Who's Who Reveals Personality Plus Of the Seven Pillars of the Yeshiva

By ABRAHAM WIEJNER

Though Yeshiva may not be seven pillars of wisdom, the following seven seniors who have been selected for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" know what it means when it comes to student service: Jack Green, student council pres., twits a mean Talmudic thumb. He put his larynx to good use in the interests of the Debating Society and is a regular character in many a basketball game which Yeshiva won by a nose. He is a fine, attractive personality, with a happy face.

Paul Orentlicher, editor of "Comment," has a yen for the pen and the speaking platform. He is an extra-journalistic type who makes splendid pronouncements to his staff. His style tends toward the Helenic. Peter Roth and Abraham Isaacs are his chief extra-journalistic interests. For this he needs no apology.

White Paper Denounced
By Civic, Religious Leaders

Literary Journal Makes Debut

Willkie Message
Assembly Theme

- The policy of the White Paper may lead to a situation in which the Jewish people will be no longer a recognized nation. This is the conclusion of the newly appointed committee, which gave it birth, and, as that philosophy has been discredited, so has the White Paper been blotted from the page of American thought.

Dorethy Thompson Speaks

Miss Dorothy Thompson, commenator and political advisor, asserted that "It was no longer a question as to whether there should be an undeclared war."

"The question is, shall the Jewish Homeland be allowed to grow and the Jewish people be enabled to work toward Palestinian destruction?"

"It can be destroyed, of course, in one of two ways. It can be blasted out as the Polish ghetto was blasted out by the gaspato or it can be allowed to wither in an inglorious death.

The first step toward dismemberment of the problem of the Near East must be a clear-cut division of the political spheres of sovereignty of Jews and Arabs." That division, Miss Thompson said, is clearly hinted at in the Balfour Declaration.

Rabbi Joseph Laksztick criticized those who write the White Paper but oppose a Jewish Commonwealth.

By SIMON ECKSTEIN

The initial issue of Talpioth, a literary quarterly devoted to the fields of Halakha, Agada and Jewish history, has already gained the immediate acclaim of many of our outstanding Rabbits and erudites for its content and form. Book reviews have cited it as a "shining example of a vibrant, pulsating, rich and vital Talpioth under the editorship of Rabbi Samuel K. Minsky, professor of rabbinics at the Bernard Revel Graduate School and associate professor of Bibile and Hebrew Literature at Yeshiva Col lege, with the assistance of Dean Samuel A. David...

The latter article concerns the doctrine of repentance.

Declaring that the United Na tions must prevent the closing of Palestine either at a temporary or permanent basis, Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 Re publican nominee, last Monday night called for the abrogation of the White Paper, which "...announced, in the future, no further nationalization into Pal estine next April.

Mr. Willkie voiced his plea in a message to all Jewish leaders of Carnegie Hall, West 57th Street, marking the 26th anniversary of the Balfour Declara tion, in which the British Government pledged its support for the establishment of a Jewish National Home in Palestine.

"The policy of the White Paper may lead to a situation in which the Jewish people will be no longer a recognized nation. This is the conclusion of the newly appointed committee, which gave it birth, and, as that philosophy has been discredited, so has the White Paper been blotted from the page of American thought."

Mr. Willkie wrote. The meeting accepted a resolution asking the president of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt "that all appropriate action be taken to secure the annulment of the White Paper with its unjustifiable restrictions on Jewish immigration and territorial advancement in Palestine."
Rabbi Krumton Memorial Held

A memorial meeting for Rabbi Seymour Krumton was held Sunday, Oct. 18, at Congregation B'nai Jacob Synagogue. Chairman Rabbi Solomon Wind compared the occasion to the death of Aaron's sons when the fire was 'sent to the sinners,' because of his overwhelming sorrow.

In commenting on the departed's versatility, expressed his profound regret that a man in the era of various songs and poems. He added that there were not empty orations could be seen from Rabbi Krumton's accomplishments, such as the Yeshiva University. Graduated from Yeshiva College in 1941, he received a M.A. at Columbia University in 1945 with his ordination from the Yeshiva. He published a triannual series of ten books, which he lectured in such high schools. Plans are being laid for the publication of his philosophy of the Jewish letter of various rabbis, the only true memorial to such a man.
