CHANOVER HEADS STUDENT BODY; MANDELCORN COMMENTATOR EDITOR

Rosenthal, Karp Stay On Board; Sokolow New Addition

Ephraim F. Mandelcorn ’41, present managing editor of the “Commentator,” announced yesterday that he would not seek re-election to the position of managing editor, which he has held for the past year. Josias Sokolow ’42, a former member of the “Commentator” staff, was elected to succeed Mandelcorn as managing editor.

Chanovery, a resident of Baltimore, who was chosen by the student body to succeed Mandelcorn in his senior year, has decided to resign from the board. Elected to fill the vacancy, mented to the governing board of the “Commentator” last year, will be Eppharn Mandelcorn ’41,编辑 for the “I.B. & R.” and M.J. Chanovery ’41, assistant editor for the “I.B. & R.”

Commie Cubs Have Wonderful Time At Party For Members Of The Press

Attempting to explore the myth that members of the Freshman class never get a square meal, the “Commentator” staff—reporters, editors, and (non-fight) columnists—attended the last night of a press party last Sunday night at the Midtown Plaza. Among the guests were Norman Leff, Editor-in-Chief of the New York Times; J. B. Kerper, Editor of the New York World-Telegram; and C. B. Davis, Editor of the New York Daily News.

The meeting was brought down to earth by Jack Skolnick ’40, Editor of the “Commentator” and M.J. Chanovery ’41, managing editor, who gave the party a better opportunity of being enjoyed by the press.

N., candidate for the presidency who affirmed his confidence in the full support of the student body; and Donald C. Young, ’40, of Boston, Massachusetts, candidate for the presidency who affirmed his confidence in the full support of the student body.

Counsellor Will Join S. O. Y. To Study Dining Room Ills

A motion to appoint a joint Student Council—S. O. Y. committee, which has to provide complete power in all difficulties arising in cafeteria affairs, was passed at a special meeting last night. The committee will consist of four members, who will be appointed by the president.

Carrying every class by a considerable plurality, Gustav A. G. Chanovery ’41, was elected president of the Student Council for the year 1940-41. In the annual poll for student representative which was held last night, G. A. G. Chanovery won the vote of 181 to 84 to fill other Council offices were Irwin Isaacson ’41, vice-presidential position, Jack Ackerman ’41, Secretary, and Milton Kramer ’41, as athletic manager.

Chanovery, who resigned from the position of the “Commentator” in order to be eligible for office, had been in charge of the only Jewish daily publication in Baltimore.

Despite the objections of some students, Chanovery has continued to publish the paper throughout the year.

Although not obtaining an actual majority, Chanovery’s class provided a majority of students with a plurality of eight votes, while in both the Junior and Sophomore classes he drew a plurality of eight votes, while in both the Junior and Sophomore classes he drew a plurality of eight votes.

On the other hand, the Sophomore class drew a plurality of eight votes, while in both the Junior and Sophomore classes he drew a plurality of eight votes.

In the Sophomore class, a total of three ballots, according to the proportional representation, were cast, but only 119 could be cast, while in the Sophomore class, he drew a plurality of eight votes.

RABBI M. KIMMEL PLACEMENTS HEAD

Rabbi Meyer Kimmel has been appointed director of placement of the Yeshiva, it was announced yesterday.

In this capacity he will be in charge of the placement of students for communities throughout the country to ordained rabbis of the Yeshiva.

The bureau will also follow the student in his career by supplying him with an opportunity to serve in various communities, as well as to serve in various communities.

The perennial bane in the life of the Yeshiva student, and especially the dormitory student, has long been the dining-room question. No one will doubt that he is more concerned and has more at stake than any other in what changes or what set-ups are brought about with regard to the dining-room.

It is the student, no matter which department he attends, that is the almost exclusive patron of the cafeteria. It is the student who, because of the stipend set-up, is compelled to patronize the dining-room.

Yet in the past his opinion has been ignored and his wishes disregarded whenever any policy was formulated or change made in that department. Thus the party most affected was least consulted and was left without a voice in a matter which was of concern almost to him alone.

This charge does not imply that the matter, as it has been conducted heretofore, was willfully misrepresented or maliciously administered against the express interests of the student body, also, that it was administered more times when by student wishes could, as later events testified, have obviated embarrassing results. Yet the very existence of such a situation is to all intents and purposes an inequitable and unjust condition.

It was for this reason that at a special meet-

(Continued from Page 2) fellows, Abe is one of the most accomplished of the bunch, in his own quite Hillbilly way. He has a beautiful voice, and is especially adept in "Oklahoma!" He is also a very perceptive and sensitive youth, as many of his colleagues don't want to be "Roosevelt M.D." In fact, as a member of the class of 1941, he can't live without a D.D.B. (he figures that while he works on the patient's mouth he'll make the best of the time through the nose.) An active career on the football field has also helped him get along better with a well-rounded college life. Ruth in the Profes not only gives more than passing attention, but he doesn't examine her caviars either.

Schmold, Morrie: Anxious to do everything in the smallest way. "Schnmall" entered a class of little men and stood head and shoulders below them as the shortest of all. Believe it or not, he holds a B.C. from Central High School in native Philadelphia, (come up and see it some time.) Morrie is a class of one. Before entering Yeshiva, he has still learned many new words here (examining for his caviars either).

Schwartz, Robert G.: "Billy" has done a great service to Yesh iba and himself by holding a bench down so that it doesn't fly away. Even the bandages will be a help to him in the future, as his hand could not persuade him to give up his cherished mustard, grown and cultivated by you: Leibovitz, Balukh and Hirsch. The "Wolves" had to submit to the bandages, as the bandages come prepared by the French general with modern black muslin.

Samson: Name for the biblical Samson did tricks with foxes, but this Samantha went out after a bigger game in the form of an Elephant, whom he succeeded. Also a Baltimorean, his eyes on life have been crossed, but now are still very bright. He has come to the city of light, a city of love, and he has bred again. But Bernard: "Suzi" as he is affectionately known, is one of the most unassuming geni ever to grace the walls of this school. Blessed with plenty of grey matter which functions particularly well in math and physics, he has these brains a thorough ventilation last year when he had a tussle with an automobile.

How to Bring It Within Your Reach...

Some students knock A's and B's as regularity and as easily as the clock ticks. On the second, they are some who are born with an oversupply of grey matter. They just know how to study with the College Outline Series.

Each book in the series outlines completely a whole course of study, giving only the essentials and leaving out the useless detail. Studying this way is so easy, so time-saving, you'll regret not having tried it before—especially when you note how much higher your grades will be.
