Student Body Head In Yeshiva History

I. Gordon, J. Gordon and I. Friedman Also Gain Student Council Offices

In the most amazing and spectacular election ever held in the history of Yeshiva College, Jacob Walker squeezed through to a presidential victory over Milton Furst by the minute margin of 59-56. Elected with Walker were Irwin Gordon, running unopposed for the Vice-President, James Gordon '44, Secretary, and Irving Friedman '44, write-in candidate for Athletic Manager.

Carrying only the Sessional and Sophomore Classes by the margin of 25-8 and 29-7, respectively, Walker was pushed to the highest rung of the Yeshiva College political ladder with the smallest plurality ever polled by a college presidential candidate.

Walker, active in school affairs since his entering Yeshiva in September, 1939, served as president of his class during his freshman and sophomore years, concomitantly writing for the "Commentator" as a regular reporter. During his junior year, he was appointed to the Governing Board in the capacity of Managing Editor. From this latter position he recently resigned in order to be eligible for the presidency. In addition, Walker actively participated in the school's athletic program by serving as manager of the tennis squad for one season.

Running unopposed by Vice-President, Irwin Gordon '43, polled a total of 133 votes, Gordon, recently praised by "Commentator" for the splendid job he accomplished as manager of the Debating Society, gained experience in the affairs of Student Council by representing his class during the past year.

In the race for the Secretarieship, James Gordon nosed out the class-mate, Joseph Speiser, by 95-75. Gordon served as president of his Freshman Class and, in addition, was last year's Circumcisional Manager of "Commentator." Supported by a strong write-in campaign, Irving Friedman came from nowhere to frustrate his previously unopposed rival's expectations by the healthy plurality of 51. The final vote was 101-52.

Film Industry Ends Campaign For Yeshiva Refugee Scholarships

The fourth annual motion picture campaign for scholarships for refugee students was a complete success and even exceeded the goal set at $5000, Mr. Jacob Saliman, President of Yeshiva College, revealed.

Under the chairmanship of George Cohen '43, who was appointed by H. K. O., the successful completion of this drive will enable ten refugee students to arrive and study at Yeshiva College during the academic year of 1942-43. Numerous letters of praise and good wishes were received by Mr. Schlesinger. Here are a few:

"I am mighty pleased with the results of your campaign. I am confident that we will make more of them in the future. I am glad you are doing this work in this noble Jewish cause."

"Congratulations to you for your unselfish devotion to this cause. I wish you all in your debt for the fine spirit of tolerance shown by you in this endeavor."
MEET THE SENIORS

Rosenthal, Folke: Take a Commentator editor, an intense student of philosophy, who writes articles and essays. Occasionally, more than all together, you'll have a next little pack,

Doinoem, a rather caustic line, which he used to dis-pact biting, Shavian innuendos, "I am a Citizen of the outer corner (we're not referring to his face) with a heart theory. He is decidedly undereducated although he'll probably end up an author or something, or a fine Zevi Aarong Shapnik.

Rosman, Neil: What the current editor is so, we couldn't know but he claims it's the air force. At least he's been living in

New York for the past year or so.

On the Sidelines

By Henry Marquis

With this column, your sports editor teases the existence of the old sports scenes to illustrate the current scene. Let us assume that you are going on a happier hunting grounds for the old sport types. Let us assume that you must. The future here on, new ma will take over this corner and, we hope, will indulge in the spirit of good sportsmanship and fair play which we have tried to maintain.

Let's pull an Al Smith and take a peek at the record. It has always been our policy to give as much enquiring interest to the inter-collegiate competition. Therefore, one of our earliest columns advanced an external program which allowed for inter-class competition in several sports. What happened in basketball and table tennis made our fondest dreams come true. But in baseball, football, and track the record was average. What can be blamed for the worst failure? And what can be blamed for the all time record?

In part the Athletic Manager was to blame for his failure to supply the proper equipment which might have meant success for the plan. But the fellows themselves were mostly guilty for the failure of the idea. Apparently they were not yet ready to blame for he failed to supply the equipment.

There is the whole story in black and white. Obviously there is a limit to what we can expect in the field of sports at Yeshiva. Our double burden of studies weigh heavily on us. Whatever facilities we have, few though they may be, must be put to use. When this is accomplished we shall actually have achieved the men-sans in corpore sanes.

The library will soon be graced with a registered librarian. Dr. Margalith has enrolled for special courses in library technique at Columbia University. Upon his completion of the required courses, it is our humble opinion that another invitation be extended to the representative of the MidWest States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, for whom the library will undoubtedly fulfill the minimum requirements of a college library.

The水库 College tennis team is scheduled to speak to the members of the varsity on Wednesday, May 20, to Joe Sokolow '42 or Sid Reiss '42. Sr. Sokolow or Sid Reiss.

Tennis Squad Meets L. I. U. And Teachers

The Yeshiva College tennis team is scheduled to face its stiffest opposition when it tackles the squads of State Teachers' College of N. J. and L. I. U. The match with the Teachers will be contested on New Jersey courts today, while Brooklyn will be the scene of the second day Friday.

In their initial encounter with a strong Drew U. outfit, the Blue and White were overpowered in every contest. Tor Fredman, playing Drew's number one man, Osgood, displayed a strong, encouraging game, but was defeated by the New Jersey Junior State champion, 6-1, 6-4. Al Balkowitsch lost in three weakly played sets and a result similarly experienced in straight sets by the other single men.

Again losing all departments, the Yeshiva squad was ignominiously whitewashed by Queens College, six sets to one. Balkowitsch and Abelow had carried their opponents to three sets each but, in his turn, lacked the will to make a fight of it.

Library

A temporary catalogue, mutilated, diut, has finally been produced under the guidance of Morris Chernovskiy '42. With the aid of three workers from the National Refugee Service, he provided every volume with two catalogue cards. Increased circulation and attendance can now be easily understood, complete figures will be published in the librarian's annual report.

Continuing the active student interest in the success of the Yeshiva College library, Martin Keller, Marvin Frutker, and Jack Green, all of '44, will compile a permanent staff. Their efforts extend through such diverse fields as group leadership, educational guidance, history, gift sales, and public opinion.

Incidentally, there is still a need for some rather small, comparatively insignificant items, e.g., money to purchase books suggested for student reading by the faculty. A college library falls short of the mark, if it fails to provide students with such presumably necessary materials. Despite the large number of books accumulated in the reading room, we should try to be maintained as proper purchases, and not to be neglected at the expense of inter-collegiate courses. By far the outstanding innovation that the cataloguing of the reading room, 407 into a reading and reference room. Books and circulation will remain at their present location, while specific hours will be allotted to circulation. Rare volumes will be put on display in new reading room.

Masmid News

Special hardcover copies of the Masmid will be made available to the student body, with a small additional charge. To reserve copies, students should apply in person before Wednesday, May 20, to Joe Sokolow '42 or Sid Reiss '42.

This year the Masmid is emphasizing photography. Candid shots of the campus, student activities, and members of the faculty will be displayed. The deadline for submissions is set for Friday. These convention photographs will be fully reviewed.

Undergraduates still have an opportunity to make 20% commission on all advertisements brought in. Arrangements are made with Sid Reiss '42, business manager.
