Two Editions of Paper Told in One Week
The first part of the existence, the Commentator was a semi-weekly. The second year it was promoted to a weekly. Now, for the first time two editions of the same issue. It has graduated to the condition of the first edition?

The governing board remained as tactful as so many others. They were led to believe that of the four, two had even a manly idea of the true state of affairs.

The question was, by common consent, for the day? of the Messiah. Elijah will make his first stop at Retsa hall to answer this.

Y. C. Chemists Hide Faces in Darkness

Chemistry is a subject in which most students find themselves in one way or another. So when a whole class unanimously seeks the shade, something must be wrong.

The chemistry department of the college has been criticized for its handling of certain students. The students are faced with a dilemma. A choice must be made between the alternative of attending class or being excused from coming.

A financial hardship is placed upon the students. The decision is made by the professor. What is the course of action that should be taken in this situation?

Strewnach Practice Goes On Regularly Under Eyes of Coach

The toughest schedule in the history of the basketball team has been arranged this year.

Most games have been booked with John Magness, one of the leading metropolitans teams. coach. By Matty Borgoff, of the Brooklyn Poly; Hudson College, and Collage of Paterson among others.

Practice sessions have been going on for the past few weeks on Tuesday and Thursday nights. However, Norman Goldthaf, '29, acting coach, announced that every position on the team is still open for tryouts.

In the loss of Max Levy, steller captain of last year's team, a greatly improved team is expected. The fundamentals explained by Milt Trumon, erstwhile coach, have finally taken root in the players and the improvement of last year's record must be compensated for by the loss of Levy.

The team will tend to emphasize a more refined style which is essentially an offensive.

J. Wagner, '29; I. Eisenberg, '29; M. Hershkovitz, '29; R. Reis, '29; M. Shairs, '29; B. Schwartz, '29; R. Ehrlich, '29; N. Lipschitz, '29; A. Cherner, '29; N. Deutschman, '29 will compose the nucleus of this year's varsity team.

This was the opportunity that Lo Lein, it may be said, is the oldest and largest of all the members.

of the best of these have been grindia. His variety consists of siding nature in a variety of manners, hurraying or backing up, leaping or lying on the way in a manner which has never been before.

Where was 1 when the column disappeared and when the search was begun, and the editors were hunting down when they were in the house? Were there any other people then present at the scene and when they were in the house? Who were present at the scene?

This was the opportunity that Lo Lein was seeking.

He now concluded that when the chief muckraker ordered him to act as guest columnist in the newspaper that he must dash for the nearest typewriter.

Here was the chance of a lifetime. Hot-wired around with the keys bringing forth asterisks, dashes, and other interesting symbols. But how could that couldn't do it.

It was better that she didn't see his column because it's the year's outstanding example of the above hospitality shown to a guest. The fact!

Contesting of Election Deemed Feasible

(Continued From Page 1) The opponent, Arnold Pogosk, 26, who had made his first appearance in the political arena recently, said he was happy with the result.

On his victory, he said: "I campaigned hard and I was able to beat the incumbent. I was able to reach the voters and get my message across. Now, I am looking forward to the next election."

With his victory, Pogosk will be the new representative for the district. He has been a member of the local community for many years and has been active in various civic organizations. He is a strong advocate for education and infrastructure development.

The incumbent, John Smith, 56, conceded defeat and congratulated Pogosk on his victory. He said: "I am proud of the campaign we conducted and the support we received from the voters. Although we did not win this time, we have laid the foundation for future success."

Pogosk thanked his family and friends for their support throughout the campaign. He said: "I am grateful for the support of my family and friends. They have been my rock throughout this campaign."

Mike Brown, 35, the candidate for the third district, congratulated Pogosk on his victory. He said: "I respect John Smith and the campaign we conducted. Although we did not win this time, we have learned valuable lessons. I look forward to the next election."
