Medical School Establishes A Professional Partnership With Montefiore Hospital

Yeshiva University's Albert Einstein College of Medicine and Montefiore Hospital have established a new professional partnership which will permit an expansion, both in student body and in scope of research, at the medical school.

In the recent announcement of the link, Dr. Marcus D. Kogel, dean of Einstein, stated that Montefiore would be the school's prime hospital affiliate. The present teaching hospitals associated with the medical school are Abraham Jacobi and Nathan Van Kemen Hospital, the Bronx Municipal Hospital Center, with a total of 1400 beds.

These affiliations will continue, but will now be supplemented by the addition of 1100 new beds, 700 at Montefiore itself and 400 at Morrisania City Hospital, where training and medical services are the professional responsibility of Montefiore's administration.

More Students Needed

Dean Kogel noted that Einstein would now admit about fifty additional students to the third and fourth year classes, with subsequent increases in the first and second year classes. At present, the freshman class is comprised of ninety-six students.

All of the full-time staff members of Montefiore will be appointed to the faculty at Einstein, along with a number of the part-time physicians. The professional faculty at the medical school is now more than 900. The fifty-year-old affiliation of Montefiore and Columbia University will be terminated.

Folk Enthusiasts Line Up For Masmid's Hootenanny

The Greenbriar Boys, the Tantrum, Jean Marry, Dimiriti and Daniel, and Logan English will be featured at the third annual Masmid show to be held at the Hunter College Assembly Hall, Sunday, Nov. 24, at 8:00 p.m.

The show, which is staged for the benefit of Masmid, the senior class yearbook of Yeshiva College, will include a folk music talent betting between the band and the guitar. Master of Ceremonies Logan English, a graduate of Yale Drama School, has sung at Carnegie Hall and Town Hall, and has performed on campus throughout the country. This Riverside and Monitor recording artist plays both the banjo and the guitar.

Recently graduated from college, the Tantrum have already appeared at many of the leading colleges in the East and Midwest.

Jean Marry is an expert marksman and linguist as well as an accomplished vocalist. Dimiriti and Daniel, although newcomers to this country, have performed extensively in Europe and the Middle East. They sing popular and folk songs in ten different languages.

Folksinger, executive director of the show, has predicted that "With the concerted effort of the entire student body, faculty and administrators, the Masmid show this year should prove to be an exciting and memorable event."

The general public has been invited to purchase tickets by calling to Masmid, Yeshiva College, 500 West 183rd Street, or the stages assigned to the show.

Belser School Holds Seminar

Twelve outstanding physicists and mathematicians discussed "Some Recent Advances in the Basic Sciences" at the second annual science conference sponsored by Yeshiva's Belser Graduate School of Science, October 14-15, at the Statler-Hilton.

Prof. Henry Prinska of the University of Pennsylvania and Prof. Elliott Monroil of the Institute for Defense Analysis were chairmen of the physics section, while chairman of the math section were Prof. A. A. Albert of the University of Chicago and Prof. Martin Mari of the Institute for Advanced Study.

The speakers in physics and their topics were: Prof. M. Goldhaber, Institute of Nuclear Laboratory, "Neutrons," Prof. C. Yang, Institute for Advanced Study, "Weak Interactions," Prof. J. Schwartz, Harvard, "Fields and Particles," Prof. T. Gold, Cornell, "Problems in Space Physics," and Prof. C. Wilson, "Theoretical Physics of the Hadron Model."

Yavneh Announces Expansion; Series of Lectures Are Planned

The Yeshiva College chapter of the Jewish Student Movement of the 1963-1964 academic year, according to the president of Yeshiva University's chapter, a new lecture series should prove to be major influence on Yeshiva with continuing success.

The first lecture was by Dr. Irving Greenberg, professor of history at Yeshiva. He spoke on "The Jewish Position on Civil Rights." In another series, jointly sponsored by the New York Regional Committee of Yavneh and the Association of Orthodox Jewish Scientists, Dr. Walter Yoder will speak on "The Current Status of Science and Religion." The second speaker will be Dr. E. T. Welch, Jr., on the Elephant, The Jest, and the Problem. In another series, Jewish work on translations of classical work on translations of the Bible and current Jewish philosophical material into English. Membership in Yavneh is open to all students at Yeshiva.
Wasserman New Athletic Manager: Plans Include One All-Star Squad As Replacement For Division Teams

In a major appointment decision, SC President David Berger announced that Harold Wasserman '65 has been selected to serve as this year's Athletic Manager. "Chico" will fill the position vacated by the graduation of Abba Borowitz.

The main function of the Athletic Manager at YU, which until two years ago was an elected office, is to administer the intramural sports programs. And for this year, Harold has some new and exciting ideas which should revitalize this extracurricular activity and double the number of students participating in it.

The intramural basketball schedule will no longer include games between the various religious divisions. In years past, these games were very poorly supported or attended by the student body. As a substitute, Chico plans to form an All-Star team which will challenge class teams, a Smicha team, and possibly the college variety.

Each intramural team will elect a co-captain. These men will arrange all team practices and will be responsible for seeing that the starting five for the games as.

As a new intramural activity, interclass competition will be introduced in volley ball. This feature, made popular in gym classes by Prof. Wernstein, may prove to be the most exciting addition to YU activities in years. According to Chico, the volleyball program.

Pigskin Banquet Cancelled Again

The annual Yeshiva University Gridiron Banquet, previously held on the anniversary of Rabbi Mayer Edelman's Bar Mitzvah, has been cancelled for the current year. Why this sudden shift in plans? "To be frankly honest," said starting football coach and Associate Bursar Selden Sohn, "this move was precipitated by Yeshiva's football season, for... (Continued on pg. 5)

Chico, a very popular Junior, is a student in RIETS, attending Rav Aaron Soloveichik's shire. A native of Newark, New Jersey, he is the brother of two married sisters and uncle of five nieces, the latest arrival coming last week.

Economics Major

Harold plans to major in economics next year, with a minor in Rabbinate. A star performer on last year's wrestling squad, he will probably repeat this season as captain.

At YU, he is a member of the Biology Club and writes for its journal. He is an active participant in the intramural program and played a great deal last year. As if this weren't enough, Chico also runs a "deparment store" on the upper floor of Rubin Hall. He buys merchandise such as shirts, slacks, and bags from professional designers but sells them to fellow students.

New Blood Needed For Varsity Teams

In anticipation of the upcoming sports season, Yeshiva's coaching staffs are beginning their annual drive to mold strong and flexible teams. New maneuvers are planned and more experienced and skilled athletes will be sponsored. When competition begins, each team must be an efficient, well-coordinated machine, able to perform smoothly.

This pre-season effort is great responsibility and work for students as well as coaches. Part of this heavy burden falls on the shoulders of the captain, the "team boss" who works with each member of the squad to perfect strategy and iron out kinks.

This job is by no means an easy one. Consider the problem that confronts Jerry Chassy '66, captain of the fencing team. His lineup is considerably shaken with only two starters returning from last year's squad. Yet Jerry has hopes for a satisfactory season sparked by a crop of promising sophomore additions.

Champion Chances

Among the returning lettermen, Captain Chassy will be anchorman on the team that went to Warren Goldberg '55. Chases, incidentally, participated in the National Fencing Championship in Los Angeles over the summer.

On the saber squad, Dan Landsman '64, Manny Miller '64, and Sandy Dresin '64 will fill out the lineup.

Because the nucleus of experienced personnel is so small, a call is going out to every freshman to help maintain the Tauber tradition of excellence. Given a large turnout, Coach Tauber can certainly select and train high calibre fencers who may one day equal or better Warren Zeeck's phenomenal 40-2 record of two seasons ago.

Wrestlers

Problems of pre-season selection and training are not limited to fencing. Goldberg has left the wrestling ranks without lightweight George Brown and middleweights Benjy Leifer, last year's co-captains.

Candidly discussing their depleted line-up, grapplers co-captain Joel Frensky '64 and Jeff Berger '64 hope that fresh man participation and interest are of major importance to their team's welfare.

Jeff holds the quick-pin record at 35 seconds, mentioned that a freshman will be allowed to compete in his first semester if he qualifies. Indeed, one need only recall Jeff Berg's impressive record after his first season in the sport. Lightweight division needs candidates.

Dear Freshmen and other interested neophytes,

Lend me your undated ears.

I have come neither to bury the athletic department of Yeshiva College nor to praise it. After all, you who are new to this school and don't know what to expect are entitled to the truth.

So, without recourse to undue condemnation or commendation, here is the authentic story of the sports program of this suspicious institution. (By the way, the word "suspicious" is short for "the oldest and largest among the Orthodox Jewish schools," the shibboleth of all Yeshiva activities.)

Of primary importance is that Yeshiva has always had an athletic department, ever since the school opened its shining, gold-laminated doors to the first freshman class. Now it doesn't take a lot of aesthetic rationalization to explain why. No less an authority than Maimonides declared in Maimonides III:25-23:1 the following:

"Boys' exercise in its different kinds is necessary for the proper preservation of health in the opinion of him who understands the science of medicine. . . . When people take exercise by playing with the ball, wrestling, stretching out the hands or keeping both the breathing . . . such actions are more pastimes in the eyes of the ignorant; but the wise do not consider them unimportant."

To implement this fundamental belief in bodily recreation, Yeshiva requires its students, even those with handicaps, to take some physical education class every semester. This perennially raises complaints, especially among new students. To be sure, few if any secular colleges, and therein lies the rub, give the student an added investment in life. Such hodgepodge is truly irrefutable.

Nevertheless, this is putting it mildly, athletic conditions at Yeshiva are far from ideal. As you may have noted, the smaller nucleus of our physical education program—the college gymnasium—is ridiculously small and poorly equipped. In fact, what is new, and unfortunately will continue to be for some years, the gym was originally meant to be either a swimming pool or just locker and storage space.

The marvel of Yeshiva's intercollegiate sports is that despite these wretched conditions each year we do remarkably well against larger, secular schools with conventional facilities.

Current stars, and I hope some athletic minded new readers, will be saluted on this page in coming issues for their contribution to our fine competitive record.

So, Freshmen, perhaps you now see that Yeshiva education is not merely a process of deadening one can in order to sharpen up the other. Both physical and mental development are stressed in keeping with the highest ideals of Judaism.

Next issue, G-d willing, I'll step down from this insipid pulpit to report on Yeshiva's World Series in the more customary athletic arena.

Good luck and Happy New Year.
Dr. Bacon and Senior Class Consider Graduation Plans

Dr. Isaac Bacon, dean of Yeshiva College, announced that a new class will consider a new format for graduation. The request was announced to the senior class at a special meeting.

The new graduation plan, according to Dr. Bacon, would allow for a more flexible format that would better suit the needs of the students. The dean explained that the current format was designed for a smaller class size and may not be suitable for the current cohort.

Seniors To Decide

Dean Bacon requested that the seniors decide among themselves what format they would like. He added that it would be up to the students to decide if they would like to attend a formal graduation ceremony or opt for a more relaxed format.

The college is expected to implement the new format, which includes a new location for the commencement exercises. The plan is to hold the ceremonies on campus, which will provide a more intimate setting for the students.

The seniors were asked to vote on the new format, and the results will be announced at a later date.

Yeshiva College Institutes National Honor Society For More Social Science Study

Pi Gamma Mu, a national social science honor society, has been invited to Yeshiva College. In 1964, Dean Bacon and Jacob Linder, '63, applied for school membership, and the honor society was accepted in 1965.

Applications are now being accepted for the social science honor society. Interested students are encouraged to apply and join the society.

Professor Judged Highly

The Yeshiva College, Cappell, is highly regarded for its excellence in education. The college has a long-standing tradition of producing outstanding scholars and has consistently been ranked among the top institutions in the country.

The college's reputation is further enhanced by its strong focus on the social sciences. Pi Gamma Mu, the national honor society for social science students, is one of the many organizations that recognizes the college's commitment to excellence in this field.

Rowdy Rubin Residents Raised Renowned Ruckus Resulting In Rigid Reactionary Resolutions

The problem of late night noise in Rubin Residence Hall was one of the topics discussed at the recent Dormitory Committee meeting. It was the first such meeting this year.

The noise problem was discussed at the meeting, and it was decided to take action to address the issue.

Freshmen Shatter Records; Both Numeric And Academic

The largest freshmen class in the history of Yeshiva College has been announced. The college has admitted a record number of freshmen, and the average freshman class size is 377.

The mean high school average of the freshmen is 3.9, and the average College Entrance Examination grade is 560. The freshman class is made up of students from 16 states and six foreign countries.

Dr. Minsky emphasized that the college is committed to providing a quality education to all students, regardless of their background. The college has a strong track record of success, and it is expected that the freshmen class will continue this tradition.

Gottstein Student Free Loan Fund Has A Remarkable Eight Year Record

The Student Free Loan Fund has been a valuable resource for students in need. The fund was established in 1955 to provide financial assistance to students who were unable to afford tuition.

The fund has been successful in helping students to achieve their academic goals. The fund has provided assistance to over 1,000 students, with over 70% of them successfully completing their studies.

This year, the fund has set a new record for the number of students it has helped. The fund has helped over 200 students in the past year, and it is expected that this trend will continue in the future.

Audience Is Enthusiastic To Singer Presented In First Dramatics Series

At the first of a series of Dramatics Societies programs, Jose Feliu, a student at Yeshiva College, performed in a musical play. The audience was highly enthusiastic, and the event was a great success.

Folk Singer Jose Feliciano Supports Future Programs

Jose Feliciano, a popular folk singer, has announced his support for future programs. He expressed his commitment to continuing to support the college's educational initiatives.

A Mass Condemnation
For A Plain Massacre

by Elsoura Neubauer

Thursday, October 24, 1965

No discussion, even if it takes place in the highest international forum, can bring back to life the two young men who were murdered in the green fields of the Galil. All the same, the stand of the Security Council represents a moral condemnation of Arab murder and of the government of Syria, which bears the responsibility for it.

From the official statement of Mr. Golda Meir, Israeli Minister for Foreign Affairs.

It has been called a hot and nervous border. Beginning on the edge of the Jarmuch River in the Jordan Valley it extends to the upper northern part of the Galil. Only here do Israel's Arab enemies hold a topographical superstructure, and nowhere else.

Syrian positions (including both outright military encampments and armaments in the hands of veteran soldiers) dot the mountainous region. This is the result that between December 4, 1962 and August 18, 1963, the United Nations passed a resolution in which fire was directed from Syria into Israel. But life continued normally" at the Israeli agricultural station at Majmoua in the Galil, despite the fact that every house and road in the border settlements of the Galil, had army artillery trained directly on it. But at ten minutes past seven on August 19, 1963, even that disorganized or a normal life stopped for two Almog agricultural students, who were killed by a mortar shell fired from Syria.

First there are three possible reasons why the incident has occurred at this particular moment. Secondly, the true origin of the mortar shell which caused the deaths of two people and injured a third, still remains a mystery to us.

Letters

The矿物质 has perished its mind on the file, which cannot be yielded in this student body but since to date the newspaper has not received any letters, it would appear that the students have nothing to express.

A synagogue was held by the President in the name of the students. Mr. Silverman, the assistant professor of history, told us that the incident was not a matter to be silenced, and that University policies are overdue.

Arab students and proper authorities the matter would be continued.

Considerations for the obvious reasons for the Syrian attack is not new. and, we are not new. that University policies are overdue. and, that the President's mysterious disappearance affects the whole world that for humanity.

...the goldman...·...·...·...·...·...·...·...·...·...·...·...·...·.

The Agony And The Ecstasy

The art fee was imposed twice before September 1, this year. It almost smacked into the books as a permanent aspect of ready tuition bill, but Mr. Scoc, director of student finance, saw to it that this was not the case.

For his vigilance Mr. Scoc gets the students' thanks, because, well, we realize that University policies are rarely changed. Whether or not the art fee had any justification to begin with is not a matter to be dealt with here. Suffice it to say it is gone, and, we hope, never to be seen again.

The Leisure Class

Student Council and the Administration are to be commended for reaching an understanding governing the academic calendar. In future years there will be no classes between Yom Kippur and Succot. We feel that the background to this notice will be invaluable lesson to the student body in understanding the why.

Last June, Student Council brought to Professor Silverman's attention that a calendar change was desired. In September, SC was told that if a memo were sent to the proper places, no matter what would be rectified. However, the necessary correction was not to be cleared at a meeting of the Deans. On Tuesday, erev Rash Hashanah, the Deans' Committee gave an unequivocal NO to changing the calendar. As late as erev Yom Kippur Mr. Abrams emphatically said there would be classes.

Then, on Monday of these interim days Mr. Abrams announced that the RIETS libraries were going to be closed until after the Yom Tovim. At the same time Professor Silverman told SC President David Berger that the days off would have been considered if a memo was mailed. (The memo wasn't sent because of a veto by the Deans' Committee.)

Thus, this year inconsistency and unnecessary red tape have caused major travelling inconveniences to students. Although students are not new, and are not new, they are not new. They are not new. To avoid this, they are not new.

The question has been asked: Why did Israel go to the UN this time? the suggested answers include:

-Russian-Syrian relations have worsened, and Israel hoped for▵ to stav fulminated in the Security Council.

-The recent "American" test-ban treaty gave Israel reason to hope that the incident would not be used to support the Western resolution.

-The Russian delegate showed an interest in attending to consult Israel by agreeing to meet at the UN during the current meeting time - to discuss the matter with

Goldwater Backers Wave Their Flag

Wily Willy Wins His Way;
Anxious World Looks On, Sees Red

by Artuz Beckler

A chronic disease called the Goldwater virus is spreading across the United States showing definite signs of destroying our modern version of the Roman Empire. This virus is viewed not only by Americans who look at the situation from inside the body cavity but also by the leaders of all Western nations who look to America as a source of support. If this vaccine fails of Goldwater's intention, I think I will turn to the United Nations, which, founded after the last century, is a de facto government of the world. This statement is definitely hijack and illogical.

The United Nations, to this day, has not held a single meeting. If one adheres to the new de-facto and de-neglected eighteenth and nineteenth constitutions in which the United States is a member of the NAACP and yet has not even a television program be on the air to publicize this fact, and which are a definite supporter of states rights. This stand is definitely hypocritical and illogical.

On the decisive civil rights issue Goldwater has prodded-out or straddled the fence as he won't vote to invoke cloture to end a Southern filibuster on the civil rights bill. He claims he is a member of the NAACP and yet on a recent television program be on the air to publicize this fact, and which are a definite supporter of states rights. This stand is definitely hypocritical and illogical.

In the 19th Century Goldwater served in the United States, as a member of the NAACP and yet has not even a television program be on the air to publicize this fact, and which are a definite supporter of states rights. This stand is definitely hypocritical and illogical.

Recent comments from the American party of the Japanese have suggested that peaceful co-existence is possible with the United States.

Young America would do well to re-xamine its views but just in their fervor they destroy America, not build it.

Prime Minister Encounters A Serious Arab Problem

Talented Thespians and Tasty Tunes: Tovarich Top Theatrical Theater

by Stephen Kleiman

Being a standby is like being intentionally walked — you’re all ready to go but are not chosen. The following is the experience of going on at Yeshiva University. The step was a sadder one than expected, and the result was a difficult one.

Problems

A standby not only doesn’t appear in the play, but rarely appears at all. This is the case with the current production of Tovarich, featuring sailing Miss Leis. The performance is a temporary replacement for the sailing Miss Leis, which could not return. The show is to be performed at the Yeshiva Theater.

Successful Debut

Slightly to the surprise of the audience, acting as the sailing Miss Leis, Teddy Copeled, made her debut at the Yeshiva Theater, having been sailing from Ohio University. She portrayed the role magnificently, and the audience was left in awe of her talent, as well as the rest of the cast.

One such stand by was Joan Copeled, who has understudied the role of "Miss Leis" in the Broadway musical comedy "Tovarich" from its onset on March 18, 1963.

Two weeks ago, Vivien Leigh, who had been planned as the aforementioned leading role, became ill and could not appear in the production. This presented a serious dilemma, and after much discussion, it was decided that Miss Leis would "make the show." With no alternate Miss Leis available, Joan Copeled was chosen as a temporary replacement until the sailing Miss Leis could return.

The play is a comedy set in pre-revolutionary Russia, and is based on the novel "Gone With the Wind." The show is directed by David Shaw, and includes music and lyrics by Lee Holdhein and Ann Crosswell. The production is directed by Jacques D'Amato, and the cast includes Bob Barlow, Ann Crosswell, and others.

Dr. Soloveitchik Has Warning: Irregular Lab Methods Fatal

Dr. Soloveitchik, associate professor of chemistry at Yeshiva College, has warned the national laboratory that irregular laboratory procedures may shorten their lives.

Dr. Soloveitchik, author of many articles and papers in chemical journals, presented a paper at the recent 145th American Chemical Society national meeting, urging research chemists to use more caution in their experimentation. His paper was entitled "Did Schles, Davy, Cruikshank, and Woodhouse die from the poisonous substances in their laboratories?"

The chemists shorter lived, Dr. Soloveitchik claims that evidence shows that the chemists died from the poisonous substances in their laboratories. These substances are dangerous to poisonous, which sometimes damaged their minds and eventually led to their deaths. He claims that current statistics show that even day research chemists lead shorter lives than other people. Such chemists will never be prevalent, even despite advances in safety measures that have been made.

YC Administration Goes Into Vending Operation

In a major policy decision, the Student Council of Yeshiva College reorganized its rights to the school's vending machines. The move was accompanied by a mandatory attendance ban on the school's first council meeting of the year, September 25.

David Berger, 64 president of Student Council, reported that the administration was planning an increase in its annual per capita subsidy. Council will now receive 12% of the student, $3.30 more than last year.

Mr. Berger stated that he suspected that council would have to be able to meet this increase under the present vending-machine arrangement. He noted that the income from the machines had increased greatly since the Fall of 1962, when most college classes were moved out of the Main Building to Furst Hall. Jeff Gillman '64, vice president of Student Council, read a list of appointments to the various committees. Mr. Berger mentioned that there were no appointments still open on the Alumni Vocational Guidance Committee, Hospitality Office, and a committee to get speakers.

In other action, Mitchell Wolfberg '65 moved that council have a bi-annual audit with an auditor, which motion was unanimously passed.
