PLANNED ADDITIONS TO CURRULUM FOR NEXT TERM

Administration Will Offer Embryology; Professor Horne to Return

The curriculum for the Spring Term, 1936, will be, aside from some minor changes in the main similar to that of the present semester, Registrar Jacob I. Hartstein disclosed this week.

Though all arrangements have not yet been concluded, the major lines which the curriculum will follow may already be discerned. In addition to the Education Department will be the course in Methods of Teaching, to be offered for the first time to fill a requirement for secondary school instruction. Embryology will be offered to science students, provided that difficulty in the matter of scheduling class meetings can be overcome.

It is confidently expected that Professor Charles Horne, of the English Department, will return to active teaching duty in February, to give an elective course in literature.

PROFESSOR S. LIPZIN AND DR. R. ROSENBERG TO SPEAK AT LUCHOW'S

WILL ADDRESS ASSOCIATION OF GERMAN TEACHERS

December 7

Two members of the Yeshiva College Faculty, Professor S. Lipzin of the German Department, and Dr. R. F. Rosenberg of the French Department, who have been prominent in the German Teachers' Association, will speak this Saturday evening, December 7, at a meeting of this group to be held at Luchow's.

The occasion will be the 100th anniversary of the banishment in Germany of the Young Germany movement, culminating in the burning of the books of the leaders of this movement, on December 10, 1835. The two Jews, Heine and Daniel, were prominent leaders of this new attitude towards life, and the anti-semitic battlecry raised by those opposing them was a potent factor in the issuance of the final decree.

Dr. Lipzin at one time was executive officer of the German Teachers' Association.

MEDICAL VOCATIONS Will Be Given Here Tomorrow

Medical Aptitude test will be administered to all Yeshiva students.

The Medical Aptitude test which has recently been made known here permits an examination for admission to medical schools of the United States, will be given at Yeshiva tomorrow.

The examination was adopted recently by the Association of American Medical Colleges, and the new ruling will apply to students desiring to enter a medical school in the fall of 1936.

All pre-medical students who expect to apply for admission to medical colleges have therefore been asked to see Mr. Hartstein, who is in charge of arrangements, at once.

The test requires approximately one and one half hours for giving. There is a fee of $1 for all applicants for the examination.

STUDENT COURT IS ESTABLISHED

Tribunal Is Given Wide Jurisdiction

With the recent institution of the Student Court, an important step has been taken in the setting of dormitory problems, according to Louis Engelberg, chairman of the committee of judges. The purpose of the court, Mr. Engelberg emphasized, was to cooperate with the student body in eliminating existing difficulties, rather than to set as a punitive body.

The court has been granted full jurisdiction over any infractions of the dormitory regulations, which were drawn up by the court as well as over all matters affecting the general welfare of the dormitory residents. If occasion arises, the court will make use of a parole system whereby a student under the constant surveillance of a roommate appointed by the court.

In more serious cases, the court may in its discretion grant the right to appeal to higher authority, in order to overcome lack of cooperation on the part of the student.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU STARTS YEAR'S WORK

Feigon Asks Students For Their Co-operation

Despite the fact that its members were first appointed last week, the Employment Bureau has been successful in securing several excellent positions for various students, according to Gershon J. Feigon, chairman of the Employment Bureau.

Feigon declared that he was disappointed in the utter lack of cooperation shown by the students, and that when a notice is on the bulletin boards that a position is open, he does not receive a response from the students.

"We are at present contacting the Post-Office and hope to place some students as helpsters during the Christmas rush," Feigon revealed, when asked as to his other plans.

The bureau to date, he asserted, has distributed some

REORGANIZED ART CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The low cost of painting as a hobby was the subject of a lecture given by Gerald Reov, director of the reorganized Art Club, at its first meeting held last Tuesday evening.

The lecture was followed by an open discussion on the program of the Art Club for the coming year. Because of the varying interests of the members, a compromise was arrived at to devote part of each meeting to instruction for beginners and another part of the meeting for individual instruction in varied fields of art. To encourage an interest in art, the club is offering a book on art for the first winner on Yeshiva life submitted by January 1st, 1936.

The next meeting of the Art Club, which will be held next Tuesday evening at 8:30 P.M., will feature an illustrated lecture on cartooning and its application by Mr. Reov, director of the club. Mr. Reov is a graduate of the National Academy of Design and at present teaches drawing in Talmudic Academy. He will give a course at Yeshiva College next semester on art appreciation and the history of art.

Library Now Reorganized; 25,000 Books Catalogued

A complete reorganization of the Yeshiva library is now being effected by the library staff. The time that this work will take cannot be estimated at present, since there are twenty-five thousand or more books to be catalogued.

Although the library contains many rare and valuable books and a vast collection of volumes useful to students in the study of Hebrew, it has slowly deteriorated to a state of disorganization in management and has caused difficulties due to the lack of cooperation on the part of the students.
An Excellent Opportunity

Reports that the Curriculum Committee is ready to function will undoubtedly be news to the many who have been disappointed in the past on the ineffectiveness of their petitions to the Administration for changes in certain courses.

An announcement elsewhere in this issue, the purpose of the committee will be to acquire those courses which a sufficient number of students consider necessary, and which are of a vital nature. Another aspect of the committee's work will be to arrange for the hours of these courses with the Administration so as to avoid any difficulty in fitting them into the allotted college hours.

By the formation of such a committee, Student Council has recognized a chronic cause of student dissatisfaction, and the best means possible to alleviate any further disappointments.

But its successful operation depends enormously on student cooperation. The committee has had enough time to discuss fully all petitions and particular cases with the authorities. For that reason, we cannot urge too strongly those students interested in new courses to draw up their respective petitions at once. Hand them in to any member of the committee, and the matter will be taken up with the Administration and the Curriculum Committee promptly. It is the only way to ensure that these matters will actually concern him will be the order of the day.

Awaiting A Decision

One of the newest additions to the realm of student government in Yeshiva has been the establishment of the Student Court. Organized at first for try ing to prevent infractions of dormitory rules, it is now expanding its prestige in recent weeks by the trial of a major case involving violations that have hitherto been regarded as solely within the jurisdiction of the Administration.

If the mere trial of this particular case raised the Student Court's prestige, its final decision, arrived at after full discussion, definitely earned the respect and confidence of the student body. The Student Court is to be wholeheartedly supported on its initiative and unbiased trial, and for its singular success in convincing the Administration to abide by its wise and liberal decision. None realized until the final trial that the lot of the defendants would have been immeasurably worse had they not been so fortunate.

The Old vs. The New

If any extra-curricular organization in the college has merited the cloak of tradition, it is the debating society. Formed practically simultaneously with the birth of the college, it is the symbol of victory in its initial contest—which never has been broken.

Yes, it is all the excitement that accompanies student life. The old vs. the new, the tradition vs. the times, the essence vs. the appearance. But it also is the makings of a tradition in itself.
ON THE SIDELINES

Scene: Commentator Room

A few nights before publication.

The newly-furnished press room seemed unusually quiet this evening. The muffled sound of the rain "tapping the window with a thousand nervous fingers," as the poets would say, was the only accompaniment to the droning gibberish of two of the reporters who were playing rummy in an inconspicuous corner of the room.

Attempts at writing had long been abandoned—and rather than listen to the varied goises coming from the "sidelines," I began to dabble with my favorite hobby—computing football averages. This occupation didn't last very long, for being a gent of a very nervous nature, a brilliant idea struck me—I decided to pick my edition of the All-American football team for 1935. My choice was based not on observation (Hell, anybody can pick 'em that way) but rather on newspaper records, statistics, and a something which puts me above the rest of the crowd of my sport scribbling fraternity. The following follows:

End—Milner of Notre Dame. If a pass is in his vicinity, he'll snare it. Shakespeare to Milner for a winning combination.

Tackle—Rukas of L. S. U. A lining бronco, if there ever was one. Tackle, smashes and interfaces with equal ferocity.

Center—Jones, Captain of Ohio State. Best roving center in many years. Against Notre Dame he took out three men and then made the tackle.

Guard—Wilkinson of Minnesota. Most versatile player of year. Performed also at center and in the backfield during the current season. Honor man at school.

Tackle—Latz of California. Has more playing minutes to his credit than any other player.

Quarterback—Larry is directly responsible for victories over Oregon and U. C. L. A. by his blocking of field goals.

End—Stanford. Said to be the greatest wing in the history of football. Is fast and wiser.

Quarterback—Wilson of S. M. U. 140 pounds. 4.4 in twenty. Runs with perfect perfection. Is one of the best scorers of the season.

Halfback—Grayson of Stanford. All-American for two years. Is rated over Erming on the backfield ace. Is a fine blocker, a grand plunger, and a great open field runner.

FRESHMEN LOSE CHANCE TO LEADERS

The Seniors, in the most critical game of the Inter Class League this season, showed their mettle in subduing the strongest freshman five in years to the tune of 22-15.

The upperclassmen gained an edge almost immediately and action had been begun by some snappy teamwork on the part of McFeuster, basketball prodigy of the Senior Class, and A. L. Cumming, who were moving down the court displaying "big-time" form, with Greenberg scoring the first basket of the game. Throughout the remainder of the first half, the Freshmen strove desperately for an upper hand but were stopped by the seniors, who ended the game with the score at 12-6.

The last half showed a decided rally by the underclassmen, who still did not score a point.

PARK RICHARDSON WILL SPEAK TO HEALTH CLUB

"The Health of the College Student" will be the topic discussed at the next general meeting of the Maimonides Health Society, which will be held Thursday evening, December 12, at 8:30. The guest speaker will be Dr. W. Park Richardson, the Medical Director of City College.

Officers for the coming year will be elected to succeed the temporary officers proposed at the last meeting. A discussion of the Medical Committee's status in relation to the students will follow and plans for the year's activities will be outlined. These include arrangements for the invitation of prominent men in the field of medicine to lecture at club meetings.

Dr. Richardson's talk is to be followed by an open forum to discuss problems of health on the campus.

Dembowitz Appoints Stamp And Sanitation Committees

larily interested in the recent addition to the Philosophy Department because other courses considered vital for future academic work had been refused, the students are now at the beginning of this term. The reason for this is that the institution could, under no circumstances engage in any expansion because of financial reasons. A Sanitation Committee was appointed by Morris Dembowitz '36, President of Student Council, because of the many complaints received concerning the condition of the college and dormitory buildings. For the present, the committee will consist of Louis Muss '36, Vice President of Student Council, and Issachar Eisenberg.

All complaints will be immediately investigated, and if substantiated, will be reported to the proper authorities for action. A particular objective of the Sanitation Committee will be to see that the buildings are properly heated at all times, Mrs. Dembowitz announced after the meeting. "Protestations of an insufficient supply of coal are inexcusable," he said, "especially since they have proved to be in the past constantly due to bad management rather than financial troubles," he continued.
