Upholds the Aristotelian Concept of Liberty in Informal Discussion

Dr. Alexander Litman of the Yeshiva College faculty, upheld the Aristotelian concept of liberty in an informal debate with Everett Dean Martin on the question "What Is Individual Liberty?" held at New York University on Wednesday evening, Oct. 29. Dr. Martin, professor of social philosophy at Cooper Union, spoke in favor of a modified version of the Aristotelian concept.

Dr. Litman is scheduled to give a series of three lectures at Cooper Union on January 7, 14, and 21, 1935 on Roman political philosophy. They will be a part of a schedule of public lectures on political and social philosophy to be given by various prominent men at Cooper Union this winter.

"ESTABLISH FORMAL EDUCATION CONTROL," SAYS BRODY IN BOOK

Establishment of a formal organization for educational control is suggested by Dr. Alexander Brody, professor of History at Yeshiva, in his recently published book "The American State and Higher Education."

Dr. Brody's book is concerned with the historic evolution of higher education in the United States. It offers a plan for the formation of an organization by several states for the direction and control of educational systems.

Published in Washington

The book has been published by the American Council on Education and Social Science Research Council of Washington, D. C. The American Council is engaged in a critical analysis of our educational system. A feature of the organization is the publication of works in the field on a non-profit basis.

This is the first of its series to deal with the basic data with respect to higher education. It is at present being used in graduate courses at New York University.

Library Staff Adds Five Members; Dr. Lowan, Alumni, Give Books

Circulation in the library and size of the reference department have grown to such an extent that five new members have been added to the library staff. This announcement was made by Leo Usdan, head librarian, in a recent interview.

The numerous additions to the library by Dr. Lowan and the Alumni have necessitated the increase of the library staff in anticipation of a large demand for these new volumes, according to Usdan.

Dr. Lowan has contributed some valuable works on the rapidly growing collection. These have placed on reference due to the frequent demand for them in the past.

Other accessions by the reference department include a new collection of Hebrew Literature in both English and Hebrew which have been donated by the Alumni Association.

The library is now in its fourth year of existence and was instituted and built up mostly through student aid. The reference collection consists of volumes useful to the majority of students in their graduate and undergraduate work besides encyclopedias, dictionaries and other standard reference works.

Permission for the demonstration, which is in accordance with the nation-wide mobilization of all colleges for peace, was granted last night by the administration.

Dr. Bernard Revel has officially given his endorsement and has promised the support of the entire faculty and administration for the peace meeting, a spokesman for the administration disclosed.

After a special meeting of the executive committee of

MAIL DELIVERED DIRECT TO BOXES

Mail for students residing at the dormitory will henceforth be delivered directly to the mail-boxes instead of the college office as heretofore, Hyman R. Friedman, '34, Chairman of the Mail Committee of the Students' Organization of the Yeshiva announced.

This new system was initiated in order to comply with the many requests of the students for the termination of the delays in the delivery of mail frequent in the past.

All letters addressed to dormitory residents, he stated, should bear the address "526 West 187th Street", as deliveries will now be made in the dormitory building three times daily including Saturdays.

The committee also reported that it will not be responsible for the letters of those dormitory students who do not possess a mail-box. Approximately one hundred students have already rented mail-boxes.

The mail-boxes committee consists of Hyman R. Friedman, '34, Chairman, and Frank Zafra, '37.

VOLUME II. NOVEMBER 7, 1935 No. 2

Callous Objectivity

Slowly the shudder experienced by this country at the news of the first casualties of the Italo-Ethiopian War is wearing off. The sudden actualization of prognostications flung over every corner of the universe for the past fifteen years was no little shock to the millions who had seen and read of the horrors of war. To a large section of public opinion, it probably seemed impossible that civilized man, the next door neighbor, could ever achieve the Jekyll-Hyde transformation war engenders so starkly portrayed in pictorial and written literature on the subject.

Yet, despite all the tremendous propaganda unleashed against war in the past decade and a half, the present conflict is settling down in the eyes of the public to a natural contemporary phenomena, much as a Chinese revolution.

Largely to blame are the newspapers. Instead of actually reporting and realistically portraying the daily casualties in their lurid details, the whole conflict is psychologically being built up into a giant sports event. The tedious preparations, the slow progress, the unending obstacles that must precede every battle—all these discouraging details are thrown into the mill of journalistic ingenuity.

Out of it comes a host of colorful descriptions, exciting incidents, and dramatic steps so thoroughly reminiscent of the high-pressure articles preceding a Rose Bowl tournament that the public is aroused to the same tense spirit of expectation. Questions such as: who was defeated? how many killed? have they taken the town? are hurled about with the same animated curiosity that enthusiastically awaits the results of a widely heralded football game.

In this callous objectivity towards the lowest depths man can sink lies the fundamental problem of pacifism. Of even greater importance for the solution of world peace is the non-sensical chatter of many a pseudo-intellectual who would justify the slaughter of thousands of innocent people because of a secret treaty between diplomats illegally promising Italy a part of an independent country. While such a contract would be voided without doubt in civil courts, the plaintive claim that a promise has been made seems to justify the murder of the flower of two countries, in as cruel a manner as only war can conceive. To those misguided souls who incessantly chant that Italy has a right to have a place in the sun, may we humbly pose the question, does the achievement of this abstract goal in any way justify the extermination of a generation?

To us, the causes of war seem so conclusively false and the toll of the folly so ghastly and cruel, that it appears incredible for any rational human being to consider it under any circumstances. Yet, the fact remains that to the vast majority war is not only palatable but seems inevitable and necessary. To throw up our hands in desperation and philosophise on the stupidity of war would be only defeating our purpose which is to keep our limbs attached to our bodies. The attitude prevalent concerning war today is partly a result of economic ignorance, and largely the reflection of the nefarious influences exerted by the jingoistic press of the country.

That Mr. Hearst has become such a power in the moulding of public opinion is only because of the dearth of educational zeal among the intellectual and liberal elements in this country. Mr. Hearst may have $90,000,000 invested in his journalistic enterprises but it required only the concerted action of the students to defeat the Nunn Bill, a cardinal plank on the Hearstian platform of perverted patriotism.

That victory, more than anything else, should conclusively prove to the student world the political power it could wield if it only would. In the present situation, there remains no alternative besides that of a united and militant student front against war. The influences, an active and spirited organization of this type could wield in the world of public opinion are tremendous.

While this movement may be attacked by all jingoistic, reactionary, and military schools of opinion as merely another manifestation of a gushing youthful idealism, we, the students of this country, will remain firm in the grim realization that ours is only a last and desperate stand against our own bloody extermination.

The Dining Room Again

News of the advent of a new dining room management this year was enthusiastically received by practically every student in all departments of the institution. While not very gullible for the usual run of optimistic predictions, the Yeshiva student has evidenced time after time a surprising faith in the silvery promises of every new management. Despite disappointments and disillusionments experienced in one unbroken line of unfulfilled pledges, the student body has still maintained its air of naive credulity towards the solution of food difficulties which manifests itself periodically in a mass patronage of the restaurant at the commencement of each successive regime.

This Fall the student body has no exception in any way. The beginning of last term into the expectation of an ideal college season as far as food was concerned, we lived to see the dining room descend to depths only the most cynical among us had dared to predict. Still, when the restaurant was opened for business again this term under a new concession, the student response, as ever, was spontaneous and complete. Surely no greater or more whole-hearted co-operation in patronage could be asked by any establishment. The students have actually turned out en masse to give the new dining room management their united support.

Whether the number of students patronizing the restaurant will remain as great as during the first few weeks is a problem whose solution rests squarely on the shoulders of the incoming restaurant regime. By dealing fairly with the students with regard to prices and quality of food, there is every reason to believe that the year will not only be a singularly pleasant one in the history of the institution but a decided financial success for the managing firm.

On the other hand, only by the complete satisfaction of the student body will the management ever be assured of a profitable enterprise. If the standards of good quality and low prices—a fundamental prerequisite of all college caterers—are to be maintained in Yeshiva, it may readily be seen that the success of the venture from a financial viewpoint depends solely on the large volume of trade. To antagonize the student body by refusing to grant various requests of a minor financial nature—minor, especially, when viewed through the perspective of a yearly turnover—will have only one result, namely, that of killing the goose that lays the golden egg. Surely no one is better qualified to recognize this elementary principle of business economics than the present dining room regime whose very existence depends upon it. To overlook or stubbornly refuse to understand this basic rule is only to doom a business venture to financial failure.

The Commentator, as well as the student body, extends to the new dining room management every wish for a successful season. We fervently hope the precedent established by other regimes in the past—of rapidly descending from the standards set at the beginning of the term—will not be followed by the present management.

The Masmid

Elsewhere in this issue appears an article announcing the appointment of the business manager of the Masmid and at the same time outlining the literary work for the coming year. The Commentator is gratified to learn from this and other sources that work on the Masmid is now past the stage of "plans" and that contributions of an acceptable nature have already been received by the editor.

This early start augurs well for a Masmid this year that should surpass all others both in size and in literary quality. This is as it should be. Yeshiva College beginning its eighth year as a recognized college of arts and sciences must turn out together with its fifth and largest graduating class a publication of high literary standard.

For the Masmid to become a year-book of a high caliber and at the same time maintain its

THE COLLEGIATE PRESS

By GLENN FRANK

President, University of Wisconsin
(Reprint from The Daily Cardinal)
Ed. Note.—Dr. Glenn Frank has distinguished himself as one of the most respected and well liked college presidents in the country today. By intelligently refusing to develop his position into an autocratic central administration claiming a monopoly on all thinking, Dr. Frank has succeeded in bringing about a fine spirit of good-will and co-operation between the University of Wisconsin student and faculty groups, an accomplishment every college president in New York City may well envy. The article that follows expresses the principles which form the cornerstone of Dr. Glenn Frank's success as administrator and which may be regarded as the sine qua non of peaceful and sincere student-faculty relationships anywhere.

The freedom of the press is never won. It is a right that must be continuously won, for the forces that disbelieve in its validity and dislike its vitality are sleepless. And these forces surround and snipe at the amateur press of universities no less than the professional press.

The freedom of the amateur press has most to fear from paternalism.

A student newspaper that is not free, within the ordinary boundaries of decency and under elementary obligations of sportsmanship and good taste, is worse than useless. But the passion of paternalism is powerful. Maturity finds it very difficult to believe that immaturity should be trusted with freedom. Maturity dislikes to see immaturity make mistakes, despite the fact that much of maturity's wisdom was learned in the harsh school of experience. When a student newspaper speaks its mind freely about the persons and policies of a university, when its comments, skating on the thin ice of that discourtesy which marks the boor, the pressure upon the university administration to censor and control the newspaper is always insistent. But I am sure that censorship and control of the student press by university authorities is a last resort weapon that can find justification only in rare circumstances.

When university authorities maintain a censorship of a student newspaper, it ceases to be a student newspaper and becomes an administration newspaper. In which case, why not publish an official paper and be done with it? I hope The Daily Cardinal will always be a student newspaper, proving that it appreciates its unhampered freedom, by mastering the art and amenities of a clean, courageous, and critical journalism.

ards as a journal of literary thought—a problem not faced by similar publications in other undergraduate institutions—an unprecedented amount of money will be necessary. To serve somewhat as an incentive and to cover expenses incurred in procuring and collecting advertisements, a ten per cent commission on all advertisements obtained by a student whether on the staff or not has been announced by the business manager.

The Commentator urges every member of the student body to cooperate directly in obtaining advertisements, so that an enlarged publication that will tell the real story of the college's progress and will reflect the real growth of the students' mind may be published. The Masmid is a student publication. It is the record that the student body writes of itself as it passes through its years of college life. That this record be properly written it is necessary that every student of Yeshiva College cooperate in writing it.

"ARMS AND THE MAN"

The thud of the basketball striking the backboard and swishing through the hoop brings one back to the glory that was last year's Varsity. And so, in honor of their fine record in the past and their good prospects for the future, we nominate for the Hall of Fame:

CAPTAIN HY ARANOFF—Frank Merriwell of Yeshiva... Potential summa cum laude... Ace in sciences, philosophy, mathematics, French, or what have you—Member of the varsity since he was a Frosh... Besides playing basketball, he swings a wicked bat, tosses perfect forwards, swims like Weissmueller, runs like a Paddock, Boy, I could go on for hours.

"RED" KASTEN—Athletic Manager for the third time... Knows more about theoretical basketball than any other player... Tosses a mean ball from mid-field... Knows his football and baseball (Still, he picks Brooklyn)... Excels in history, math, and dancing.

MAX LEVY—Best rounded basketball player Yeshiva ever produced; high scorer for the last two years... Plays any position on the court... graduate of Teacher's College... model of a husband and father.

MOE KRIEGER—The team's most erratic player... When he's good, he's excellent, when he's bad, he's—he's bad... Varsity man for three years... a follower of the muse... Writes beautiful love letters... His "celestial divinity" is the niece of Dr. Churgin. Well, at least he picks 'em with "yichus" (Some "loshon", eh boys?)

LOU MUSS—Vice President of Student body... center of Yeshiva quintet since '32... Lost a tooth for the team two years ago... It's still imbedded on the gym... Go look... Is the Yeshiva's triple threat man: eats, drinks and sleeps better than any other man on the team.

"SONNY" EISENBERG, popular co-op store manager... "Buyer beware" in the words of the ancients... Will sell you anything from B.V.D.'s to first editions... He's an up and coming ball player... Ardent indoor sport fan... Loves to play checkers, lotto, parchesi, and all other domestic games... Just a "stay at home" guy at heart.

MAGER—One of the satellites of last year's five... Fastest man on the court... Private life beyond reproach... chapel minyan, you know (minyan), takes notes in class, bathes weekly, (very good) and has with powder... Ah, 'tis the infirmity of his...

Not a GOLDMANN... Shipped a nana peel... and broke his... serves him right for wanting to... Consistent basketball...

Victory was late in catching up with the Juniors, or vice versa, in Monday's tussle with the Sophomore quintet at the Yeshiva court. The upper classmen pulled themselves up off the floor in an overtime period, and finally broke through a tie to win their opening encounter, 11-9.

Although Aaron Kaplan, fast-stepping Junior guard, sounded the final note of victory with a field goal in the last minute of play, still it was "John" Singer who electrified the game with thrilling shots and passes which netted most of the tallies for his team.

Tables Turned

The first half was a runaway for the upperclassmen, but the tables were turned in the third quarter, when Lifshutz and Rose, Soph mainstays, broke through the Junior defense, to make the score, 7-7. The fourth quarter saw a hot struggle for the lead, with both teams playing top form, in an effort to sweep the tide in their favor, but the basket would not yield and the quarter ended in a deadlock. In an overtime period, a sudden shift of play by the men of '37, momentarily unbalanced the lower termers, and Kaplan capitalized with a field goal. The game ended soon afterwards with the final score, 11-9.

Singer of the Juniors captured high scoring honors of the evening with seven points, while Lifshutz and Rose of the Sophs were next with a 5 and 4 counts respectively.

NEW PLANS OUTLINED FOR INTRAMURAL GAMES

Getting off on an early start, Aaron Kaplan, '37, director of intra-mural athletics, posted the schedule of inter class basketball competition for the first half of the newly proposed league. In outlining his plan Mr. Kaplan pointed out that this year's tourney would be divided into two half periods, with the winners of each half engaging in a post season playoff. This type of league has been established not only in the branches of collegiate sport, but also in many professional circuits, where it has enjoyed continued success.

The schedule for the first half follows:

CHESSMEN BEGIN YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

Beaten by Seth Low

Yeshiva College chess team lost its first match of the inter-collegiate chess tournament to Seth Low at the Marshall Chess Club by the score of 2½-1½.

Milton Shapiro '39, playing white and opening with the Queen's gambit won his game at the fourth board from Berzon in 21 moves. Captain George Silver '37, playing black at the first board ended up in a draw with Traktman after forfeiting a chance to win when he made an obvious move in the wrong direction. Shapiro and Silver scored Yeshiva's one and one-half points.

Morris Poupko '36, president of the Chess Club dropped his game to Trinsky after a costly misplay. At the early stages of his game it seemed as though Poupko would win, since he led by two pawns. Leon Katz '37, playing a defense at board 3, dropped his game to Hankin.

At a meeting held Monday evening, Nov. 4, at John Jay Hall, Columbia University, the New York City Collegiate Chess League, of which Yeshiva is a member, voted to accept the invitation of the New Jersey Suburban Chess League for a match consisting of fifty boards. Special importance is attached to this resolution because of the extraordinary number of players involved in the contest. Yeshiva College will be represented by 7 boards.

ATHLETIC BOARD WILL ASSUME NEW DUTIES

To Plan Complete Program Of Yeshiva Sport Activity

The formation of a Yeshiva College Athletic Board, was announced by Elihu Kasten '36, Athletic Manager, in a recent interview. "Sports have developed to such a degree in the last few years that continuation of a well-integrated athletic program in the college would be impossible without this additional aid," he stated.

On being questioned as to the personnel of the new Athletic Board, he disclosed that the following students had been appointed: Wm. Kaufman '36, Sports Editor of The Commentator, Marvin Hurewitz '36, Erwin Zolt '36, Aaron Kaplan '37, Kalman Levitan '37, Isaac Rose '38, and Nathan Burstein '39. Kasten announced that he would assume the office of chairman of the Board.

Plans Program

On the whole, the Athletic Board will be responsible for the yearly planning of sound athletic program in the college, intramural as well as intercollegiate. The Board will at all times act in an advisory capacity towards all questions of policy up before the Athletic Manager.

The office of publicity manager was entrusted to Kaufman, who will also act as representative of the Athletic Board in Student Council during the absence of Kasten. The funds of the Board will be held in safe-keeping by Harvin Hurewitz who is secretary of the Board.

Kaplan Active

The supervision of the intramurals will be assigned to Kaplan who is also acting in the capacity of co-manager of the Junior Varsity. Co-manager of the Junior Varsity is also Kalman Levitan, who has been appointed to assist Kasten as Assistant Athletic Manager.

In care of the lesser details and the mechanics of the Athletic Board are Rose and Burstein, both lower classmen.

Annual elections for publicity manager and treasurer of the above league were held at the same meeting. Morris Poupko '36, was elected publicity manager, while the office of secretary of the league was extended to include that of treasurer.

The membership of the league was increased by the admittance of City College. The organization now consists of seven metropolitan colleges: Long Island University, Columbia University, City College, Brooklyn College, and Yeshiva College.

Student Mobilization For Peace At Yeshiva Meeting

Student Council called for this purpose, Morris Dembowitz '36, president of Council, announced that the full cooperation of all extra-curricular organizations will be thrown behind the movement to insure its success.

Executive members of the Students' Organization of the Yeshiva, the Teachers' Institute and the administration of the high school unofficially assured Dembowitz, who is in charge of the student committee on arrangements of the college, of the active participation of their respective student bodies.

According to tentative plans, the faculty members addressing the mass demonstration will include Dr. Revel, president of the faculty, Dr. Leo Jung, Professor of Ethics, and Rabbi H. Lookstein, Professor of Homiletics.

Editors Will Speak

Morris Dembowitz, Moses I. Feuerstein '36, Editor of The Commentator and Simon Noveck '36, Editor of the Massid, will speak in the name of the Yeshiva College student body. There will be speakers to represent the S.O.Y., the Teachers' Institute and the Talmudical Academy student bodies. As we go to press David W. Petegorsky '35, is the only speaker definitely appointed to represent the S.O.Y.

Although the greatest mobilization of student forces against war in the history of this country will take place tomorrow at 11 A. M., circumstances have made it impossible for Yeshiva to hold its demonstration before Monday. The fact that 11 A. M. has been fixed as the time for Yeshiva's demonstration will serve to unite Yeshiva with the simultaneous demonstrations sponsored by the student and faculty groups all over the country, which will take place at the same hour tomorrow.

CO-OP STORE EXPANDS; TO SELL BANNERS AND PASTERS TO STUDENTS

Engraved Stationery Sold As Policy of Weekly Specials is Begun

Erwin I. Zolt, '36, manager of the Yeshiva Co-op Store announced that "banners and pasters will soon be displayed for sale on the newly installed shelves of the store so that students may have an opportunity of displaying their college spirit." The Students' Council has granted a loan of fifty dollars for this purpose.

Among the new innovations in merchandise on sale in the Co-op Store is the introduction of stationery for student's personal use. A 'Y' encircled by the Yeshiva college seal is in the upper left hand corner of each sheet. For the dormitory students, envelopes of the same quality as the sheets with the Riets Hall address can be obtained. Mr. Zolt revealed however, that non-dormitory students may purchase plain envelopes without the Riets Hall superscription. The Co-op Store also has among its new features Parkette pen and pencil sets which were placed on sale two weeks ago at a figure fifty cents below the advertised price of leading New York City department stores. Moreover, he stated, through the medium of the store students may avail themselves of the opportunity to buy new books at a reduction of twenty per cent.

It is the policy of the Co-op Store to place on sale each week some new specialty. To acquaint the students with these specialties, notices will be posted on the bulletin board which is directly outside the store.

The staff of the Co-op Store consists of Erwin I. Zolt, manager, Isaiah J. Eisenberg, assistant manager, and Lester Silverman, assistant.

COUNCIL ADOPTS RESOLUTIONS AT SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of the Student Council was called last Thursday and the following important resolutions were adopted.

Resolution 1: Whereas all extra-curricular organizations bearing the name of the Yeshiva College may be formed only through the sanction of the Student Council, no limitations on the activities or prerogatives of any such extra-curricular organization shall be binding except by legislation to that effect by Student Council.

Resolution 2. All Yeshiva College student extra-curricular activities shall commence activities at the beginning of the fall term unless a specific time is stipulated for one or all organizations.

Because of the difficulty students encountered in arranging for courses and programs with the administration, a curriculum committee of three members was formed. The duties of the committee will consist of arranging with the administration for new or old courses desired by a sufficient number of students. Another function of this committee will be to act as an intermediary between individual students and the administration in settling any difficulties the former may encounter. It was stipulated, however, that all cases taken up by this committee will be at their discretion and to be judged on the merits of each case.

GORDON RE-APPOINTED AS BUSINESS MANAGER

The reappointment of David Gordon '37 as Business Manager of the Masmid was announced by S. Noveck, newly elected editor, as the first step in preparing for an enlarged edition of the publication which is to appear in May 1936. The associate literary staff of the magazine has not as yet been disclosed. Indications are, however, that the associate editors will not be appointed until later in the year.

Work on the Masmid has already been started. The deadline for all articles of a literary nature is February 1st. This early date has been set in order that the magazine may go to press during May instead of immediately before graduation as has been the case in the past.

More material will be expected from the students than has been forthcoming in previous years. The Masmid this year is to include both a year book and a literary magazine under one cover.

In order to cover expenses for an enlarged magazine, a minimum of $400 must be obtained. A commission of 10% on all advertisements, whether obtained by members of the staff or not, will be given. Candidates for the Business Staff should get in touch with David Gordon.

Senior Yeshiva Students Organize Vaad Hapilpul

Feeling the lack of the true conception of Limud Ha-Torah within the Yeshiva, a group of Senior Yeshiva students have met and organized the Vaad Hapilpul organization of Yeshiva College.

As outlined by Leon Katz, '36, president-elect of the new college extra-curricular activity, the aim of the Vaad Hapilpul is to stimulate the true spirit of Talmudic understanding and to enable the development of original thinking in Talmud among the Yeshiva students.

Each member of the organization entering as a charter member of the Vaad, pledged to deliver a Pilupl at regular intervals stipulated by the group. The officers-elect are: Rabbi A. Zimmerman, Hon. President; Mr. Leo Katz 37, President; Mr. Meyer Karlin '37, Vice President; Mr. A. Gray '37, Secretary; Mr. Nathan Taragin '36, Corresponding Secretary.

The first lecture was given by Mr. Meyer Karlin on October 31. The next will be expounded by Mr. M. Isarowitz '36, C. N. Y., on Thursday, November 7.

*Mild and yet they Satisfy
—how do you do that?*

Well, to start with, we take tobacco from our own Southland—mild ripe tobacco with lots of natural flavor but no harshness or bitterness.

THEN AS A SECOND STEP—

We blend this home-grown tobacco with spicy, aromatic Turkish tobaccos from across the seas. These Turkish tobaccos, you may know, have a flavor and fragrance entirely different from our own.

AS A THIRD STEP—

These tobaccos are cross-blended—welded together—the best way we've found to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette.

THAT'S WHY CHESTERFIELDS ARE MILD AND YET THEY SATISFY

In a single day people from ten different states visited our Chesterfield factories. 8,200 visitors during the past year saw Chesterfields made.
