

The unOfficial Newspaper of Stern College for Women * Yeshiva University

PURIM 1995; March 14, 1995

Volume XXXVIII NUMBER6

12 Adar 11, 5755

DORM BUILDING FOUND ON SECOND SECOND FLOOR: Ignatz Awarded T-Shirt

By Buya Building

SCW cafeteria employee Ignatz found a dorm building for the Search Committee last week and was awarded a T-shirt for his help

"Oh yeah. Mashed potatoes. lz good!" exclaimed Ignatz when asked his reaction to the discovery and reward

The dorm building, which was discovered in the school building's 2nd 2nd floor, was found by Ignatz by accident when he was sent to get more styrofoam containers. His discovery led to the end of years of searching for a new dormitory.

Head of the Search Committee, Dean of Students Efrem

Nulman stated, "I don't know how he found it, but we're just lucky he did!

Assistant Dean of Students and Everything Else Service Zelda Braun/Brown/Whatever said, 'That's WONDERFUL!"

After the discovery was made, the Committee decided an appropriate gift of reward to Ignatz would be one of the returned faculty Chanukah T-shirts. Ignatz is presently serving proudly in his new T-shirt. "Oh yeah," he exclaimed

Student reaction to the new dormitory was one of surprise. "I thought the 2nd 2nd floor was where you went to get your new ID card from security," said Cha Na, SCW '4000, in wonderment.

"It's about time we got a new building. And so close to the school building, too. Only a walk downstairs to the caf." said Ruchi Ruchi, SCW '999.

The new dormitory, which will be named Ignatz after its founder, will house 1500 students, two to a room. Each room will have a pool, bathroom with whirlnool, full kitchen, waterbed and furnished living room.

Students are ecstatic about their new space. "I'm so excited that I can spend my one semester in a luxurious dormitory room," said an incoming early-early freshman, who came to look at the new dorm

Assistant Dean of Students and Everything Else Service Zelda Braun/Brown/Whatever said, "That's WONDERFUL!" again.

TAC Notebook Sale Raises Money for Faculty Salaries

By Michele TACless

In an effort to raise monies for faculty salaries, TAC has decided to direct all profits from its bi-annual notebook sale toward faculty

"We decided that no Tzedaka fund could be as chashuv as our Rebeim's salaries. Oh, and the secular teachers as well," said TAC President Sassy Bullet.

TAC, who usually directs all profits from the notebook sale toward a variety of charities, is putting every penny" toward the salaries, said Bullet. "Ani Ledodi Vedodi Li," she said, smiling.

Other TAC board members commented on the decision. "YIKES!" said TAC VP Howard Cossell Jarrett, Other TAC remarks heard around the two-building campus included, "Veahavta Lereacha Kamocha," "Tizku Lemitzva," "Eyfo Haceparon sheli?" and "Chazal teaches."

"When faculty and administrators were asked to comment on the generous donation, a variety of responses ensued. "That's WON-DERFUL," exclaimed Assistant Dean of Student and Everything Else Services Zelda Braun/Brown Whatever Mashgiach Ruchani Rabbi Tzvi Flaum responded to the donation by saying, "The proof of the pudding is ...

Professor of Judaic Studies Rabbi Alter Ben-Zion Metzger remarked to The Ignorer reporter, What school are you from?

Other faculty responses to the TAC donation was surrounded by much heated debate. Jewish Philosophy professor Dr. Charles M. Raffel said, "Let me tell you about this story in Life Magazine."

Dr. Sidney Langer, Sociology department head, monotoned, "Did you hear about that mass murderer today? Yeah. Very interesting.

The English Department refused to comment whatsoever on the newly donated salary increases except to say. "We're very happy

Ignatz taking a break after finding the new dorm (He's wearing his T-Shir his uniform

SEARCH FOR NEW DEAN BEGINS

Due to "stresses and tensions of the office." Dean Norman Rosenfeld has announced his resignation from his fourteen year position as YC dean.

"We suggested he take two aspirin to relieve the stress and try a new exercise regimen," said Vice-President of Academic Affairs William Schwartz.

Rosenfeld, however, would not budge from his decision. " I the university but sticking to my resignation as people beg me to stay provides many articles for the Commentator so they can have twenty page papers and seem like they have an abundance of news Dr. Harold Nierenberg will serve as interim dean. The Search Committee for a new dean is scheduled to meet Friday

Continued on pg. 3

By Amiracle Ruhy The decision to add two more inches to Milner's was made last week when students complained that the BrooksheildsDale Hall caf mart was not big enough.

SCWSCXYZ listened to the hungry cries of students by adding two inches to the snack shop. The increased square footage (inchage) will enable the dorm to always be fully stocked with goodies. As SCWSCXYZ President Laura HerNameIsTooEasyToMakeFunOf Gross said, "Student Council is hear to listen to the demands of its students. Their stomachs growled and so we acted?"

However, students had plenty to say about the changes. "It's cutting into the television area?" complained Jacoba Hanson, SCW 2000, "What happened to Andrew Shue on Melrose?" asked Allison Andbilly, SCW '99, who missed the show because there was no room in the lounge. Kelly Brandon. SCW '2001, said "we can't watch 90210 anymore. There is not enough room to sit comfortably. Malka Brady, SCW '3000, said, 'How can we tell if Jane and Jake build a bayit neeman beyisrael when there's no room to sit?!

The Site of the New Dormitory on the 2nd 2nd Floor Two Whole Inches Added to Milner's

> What in the world could be the problem with adding space to Milner's?" asked Assistant Dean and Everything Else Student Services Zelda Braun/Brown/Whatever, as students bombarded her with complaints about the added Milner's space. "I thought students wanted food readily available." said

a puzzled Gross

irate students have formed the MTV club (Move the TeleVision and VCR) to move the TV and VCR into the blue lounge. "We have something worth fighting for. and we believe that the adminstration should listen to us." said Pearl Fraser, SCW '9000, "Just like that episode on Cheers when they fought for the bar." Norma Pinchason, SSSBSCWSSSS '99. added.

VPSCWSCXYZ Sarah Altwoman said, "Hopefully, a compromise will be reached. Until then, students will be sitting on piles of Snapple while watching Seinfeld Diet Snapple, of course plan to continue teaching math in

PURIM1995: March 14, 1995

By Dafna Royal Flush Kalish

Cults are a very serious threat to our society. Here, at SCW, we may feel safe from the infiltration of the likes of such organizations. However, that is a false sense of secunty Right under our noses a new cult has popped up and is taking hold of SCW women in record numbers. The cult is "Solitaire."

The leader of this cult is a slow moving, slow speaking professor at SCW who teaches a basic computer course. On the outside it seems like a normal college course, but, at second glance the students, who appear to be paying intense attention to the task at hand are in fact, being sucked into "Solitane

The game captures students right after the "teacher" has successfully "bored" the students into starting the Windows program on the computer. This is where we lose them: immediately after Windows boots up, the "Games" icon becomes visible. To the naked eye it looks like nothing unusual but, in fact, there is a tiny laser beam that shoots out from the screen, shoots through the retina and begins to reprogram the SCW brain. The affected students are transcended into a coma-like state where the only functions they are able to carry out are clicking the mouse to move the Ace of Spades up on top and to move the King of Diamonds to the empty slot. Pretty soon, the player, once student, is transfixed into a game of blacks on reds and reds on blacks. The student may be forced to break out of this transfixion when the teacher yells, "I thought we were learning spell-check!" Otherwise, the student must turn off Windows or the computer. But, beware, the moment she reboots the machine she will be sucked in, once again

The Synor

SIGNS to look: the SCW student is usually occupying the back four computers. walks around with red, bleary eyes and dreams of Jacks and Queens flying through the sky

Save yourself, save your friends, drop Computers 1010 NOW!

Students in Computers 1010 Class. Notice the Solitaire on the Screen.

For a FreeT-Shirt Contact Jeffrey Rosengarten The Ignorer

245 Lexington Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016 340-7794. Fax (212) 725-9473. Published triweekly during the academic year by Stern College Student Council. The views expressed in any uting the executive year of section Congeneration Controls the views expressed in ede columns are those of the writers only and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of The server, the student body, the faculty or the administration of Yeshiva University. We do not signed colu endorse any products or services advertised on these pages.

Governing Board

Dara

Editor-in-Chief

Dara Executive Editor

Dara Cultural Arts Editor

Dara

Art Editor

Dara Features Editor Dara

Dara

News Editor

Dara Photography Editor

Dara Editorial Editor

Business Editor

Dara

Sports Editor

Dara Layout Editor

Associate Editors Dara-News DaraFeatures DaraBusiness Dara-Sports Dara-Lavout

Letters to the Editor:

Dear Editor

I have recently felt distressed as I've walked down the stairwells of Stern College for Women. Everywhere I turn I am faced with posters referring to a particular woman named "Dara.

I believe it began around Chanukah time when students were informed that their friend "Dara" was on the cover of The Observer. I don't know Dara and she is certainly not my friend. It is like when an advertiser says, "Coming soon to a theater near you" and you do not live near a theater.

It's not as though I didn't try to find Dara myself. I held up the front page of the Chanukah issue to every unfamiliar face but I couldn't find Dara

Then the signs kept coming. I began to feel that I was a stranger in a world of people who knew Dara. Dara -- a four letter word -- Does she really exist? Are you trying to drive me insane? I looked up every Dara in the phone book and came out with nothing.

I read your signs about how she is a Hunter and yet can be found in the midst of a chevruta. I thought perhaps she was a symbolic synthesis of Jacob, our father who remained in his tent, and Esau, who went out hunting

Does she exist? Please help me. Please tell me I am not alone. Please reveal the mystery of Dara. Do Answer Right Away! Dara Deprived

Obscurer:

Letter to the Editor: Purim 5755 Dear Editor.

I am writing about the Obscurer column. I wanted to let you know what a kiddush Hashem I felt that it was. While reading about the Achdus of YC and SCW and the true togetherness that all Yiddin feel while reciting Asher Yatzar. I would like to see more columns in The Ignorer that sincerely express the love and bond that we all feel with Hashem. Some of your other writers should take lessons from the Obscurer writers.

Thank You, A concerned Bas Yisroel

Politics at an Early Age: SCWSC President Laura Gross, (sitting center) always a queen; and YCSC President Daniel Billig, (right with hand in pocket) always a bie talker.

The Ignorer

Miss TAC USA

The first Miss TAC USA pageant was a source of controversy among administrators and students.

The pageant, sponsored by SOY, TAC, SSSBSC and RHTS, was intended to encourage proper dress among SCW students. "By demonstrating that a woman in modest dress can attract a great deal of attention, and even win a beauty pageant, we hope to prove to students that our dress code, which is in accordance with Jewish law, is necessary and beneficial to the student body (no pun intended)," said Dean Kosher Meat (not Bacon).

Some students disagreed. "Competition is always a negative thing," said Former SCW Senior, Hunter graduate student Dara Aronson. "While the competition may encourage students to dress properly, its effect is most likely to be ephemeral."

Deans Kosher Meat and Orderin responded to claims the competition was "shallow." "This pageant is unusual because its focus is on inner beauty, and not externals." said Dean Orderin. "Our winner was the girl who had the most covered but yet emanated warmth and beauty."

The winner, Sarah Beila Rivka Ruchel Goldberg, will be TAC president during the 1995-1996 school year. "I thank G-d I won this award not because, chas veshalom, I believe beauty should be emphasized," said Goldberg. "I am glad that I can serve as a role model in the Jewish community."

Some students were upset by the decision to have first prize be TAC president for the next year. "TAC president should be determined by the student body." said Aronson.

Pageant finalists were selected after a series of minor competitions. Contestants were flown to Walt Disney World in the heat of last August. They had to remain outside all day with at least a biz skirt and turtle neck. Those who fainted were disqualified.

Remaining contestants had to coordinate an Israeli dance for selected faculty members. They then received interviews from the deans.

When asked if there would be another pageant next year, the deans said, "Im virtzeh...."

Two New TAC Clubs: STUDS and Adopt a Hubby

LAC President, Sassi Buffet, introduced two new TAC clubs at last week's meeting Due to the great student response to the "Adopt a Bubby" and "BUDS" programs. TAC is venturing in a new direction this semester with clubs called "Adopt a Hubby" and "STUDS".

The "Adopt a Hubby" club has already attracted a large number of students interested in finding shufuchum. The program allows students to pair up with bachclors in the Manhattan area. The students visit these people at least twice a week. They can also go shopping with their adopted hubby, go to the movies or have a quiet evening in a hotel lobby. The Stern volunteers basecally attempt to fill the void in these people's hives and to simply be their companions.

"TAC's main goal is cheved," sud Bullet "While previously our clubs catered to helping the elderly or the infirm, "Adopt a Hubby" henefits Stern students and the Jewish community as a whole."

"It's such a good feeling to be a part of this club" said club member Dara Aronson "Not only do you feel as though you're helping someone else, but you gain so much from if too "

The other new club called "STLDS" has barely gotten off the ground. The purpose of this club is to allow Stem students the opportunity to improve their learning skills. While the "BLDS" program is Ushna, "STLDS" gives students an incentive. Sudents who are interested submit their names, a sideo of particular interest, as well as the type of gay, they would like to be paired with(eg. school in Israel). The committee heads their cardially examine each student requirements and pair each student with a "STLD" from Yeshisa College.

"It's like killing two birds with one stone," said FAC VP fizz larret. "Since "BUDS" was such a success, why not push that type of program one step further."

"We've finally found a way for Stern and YC students to meet under another guise," said Jarret "Since most of the "STUDS" are from MYP, I believe that our students will go to

The Commentator will pay $50, not only to writers, but to anyone who reads its Purim Issue. Contact Moshe Kinderlehrer.

SEARCH FOR NEW DEAN GOES ON AND ON

continued from pg. 1

The Search Committee, named for the searches that it conducts, has begun its search for a "torah u'madda" model to serve as the new YC dean.

Rumors that interim dean Harold Nierenberg will remain as the permanent dean have been cleared. "I am only remaining in this position so the Commentator will have something to talk about. Just imagine how many articles they'll have when someone clse comes in. Maybe we'll even do them a favor and have several interim deans." continued on pg. 4 Page

PURIM1995: March 14, 1995

Yogurt the Only Kosher thing in the Caf

By Marcie Schneider

In response to the recent uprear about tool hashgachas in the SCW caterria, all foods were recently labeled with their hashgachas and their supervising rabbis. In the process, the discovery was made that all caterria atems are no longer kosher, except for the frozen yogut

"It has come to our attention that there may be some questions regarding the kashins of all food products in the cafeteria," soid Cafeteria Supervisor Rabbi Yuzehak Vamila, "We're working on correcting the probiem, but in the meantime Stern students will ust have to eat the yogurt."

In order to improve the variety, a new line of flavors will be introduced to supplement the current one. A selection from the new menu includes evotic flavors like "Dramond Disguise, ""Flev ator Exuberance" and "Dorm Delight," all of which were created by the Stern Yogurt Company.

Ethnic nights will still remain a part of the weekly menu. Foreign treats such as "Faux Pepperoni Pizza" for Italian Night, "Instant Mashed Potato" for Russian Night and "Oil-Fried Falafel" for Israeli Night will grace the yogurt menu.

This menu enhancement is necessary because even the yogurt toppings are under questionable supervision.

"You never know what you can find in a raisin or a nut these days," said Vanilla. With the increase in flavor assortment comes the inescapable raise in price.

"Since yogurt is the only thing left on the menu, we may as well raise prices so people can use up the money on their cards." said Cafeteria Supervisor Mrs. Seltzer. "So, instead of charging 25 cents per unit, we'll now be charging $1.25 per unit." Another benefit to the slash in the regu-

Another benefit to the stash to the ega far menu is the substantial amount of environmental waste the school will be able to avoid

"This new system is really great because we can new save tons of money on paper goods. All we need to buy are the yogurt containers, lids, spoons and napkins. No more knives, forks and straws: no more ketchup, mustard, mayonnaise or duck sauce," said President of the SCW. Environmental Awareness Club Desha Tree, SCW '90, "It's also environmentally beneficial because we're eliminating all the styrofoam waste of the hot meal containers,"

The SCW Environmental Awareness Club approves wholeheartedly of the new idea, and intends to halt any potential plans for a return to the old caf way of life.

YC students are equally enthusiastic about the discovery at the midtown campus, because all money saved will go to help improve the uptown campus. A new dorm building will be built, complete with indoor tennis courts, raquetball courts, sauna, whirlpool and jacuzzi.

Another SCW mystery can now be explained-- the undisclosed recipe for scallops.

"I can't believe it. All these years no one's ever known the secret to the scallops... it's lard," said Brenda Fish, SCW '90210. "I guess that's why they tast: so good. They have a funny aftertaste, and the smell always reminds me of the fetal pigs in bio lab, but I've always just dismissed that as coincidence."

YCDS PRESENTS... WITH EVERY TICKET COMES A FREE ADVIL!!! SO GET YOUR TICKETS FAST FOR THE UPCOMING YCDS PRODUCTION.

SEARCH FOR NEW DEAN ON DURACELL-GOES ON AND ON AND ON

continued from pg. 3

Dean Harold Nierenberg has resigned from his position as interim dean at YC. "I wanted to give the Commentator some more to write about," said Nierenberg. Dr. William Schwartz has suggested that YCSC president Daniel Billig fill the position temporarily. "This will certainly provide much information for the Commentator." Billig refused to comment but said he reserves his "best" and "most meaningful"

continued on pg. 5

comments for radio.

An e-mailer desperately trying to logon E-Mail Fraud at Yeshiva University By Ina Net

This past Thursday night there was major upset at YC and SCW when hundreds of dateless students attempted to logon to the internet system made available to the students. Not one student was able to logon due to constant busy signals.

With seven available phone lines to connect to "yu1" there should be no instances of busy signals, explained Computer Advisor Betty Gordon.

Several frequent flyers on the c-mail airways got together to seek out the problem. After serious investigation, the students found out that there is only one actual e-mail account with 1200 logon names and passwords at YU, and the reason that students are having a difficult time getting in is because the computer detects that more than one person is logged on to the account. This as we all know is illegal. YU authorities refused to comment.

Students are quitting the e-mail services in record numbers and logging on to the newest service available Yeshivaserve Online. This service costs $1000 a year and will just be added on to your regular YU tuition. For more information write to Dafna (@yuol.com.

Eating Disorders Help Group Meeting in Koch-Wednesdays, Club Hour

By Amira RubyRed

In a recent spark of philanthropy, funds were allotted to improve one of the most important aspects of a college education -the repainting of the walls, but what many students are asking is "who chose these colors"

"Our hallways need color help like Pino's needs to do something about that smell," said SCWSCCCS '2002, Liora Lavan.

On a recent tour, many students discovered that the 20th and 11th floors were covered in khaki. "Putrid is the right term," said Joy Simcha, SCWSSSBXZ '99. As of yet, vomit green has been voted "Worst Color of the Year." Coming up at a close second is blind-me-orange on the 7th and 15th floors of BrookeShieldsDale Hall. Meanwhile. a sickly lavender has invaded the 5th and 7th floors of the school building. "It's hideous," said yearbook photographer, Cammie Raon, who avoids taking slfots indoors because of the nasty color scheme. "It's definitely not an appropriate color for a college. It belongs in a nursery school. Maybe in a kindergarten," added Ama Noot, a SCWSSSP junior majoring in interior design. On the other side of the spectrum, Atlistza Eyeopener, SCWXXC sophomore, said, "I like the purple." Her roommates disclosed that she is colorblind.

Studies have shown that there are certain colors that are more conducive to studying. According to the Color Institute of America (CIA), bright colors such as green, red and any florescent colors are reportedly detrimental to studying. Pastels such as pink, turquoise and peach are supposed to relax students and encourage good study habits. If SCWNM would put validity in these studies then students would be directed to the basement for studying to avoid the 13th floor. "That's color discrimination," Yaroka Adom, SCWSSSF '99, stated.

Many students hope that their floors will not fall victim to the color scheme that is ruining BrookShieldsDale Hall. "We've decided to move to the outside apartments!" yelled 20 students as they fled from the scene, clutching their suitcases.

"Why is money being wasted on such stupidities?" asked Sensi Belle, SCWXV sophomore. Assistant Student and Everything Else Services Dean Zelda Brown's only response was, "I really think the beige in the Beit Midrash goes well with the Shteinzoltz cover." Dean Orangelian was busy instructing the painters on what shades to repaint the dom's Orange Lounge and therefore unable to comment.

"If Stem receives money, it should go to creating a dormitory instead of just making castles in the sky," said Unbi Lee Vable, SCW senior. "I think the cash should go towards creating a card catalog for the second floor library, where, by the way, most of the books are kept," decided Esther Panim.

Further inquiries can be directed to the Student Resuscitation Committee (SRC), which took over after the Student Life Committee passed away. In the words of Chaya Arucha, former President of the Student Life Committee, "If you're irked by situations, complain to the proper authorities before the Administration appropriates funds to other useless endeavors. In the meantime, keep your eyes shut when walking around the buildinest?"

Outreach Loses All of its Advisors

By Ina C. Eswhy

Due to the enormous shabbaton attendance on campus, many outreach programs are desperate to get advisors back for their shabbatons.

"Because everyone wants to stay in for shabbos, and 99% of our advisors are from SCW, we are in an advisor drought," said Max Stern Outreach Coordinator Aaron Tirschwell.

The "advisor drought" was brought on by a 300% increase in SCW shabhaton attendance. About 90% of students who dorm are staying in on shabbos to take part in the overwhelming shabbat atmosphere.

"No way will I leave campus for shabbos, again. Hove it here," exclaimed ex-NCSY advisor Dara Aronson, SCWTRL '95.

"This is better than any NCSY shabbos!" said Chaya Leah, ex-f.ev advisor SCWTACSSSB '9999.

Because of the need for advisors, many outreach programs are doubling their salaries. "We're are now willing to pay $200 for their work," said Tirschwell.

But students don't seem to care about the money. "I don't care how much they pay me. I'll never leave," said ex-Bnei Akiva Advisor Rachel Yunger, SCWFFH '95.

Outreach coordinators aren't the only ones desperate. Parents haven't seen then: daughters in months. "If Ruchi is reading this, please tell her to come home. We haven't seen her since the summer and we tive in Brooklyn. Please. Ruchileh. come home to eema and aba for shabbos," exclaimed Mrs. Tzipora Ruchenheimer.

Assistant Dean of Student Services and Everything Else Zelda Braun/Brown/Whatever commented on the new shabbat atmosphere at SCW. "It's WONDERFUL!"

Head Waitress Dafna Kalish, SCWSCSCFDFJPOR '95, said, "I knew it could be done! All we needed to do was improve the cholent recipe!"

Cubic Zirconia Scare at Stern

By Dafna Kalish

After a shocking discovery Thursday night that her four-carat diamond ring had been switched to a cubic zirconia. Galia Green, SCM_{*}^{-3} 3000, went straight to the autonities

The Born's Security report stated that Green had been showering and routinely staring at her ring when she noticed that the sparkle and twinkle seemed to have fizzled and duiled. She immediately suspected that something had gone awry and ran to the daiond district to have her ring appraved.

Much to her chagrin, the behuddled jeweler told the distressed Green that her "diamond" was nothing but an excellently-cut Cubic Zircoma. Hatzalah Paramedics were instantly on the scene and Green was rushed to the NYU Emergency Room to be treated for shock.

Meanwhile, back at BrookShieldsDale Hall, hundreds of other yet-to-be-married SCW students were experiencing the same inghimare. After being Booded with fraiture phone calls, police officials and gemologists came to check out the scene. After taking 250 police reports and 250 "diamond" appraisals, police knew there was a problem. The one similarity in all cases was that each woman had showered sometime between 12:00 PM and 5:00 PM.

After turning off the heat and hot water in the building and taking some water samples officials found that there was a rare chemical in the water that covered perfectly real diamonds with a film that would convince even an experienced gemologist that the diamond was nothing but Cubic Zirconia.

Upon hearing the news, the engaged rushed to the jewelry stores for ring cleanings and were relieved to see their rings back to normal. The heat and hot water will be turned off in BrookShieldsDale Hall until further notice to remove the chemical from the water.

Green is in stable condition and will be returning to BrookShieldsDale Hall after counseling.

Administrators and students believe that

"It's clear the revelation of the three

The Search Committee, named for its

continued on ng. 6

the attention paid to the selection of the new dean was a ploy by the Commentator for names was simply a way to gain controversy," said YC senior Don Care.

searches, is continuing to search for more

ENERGIZER BUNNY GETS TIRED OF SEARCH FOR NEW DEAN

more attention

information

continued from pg. 4

The Commentator revealed the names of three candidates for dean, all of whom already turned down the position, leaving its credibility open to question.

"We are credible," said Commentator editor-in-chief Moshe Kindehrlehrerererer. "No you are not," said Vice President of Academic Affairs William Schwartz. "Yes we are," said Kindehlererererer.

"Yes we are," said Kindehlererererer. "No you are not," said Schwartz.

Other prospective deans include Desha Head and Mr. and Mrs. Troll .

Wil Shortz-Popular Guy

By Gila Reinit

Page 0

In the cafeteria during breakfast, in the hallways between classes and in the domis after dark, SCW students can be seen in tensely seruting us mich by six unch squares taken out of a newspaper. One thing's for sure, these tearings don't come out of Die lenore. They're from The New Y, or Univer and they are the ubiquitous crossword puzzles.

Classes have been nussed and sleep lost as a result of hours poured into the laboring over of clues. Editor of the puzzles, Wd Shortz, can't possibly know what a hitle fanclub is brewing here at SCW. Another thing he is probably not aware of is that while students can solve the Monday and Tuesday puzzles with relative case, therefore allowing them to catch the second half of the day classes, by the time we chiesday and Thursday rolf around students are either sitting in the carteeria from morning till mgbt asking everyone who walks by what the name of the financial advisor to the king of

Alumnae Corner By Sunshine Raindrop

SCW 170

Hey' I'm Sunshine Raindrop and my daughter, Mist Dew Raindrop, currently attends SCW. When she asked me to write something for the Alumnae Corner Tjust couldn't refuse.

When I went to SCW, rallies were aff leould think of Leven organized many sitions in the lobby during the war -whichever war that was. I remember when we refused to go to classes and the Rebbeim gave us all zeros. We all failed, I was expetted. SCW was great.

Ledcouraged Mist Dew to apply to SCW and she got in. (She didn't mention that I was her mother. That might have ruined her chances.) It's so groovy how she just loves Stern. She has all these cool friends and parties all the time. Maybe you've seen her around with her widecollared shirts and tied dyed skirts. She's awesome.

Anyway, now I'm a poet who makes money off of the train riders. Yeah. It's awesome -- I just tell them a poem and they give me a nickel.

Well, enough about me. Enjoy your years there. Peace. Macedonia in 212 B.C. was or are being committed by concerned friends to nearby mental institutions.

Students are also partaking in the 900 number that gives any three answers to a given puzzle (for those who can't wait that whole day for the answers to be printed). Seventy five cents per minute seems a small price to pay forklose three long answers that can help students work out the rest of the puzzle. When one calls, there's a slow and verbose recording (meanwhile, the meter is ticking away). The answers are given letter by letter so three clues can cost $56.25. But what peace of mind students have, what a good mght's sleep they are able to enjoy, knowing that they have completed Wednesday's puzzle

For your own good, do Monday, try Fuesday but forget the rest of the week. They're too hard and one's really destroying valuable brain cells that are necessary for such complicated shows as Melrose and Beverly Hills.

Ignorations The Search for a Fat Full Muffin

By Sima Morell SCWFAT 195

Help! Give me food. I need fat. I hate all of this garbage about fat-free this and fat-free that. I need, I crave fat.

I want the caf to have 50% MORE fat in every Entermann's item. Please. Keep the Ben and Jerry's alive. Give me food!!!!

Just try to stay away from the salads and the yogurt machine. You can do it. Then try to cut down on your lettuce intake. Just take it one day at a time. Soon you'll be guzzling down Hershey's bars and slurping chocolate Yoo-Hoos.

It is important to get fat in your diets and if you go overboard on the fat free stuff then you'll die!!! Give your bodies what they crave -- FAT.

Try my new book, "Eating the healthy way -- Eating Fat!" by Sima Morell. It'll do wonders.

"Meira, Just Meira!"

By Rinot Cone

In the midst of mass hysteria and schoolwide confusion Meira Shatz has announced that she will no longer be going by her renowned nickname "Shatz" but from now on will be Meira.

The decision was made last week when a student yelled "Shatz!" and Professor David Shatz responded as Meira proceeded into the elevator.

"The situation had gotten completely out of hand," she commented.

Professor Shatz could not be found for comment, but it is reported that he was getting tired of students yelling "Shatz" from the back of Great Ideas to get his attention.

This is expected to be an extremely difficult transition for much of the student body. Since Meira entreed Stern in 1992, she has gone by the nickname "Shatz." Apparently it began when a friend overheard her being referred to in the registrar's office as Shatz; Meira.

"How could I have known what would happen?" this "friend" who chose to remain nameless lamented. "How could I have known the problems it would cause, the people it would affect. How could I have known?!"

A task force is currently working to implement the name change. Signs are going to be hung around the school building stating "Meira, Just Meira" and Meira is working hard herself to discourage would be "Shatz" vellers.

Student reaction has been less than supportive. Former SCW senior Dara Aronson cried, "Now how am I supposed to do this? You might as tape my lips shut!"

Support sessions will be taking place every club hour until Passover Break and private counseling is being offered in the Student Services office for all who need it.

In the course of these proceedings two students have had the most at stake. As Dawn Schatz breathes a sigh of relief, Meira Drazin has begun to take legal action

WHAT UP! Some of you may not be familiar with my column, "Ask Tami", as it's neve been in print up until now. See, till now the column was just, like, a verbal one. People askin" me stuff all the time while on line for the registers, like I'm some kind of therapist, so I'm thinkin', hey, way to make some extra cash to supplement my salary from YU... answer all my fans' questions in the paper!

Some of you girls just don't know how to eat, see. You come up to the register with a big plastic bowl, and three pieces of lettuce in it, I'm happy to ring it up but what would your momma say if she knew that's what you ate? That's not eating! Then there's those of you who want to know if this is made with oil or if that's fattening ... Hey, I ring it up, I don't cook it, I don't know what goes in there.

Now's the time in my column when I thank all my friends who ask me friendly questions while they're on the line thinking that I don't see them pickin' at their salads before they've been weighed and paid for. Thanks for caring. I love those questions like: "How are you? Where you get your hat? Is that your real hair? What'd you do this weekend? How's Scan Brown?"

Fil answer: Fine, Sean B, got it for me. Yes, but I had it highlighted. I slept. He's all that.

Another thing -- If you say hi to me at the register there's just no need to circle back around to the juice refrigerator when I'm there and say "hi" again. I know ya friendly, honey, but, come on, buy your food, sit down and eat it. Don't be followin' me everywhere while I'm tryin' to work.

By the way, for those of you who didn't know, I don't have X-ray vision so if ya'll come up to me with a styrofoam container 1 am't gonna know what's in it unless you tell me. Just tell me everything you got all at once. If you're holding five things don't say, "I got a bagel and some gum." Then I gotta be prompting you, sayin' "And a ..., and a ..., and a...," as in coffee and a milk and a cereal and a muffin.

Ask Tami

You got a problem, you can ask Tami, but remember one thing- I ain't gonna be here forever, ya know, so come on over and see me, smile and for cryin' out loud, EAT, you people.

Tammi ready to ring you up?

Lifnim Meshurat HaDEAN-

continued from pg. 5

The Commentator acted "lifnim mishurat hadin" in going out of its way to advertise the YC dean situation, administrators said.

"We are searching for a candidate who represents a 'torah u'madda' model," said YU President Norman Lamm. Lamm had refused to comment earlier, causing a silence of the Lamms

continued pg. 8

Students Rally to Keep Meira's Name: JUST MEIRA

The Observer would like to wish everyone a Chag Purim Sameach. Please drive safely and don't take offense to anything written in this issue.

HAVE A NICE DAY!!

-- The Registrar's Office

PURIM1995: March 14, 1995

Lady Macs Games are Sold Out! Scalpers Selling Tickets at Exorbitant Prices By Rachel Hellman

On Feb. 29, the Lady Macs won their regular final season home game against John Jay in front of a sold out crowd at Madison Square Garden.

The game marked the 100th consecutive sold out crowd. The fains showed their enthusiasm for the team by continuously cheering the Lady Maes to victory. The noise was deafening.

Captain Rebecca Bienenstock said, "The SCW fans are great! They come out and show their support for the team every night."

One fan remarked, "The best thing I did was to buy season tickets. Now I never have to miss another Lady Mac game." Another fan echoed similar feelings. "Lady Mac tickets are hot! Luckily, I am a season ticket holder!"

Because many students are unable to get a hold of tickets, buyers must resort to scalpers. The scalpers usually hang out around the OTB on the corner of Lexington and 34th. They have been selling seats anywhere from $30 for nosebleed seats to $300 for courtside seats. But the scalpers are getting their asking prices because the Lady Macs are so hot.

Everyone at SCW is talking about the Lady Macs. Team stats are posted after every game. Team T-shirts, hats, sweat shirts and key chains have sold out, as quick as the games have. A new shipment is due in next week. One student said, "I don't know how I'll be able to wait until next week to purchase my Lady Mac sweatshirt!"

Athletic Director Steve Young has decided to begin selling next season's tickets. He advised, "Buy tickets for the '95-'96 season before they sell out by sending a check to my office at 500 West 185th or call 212-960-5211."

School spirit is at an all-time high, thanks to the Lady Macs. It appears the Lady Macs will receive the fan support they need to inspire them to another successful season.

NEW Dean Finally Chosen-Now You Can Sleep Better

continued from pg. 6

Administrators, faculty, and students breathed a sigh of relief at the selection of Norman T. Adler as the new YC dean. "Although some are questioning whether he fits the 'torah u' madda model,' we are glad to put an end to the COMMONtator articles," said all YU. Never Ever Continued

Return to Sender Cohen

7086 East Aracoma Drive Cincinatti, OH 45287

Dara: The Ignorer Mascot