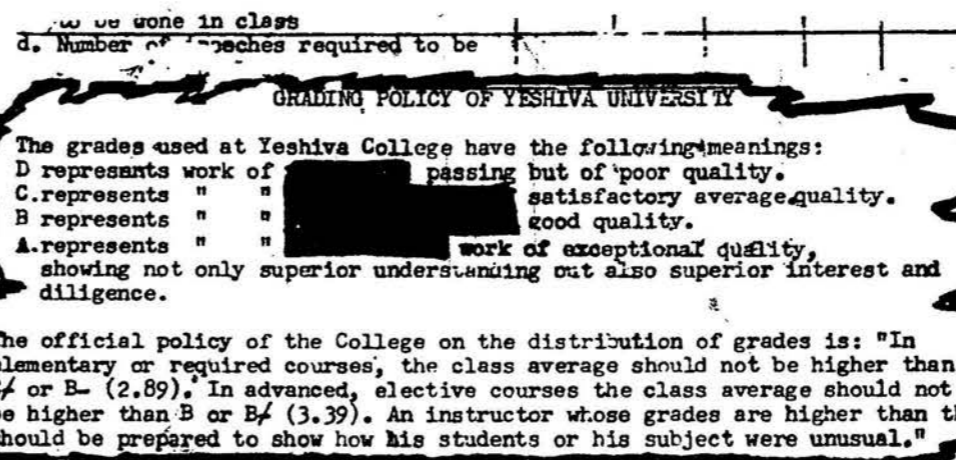

EXHIBIT C: Pictured above is part of a mimeographed sheet given to THE COMMENTATOR by the College Registrar, September 21. It states that under the grading policy of the College the class average should not exceed 2.89 in an elementary course or 3.39 in an advanced course. The blackout sections indicate that the numerical definitions of the letter grades (A = 90-100, B = 80-89, etc.) are no longer in effect.

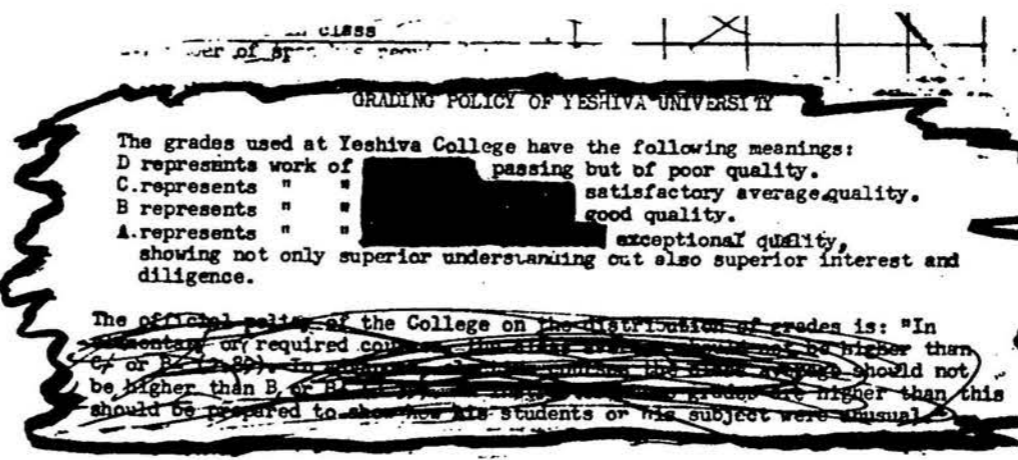

EXHIBIT D: Shown above is part of another copy of the same mimeographed sheet pictured in Exhibit C. It was given to THE COMMENTATOR by the Dean, September 22. The Dean drew several lines through the bottom paragraph, indicating that the policy is no longer in effect. It was revoked in June, 1953, he said.

The above illustrations indicate a general confusion in the College Office and only serves to arouse the student's wonder. We are led to believe that the policy is not confused; rather, confusion is the policy.

The Grade

Little Grade, who made thee?
 Dost thou know who made thee?
 Gave thee form, and cast thy mold,
 From which awesome truths unfold;
 Gave thee spark and fanned thy flame,
 Beneath the altar of fame;
 Gave the power to thy hand,
 Mighty power, force, command?
 Little Grade, who made thee?

Dost thou know who made thee?
 Little Grade, I'll tell thee.
 Little Grade, I'll tell thee:
 He feared to have a name.
 For he would shrink and hesitate;
 Through thee did he compensate.
 To frighten wast thou made.
 Thou wast made, and I afraid,
 We are awed by thy name.
 Little Grade, we fear thee!
 Little Grade, we fear thee!

Co-ed Era Started By Chem Students; Staunch Men Help

By Joshua Miller

At 4:15 on the afternoon of Thursday, September 29, two cars roared out of the Yeshiva University campus parking lot, again exposing the BUS STOP sign. In the two cars sat some members of the Chemistry 13-a course, grim determination written all over their naive and puzzled faces.

Staunch fellows, these, pioneers, starting a new era, reaching a new plateau in Yeshiva's constant attempt at progress into the future by keeping up with the standards of the past. At five minutes past five, these bewildered budding scientists were to enter an area formerly declared to be off limits and out of bounds.

Carrying Supplies

They were carrying vitally needed supplies grudgingly given to them by Quartermaster Sergeant Frisch, who had descended into the dimly lit corridors of the warehouse, to drawers and shelves which only he could find, to procure these supplies. Staunch fellow.

Among these vitally needed supplies were 750 ml beakers, 500 ml beakers, 205 ml beakers, 100 ml beakers, 50 ml beakers, 20 ml beakers, and extra large shnops glasses.

Reach Destination

At three minutes past five they joined a group nervously milling about the entrance to the area formerly declared to be "intellectually undesirable." Five o'clock was to be the official time of evacuation by the area's former occupants, but in order to keep maximum security, five minutes more were allowed, to keep maximum security.

And so at five minutes past five, with their blinders firmly in place, the expedition marched through the entrance to the area formerly declared to be off limits, through a vestibule, and were conducted by a plump little man wearing a Captain's cap through a sliding steel gate into a tiny room.

A voice broke the tense silence. "Joe, what have you done to us? This is hardly larger than the quant lab."

"Shut up you fool, this is the elevator."

"The what?"

The little man smiled grimly, a staunch little man.

Campus Caper

From a State Teachers college in Texas comes word of a Mrs. X who received an A in Psych last term without taking the final. It seems the professor decided that she had produced more than any other student in the class—Mrs. X gave birth to a baby girl on final examination day.

"Dear Dad..."
A Freshman
Writes Home

By Julie Landwirth

Dear Dad,

The semester is a few weeks old now and I've had a chance to get acquainted with Yeshiva. I imagine that the folks back home are interested, especially Joey, who's always so boastful about the college he attends, so I'll try and give you a clear picture.

What strikes me as the most outstanding thing about Yeshiva is the way they try to give you so many things at once. T. I. or Yeshiva in the mornings, college in the afternoons and physical education at night. Whatever time is left is yours. I guess that's what makes the school unique.

I don't know too much about other colleges except for what Joey tells me about the college he attends, but there are a few things in which I'm a little disappointed. I don't mean about the studies or the professors, for the most part they're all right. It's just that you know how I feel about sports. You've told me yourself, Dad, how important it is to be active in physical recreations. Before I left for college you repeatedly mentioned that I should be sure to participate in sports, not only to keep fit but to gain the idea of clean sportsmanship.

When Joey told me about the gym he plays ball in, how it's big and airy and well lit with shiny wooden floors and clean showers, I could hardly wait to get here and see Yeshiva's gym.

Well, it looks like Joey's school is extraordinary in that respect because it isn't quite like that here. I'm sorry to tell you this, Dad, but I haven't signed up for any sports yet. Not because I haven't got time—I manage to get all my work done all right—because I was in the gym once and I just don't like going down there. It's not at all the inviting place I imagined it would be. You've got to walk down a dark hallway to get there and there's always some kind of odor in that basement. There's a small room down there where some fellows work out with weights. Honestly, I can't see how they do it. The place has more dust and less air than our coal bin back home. Frankly, Dad, I'd rather get my exercise by walking around the block a few times.

But the funny part of it all is that nobody seems to care. They tell me it's been that way for a long time without a change. Everybody walks around with either an indifferent or hopeless attitude about the whole thing.

Maybe I'm underrating the place, because I can't see how nothing would have been done, if the facilities were really inadequate. Besides, it's all Joey's fault that I've been so let down about this. I should have known better than to take his remarkable school as a standard.

Please write soon.

Your loving son,

Spirited Frosh Down Juniors 39-34
In First Intramural Basketball Clash

It looks like we're in for another slam-bang basketball intramural race. The first clash in the race was an exciting freshman-junior contest.

Showing a sparkling, well balanced offensive attack, the freshmen upset the heavily favored juniors 39-34. The thrilling contest, which featured a tie score with but three minutes to go, was played Tuesday, October 11, in the Y.U. gymnasium.

The high-flying freshmen displayed a great deal of spirit both off and on the court. Led by Shulberg and Goldsmith, who scored 14 and 11 points respectively, the freshmen took a quick lead in the first half. Field goals by Irv Aronson and Herb Charney brought new life to the Juniors late in the fourth quarter and with three minutes left, the juniors had tied the score.

At this point the freshmen bounced back with four timely foul shots by Sorscher to put the crusher on the rallying juniors.

Y'All Come

An extensive campaign, sparked by school Athletic Manager Sheldon Chwat, will soon be begun by the Y.U.A.A. in a drive for capacity attendance at Yeshiva's opening basketball game with Bridgeport, December 3, at Central Needle Trades. The entire proceeds will go toward the establishment of a Palefski Memorial Fund, to support the Norman Palefski Achievement Award.

Sarachek Stresses More Participation in Y.U.A.A.

By Artie Eldelman

The Athletic Office of Yeshiva University, headquarters for the Yeshiva University Athletic Association, is a beehive of activity. Heading and organizing all the activity is a fellow known to all as "Red" Sarachek.

Sitting in his office, one feels completely engulfed in the whirlwind of messages and preparations related to all aspects of Y.U. sports life. In the short time of fifteen minutes preceding the interview, a practice court for the Y.U. soccer team was obtained at Inwood Park, arrangements and preparations for a meeting of the representatives of the members of the Jewish High School League were made, medical examinations for all varsity members were arranged and the necessary details for the start of practice on November 1 were completed.

Interest Important

Acknowledging the fact that Yeshiva is without the aid of a large athletic scholarship program and thus will never be able to enter "big time" college competition, Mr. Sarachek nevertheless stressed the importance of full participation and interest in the activities of the Y.U.A.A.

The Association, which he heads with the aid of Marvin Hershkowitz, is, in his own words, "the focal point of all athletics in Yeshiva University." "Its job," the Athletic Director claims, "is to develop and publicize all of the intercollegiate activities, while still representing traditional Judaism." Coach Sarachek emphasized that the result of this is "that rabbis and teachers with athletic and recreational ability and background are being sent to serve Orthodox Jewry in civic and youth centers all over the country."

Plans Announced

Plans for the forthcoming year, as unfolded by "Red," include continuing the sponsorship of the Jewish High School Basketball League, establishing "Yeshiva Clubs" for graduating varsity members and forming a varsity wrestling team. The grapplers have already scheduled three matches.

Highlighting the Association efforts this year will be the televised (channel 7) clash of the varsity hoopsters game with St. Francis. The game will be played December 19, at a Brooklyn armory, St. Francis' home court. Looking forward to this tussle with a highly rated college five, coach Sarachek "hesitantly" declares victory for Yeshiva.

Foresees Improvement

Looking forward to the rest of the schedule, our basketball mentor foresees a slight improvement over last year's 13-8 record. "Any improvement," "Red" says, "should be attributed to "Red" Blumemreich," whom he rates the "best player in the city."

Mr. Sarachek concluded that although it is improbable that Yeshiva's name will ever be splashed across the headlines of the sports sections, the Association's efforts are not in vain. For, he continues, it is through the Y.U.A.A. in general and the basketball team in particular that we are turning out individuals "who are carrying the ball for true Orthodox Jewry."

Hartstein Recalls Pioneer Spirit Of Former Yeshiva Hoopsters

By Moses Berlin

Editor's note: This is the first of a series of articles in which Yeshiva athletic figures of the past will express their views on the progress of Yeshiva sports.

In looking for an outstanding individual with whom to begin this series of interviews, we attempted to find one who had been in closest contact with the progress of Y.U. athletics.

It wasn't necessary to venture very far from the immediate area of the College to find an ideal subject. In a flash, we went across the street to Graduate Hall, and entered the Public Relations offices. There, in a unique room decorated with innumerable photographs serving as wall paper, Yeshiva's director of publicity, Mr. Sam Hartstein, is to be found.

Mr. Hartstein, a 1943 graduate of the College, played varsity basketball from 1939 through 1943, and captained the team in his last year. When asked what he thought was the biggest improvement since his day, his quick reply was the Athletic Association.

The high spirited students ran athletics in their spare time, and, as was often the case, some boys on the team skipped lunches, in order to have carfare for a road trip. Hy Wettstein was coach of the College team during the war years, but Uncle Sam needed athletic coaches in Europe, and Mr. Wettstein obligingly offered his services. Without funds, or a gym to practice in, Mr. Hartstein as captain of a now coachless team brought "Red" Sarachek to Yeshiva, and soon thereafter, an Athletic Association was formed.

Little "Big Man"

"With Red as coach, we held practices five times a week, in the College gym. That year, Stan Doppelt was our big man (5'10") and we compiled a pretty good record," Mr. Hartstein recalls. That year, 1942, Yeshiva played Long Island University when it boasted a 43 game winning streak; their big man was Dolly King (6'4").

In evaluating Yeshiva's recent basketball squads, Mr. Hartstein stressed the role "Red" Sarachek plays. "Every team has a heart and spirit—at Yeshiva the coach is that heart and spirit. In coaching at Yeshiva, our subject commented, "Red" has not formed great basketball stars but has developed leaders and men, by developing sportsmanlike character."

Dates Announced For Grad Schools Admission Exams

By Abraham Shapiro

The Graduate Record Examination, required of applicants for admission to a number of graduate schools, and the Law School Admission Test will be administered at examination centers throughout the country four times during the coming year, announced the Educational Testing Service.

Candidates may take the Graduate Record Examination November 14, January 21, April 25 or July 7. E.T.S. advises each applicant to inquire of the graduate school of his choice which of the examinations he should take and on which date. Applicants for graduate school fellowships should ordinarily take the designated examinations in the fall semester.

Examination Described

The Graduate Record Examination offered in these nationwide programs includes a test of general scholastic ability and advanced level tests of achievement in sixteen different subject fields.

According to E.T.S. candidates are permitted to take the aptitude test and/or one of the advanced tests.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which provides details of registration and administration as well as sample questions, may be obtained from College advisors or directly from Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J. A completed application must reach the E.T.S. office at least 15 days before the date of the examination for which the candidate is applying.

Law Admission Test

The Law Admission Test will be given on the mornings of Nov. 12, Feb. 18, April 21 and Aug. 11. A candidate must make separate application for admission to each law school of his choice and should inquire of each whether it wishes him to take the Admission Test, and when. Candidates for admission to next year's classes are advised ordinarily to take either the November or the February test.

Dorm Council Holds Elections; New Eligibility Rules Declared

Elections to the Dormitory Council will take place Monday, October 24, at 8:30 p.m. in room 425 in the College, said Albert Tuchman '56, chairman of last term's Council.

New Class Council Plans Two Theater Gatherings Soon

A stag party planned for the end of October and two theater parties scheduled for December and February were planned for the Junior Class by the newly elected Junior Council at meetings held Wednesday, September 28, and Monday, November 3.

The six members of the Council, who were elected by the Junior Class, Thursday, September 22, are Ronald Rothman, Reuben Rudman, Joseph Silverstein, Mike Kramer, Norman Sinowitz and Joshua Miller. The meetings of the Council are also attended by Josef E. Fischer, Louis Wohl and Herbert Charney, president, vice president, and representative-at-large of the Junior Class, respectively.

Mr. Tuchman, who succeeded Jack Heller '56, as chairman, at the end of the spring term, disclosed that the chairman, vice chairman and secretary of the Council will be elected simultaneously from the dormitory at large. The students will vote according to floor, each floor being entitled to four representatives.

Candidates for the Council need 25 signatures from their respective floors to qualify, while candidates for the executive positions must have 70 signatures which may come from the dormitory at large. Only students having lived in the dormitories at least two years may run for the executive posts. Petitions should be given to Mr. Tuchman in dorm room 407 not later than 4 p.m. Thursday, October 20.

posting of notices all over the building. There will be an additional bulletin board on the fourth floor.

Mr. Steinmetz stated that no two clubs will meet two weeks in succession and that the maximum number of speakers who will appear at Yeshiva in any one week will be three. Riets Hall, Lamport Auditorium and the Dorm Social Hall will have to be reserved in advance, through S.A.C., for use by a club.

"The purpose of these improvements," said Mr. Steinmetz, "it to make student activities more inviting and efficient so that everyone can take advantage of all the various club programs without worry of conflicts." Everyone is urged to consult bulletin boards and THE COMMENTATOR for notices pertaining to student activities.

Soph Council

Plans for a sophomore stag and theater and ice-skating parties were drawn up at the first meeting of the newly elected Sophomore Council, Monday, September 26.

The members of the Council are: Monis Dachman, Joel Kaplan, William Klein and Joseph Singer.

Senior Advisors Guide Freshmen

A group of twenty-five seniors, comprising the Senior Advisory Committee, will help in guiding freshmen during their first year in college, announced Herbert Gross '56, chairman of the Committee. Each senior is assigned to five freshmen, who have the same major as he. The names of the seniors and their assigned groups will be posted on the bulletin board soon.
